SMALL AUDIENCE FOR GREATEST SHOW ON THE MOON

Most Marinites were asleep in the early hours yesterday morning when the moon and the earth teamed up to stage an encore of that perennial favorite — a lunar eclipse. Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn stayed up, however, and captured one-half of the event, from totally bright (left photo) to total eclipse (right). Picture five shows flare on the lower part of the moon because Arn exposed for the darkened portion of the moon — in the earth's shadow but dimly illuminated by stars and refraction from the earth — and picture six is blurred because the exposure was one minute long so as to capture the feeble light, and the moon moved in that minute. The eclipse started at 1:11 a.m. and was total at 2:36 a.m. One of the shortest lunar eclipses in decades, it was visible in portions of North and South America.

PETALUMA STUDY

A Year-Round School Plan

By BONNIE BARD
(First of two articles)

Long summer days of fun, frolic and leisurely boredom may soon be only a memory for hundreds of Southern Sonoma youngsters because of studies under way in the Petaluma High and Elementary School districts to extend the school year to 12 months.

In the Petaluma school system — as in many other areas with growing student populations — educators are faced with crowded facilities and increased operation expenses. And taxpayers are reluctant to assume additional burdens asked of them through bond issues and tax rate increases.

For some districts, the sole means of relief has been to stretch the usefullness of school facilities by seeing they don't stand idel over long summer months.

Petaluma school officials now are thinking in that direction, and a report on the feasibility of extending the school year will be made to the board of education Feb. 8, possibly with a recommendation to start a pilot program in September.

The project could start at the high school level, where student growth has been heaviest in the past five years. Enrollment at the four junior and senior high schools has jumped from 4,038 in 1966-67 to 5,639 this year, and a new junior-senior high school, Casa Grande, is scheduled to open in the fall.

One of the present junior high schools, Kenilworth, has grown by 400 students in the past five years. It now has 1,238 students on double session. Petaluma Senior High School was designed for 1,300, but has accommodated nearly 1,700 through staggered starting times.

"Even when the new Casa Grande High School opens in September, the enrollment at Petaluma High will still be about 1,600" said Dr. Dan Montgomery, director of the year-round study in the Petaluma school system. The schools are at opposite sides of the city.

Although the enrollment problem is less urgent in the seven elementary schools — now with a total population of 3,193, up from 2,878 in 1966-67 — Montgomery said a jump in population is certian as the community expands, especially on the Eastside.

A variety of year-round study programs has been tested in other areas —some successful and some not — but most divide the student population into four groups, with only three of the groups in school at a time. By sreading enrollment over a full year, it is said, the need for additional schools can be delayed, taking the pressure off the school system and the taxpayer.

"By that method, a school built for 750 students could serve 1,000," Montgomery said. "As we look ahead to the year 1990, we can project a possible need for 12 elementary schools. But by spreading the student load over a greater period of time, we may need only eight or nine schools and save quite a bit of money."

A year-round program would serve as a stopgap measure until enrollment levels off.

There is a hitch, however. Reducing the need for buildings and accompanying staff positions may save money in the long run, but the effect of year-round education on day-to-day operational expenses has been found to be as varied as the number of full-year schemes often considered by school officials.

Three basic plans to extend the school year are under study in Petaluma. In one, the staggered quarter system, four study quarters of 60 days would be offered, with a student in class for three sessions. A second plan, known as the staggered 45-15, would put students in class for 45 school days, or nine weeks, followed by 15 school days of vacation.

A program known as the trimester plan would mean three sessions of 70 to 75 class days, with students attending two full sessions and a short summer session. Under all of the plans, students would be in class for the required 180 days per year.

In the Fairfield-Suisun School District, which has growth problems similar to Petaluma, the 45-15 plan is scheduled to go into effect in July. Only 75 per cent of the students will be in school at any one time.

A study there has found that operational costs will drop since only three-fourths of the district's buses,textbooks and other equipment will be necessary.

Other services such as maintenance, however, may increase under some of the plans. Some districts, the Petalumans have found, require more maintenance employees, as well as additional supplies, with school open on a 12-month basis.

A report from the Chula Vista School District, San Diego County, showed maintenance costs have increased with buildings in use year-round, although the rise was described as slight.

Montgomery said maintenance costs vary greatly among school districts, depending upon the age of buildings, degree of cleaning done and how maintenance departments are organized. He said a committee under his charge is studying how the various year-round plans would effect maintenance costs in Petaluma.

On the other hand, studies by other districts have found that student memory loss — an inevitable by-product of long summer vacations — decreases under a plan such as that to be used in Fairfield-Suisun. Shorter vacations also reduce the need for review time.

"We've found educational benefits for both accelerated students and for those needing remedial work," Montgomery said.Brighter students, under the 45-15 plan, may skip a nine-week section to a faster class or use vacation time for so-called enrichment courses in areas such as drama and creative writing, according to the study leader.

"Under this plan," he said, "a student could easily cut his

Marin City Wins Ridge Land Profits

By PAT ANGLE

The California Development Co. has agreed to pay the Marin City community a portion of its profits from development of valuable ridge property in the community and to allow residents to participate in planning and development of the ridge, the Independent-Journal learned today.

And, if development of the ridgeland is not completed by a date to be determined in future negotiation, the company will give the community an option to purchase the land, for a price still to be agreed upon.

The development firm's concessions are contained in an agreement signed in New York late Friday by Supervisor Michael Wornum and representatives of the redevelopment agency, the Marin City Council and the Marin City Community Services District.

The Marin negotiators were in New York last Thursday and Friday to negotiate on the ridge property with representatives of the California Development Co. which served as Marin City's official developer for eight years.

They had sought to obtain an option to buy back the 167 acres of ridge property which the development company purchased from the housing authority in 1962.

Although the option will not be forthcoming unless a development deadline is not met, community residents — who asked not to be quoted — said tey were happy with the new agreement. Attorney Hugh G. Lawrence, who represents the Marin City Council and community services district, could not be reached for comment.

The agreement clears the way for the authority and redevelopment agency to turn over to California development title

Skyjacker Trapnell Ex-Marin Criminal

In New York Hospital; Arraignment Due Today

Garrett B. Trapnell — reportedly "awake and coherent" today in a hospital prison ward in New York City after being arrested for hijacking a TWA jetliner Saturday — once lived in Tiburon and confessed to forgery in San Rafael, it was learned today.

Trapnell, 34, was to be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate in Brooklyn on charges of air piracy and kidnap, counts that could end his criminal career with a death sentence.

Trapnell, who also used the name James Stuart, pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court on Jan. 26, 1970, to having possessed a bad check on Dec. 23, 1968, in San Rafael. The charge stemmed from a $59 check, signed with the Stuart name and passed at the United Market.

Trapnell, who meanwhile had been in custody in Los Angeles County on other charges, first appeared in the Marin courts on July 29, 1969, and made a series of appearances in municipal and superior courts before entering his guilty plea. He was placed on probation for one year by Judge E. Warren McGuire and ordered to pay $59 restitution to the market.

When Trapnell failed to make restitution, his probation was revoked on Nov. 23, 1970, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. The warrant is still out.

Records in the office of Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales indicate that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents raided a Tiburon residence on Jan. 9, 1969, in an unsuccessful effort to locate Trapnell.

Agents were seeking to arrest him on a fugitive warrant, stemming from bad check charges in Florida. Agents went to a house at 14 Channel Road, but Trapnell was not there.

He was arrested later in Dallas, Tex., and taken to Los Angeles. There, according to San Rafael police, he was judged insane.

Trapnell, shot in the hand and shoulder Saturday by an FBI agent, was in good condition,

13 Shot Dead In Ulster; Devlin In Commons Row

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Bomb explosions rocked Belfast today, and rock-throwing mobs surged through the snowy streets battling British troops in mounting anger against the killing Sunday of 13 civilians by British paratroopers in Londonderry. (See photo, page 5.)

Northern Ireland was gripped by a general strike called by the Irish Republican Army as part of its threatened reprisals against the British. Sympathy strikes flared in the Irish Republic and Ireland recalled its ambassador from London in an official show of displeasure. In London, Bernadette Devlin, a Roman Catholic civil rights leader and member of the British Parliament, stormed across the House of Commons and hit and scratched Home Secretary Reginald Maudling after he said the British paratroops were fired on first.

As snowstorms obscured the city, rock-throwing mobs backed by gunmen rampaged through Catholic areas. They sealed off streets with hastily erected barricades and flaming vehicles. Hidden snipers kept British troops at bay.

An army spokesman said the worst rioting broke out in Belfast's Ardoyne, Anderstown and Falls Road areas, all Catholic strongholds.

"The Falls Road situation has degenerated into anarchy," he said.

Bombs exploded outside a department store and a milk bar in downtown Belfast, injuring 10 persons, including two policemen. Two soldiers were shot by snipers and an army spokesman said two IRA gunmen were believed wounded in a firefight along the fringes of Belfast's Catholic neighborhood.

Business, factories and offices shut their doors and Catholic workers mounted numerous protest marches. Black flags were draped in mourning outside almost every Catholic home in Londonderry today and few residents there ventured into the streets.

The violence began mounting within hours after the Irish Republican Army vowed to avenge the Londonderry deaths by killing British soldiers.

Protest marches were reported in several areas of Ulster, but a spokesman said most were being conducted without violence.

In downtown Belfast, bombs exploded in a department store and a milk bar, causing most of the casualties, he said.

The department store blast injured at least 10 persons, a British army spokesman said. Two more policemen, one of

Sausalito School Voters To Choose Two Trustees

Residents of the Sausalito School District will go to the polls tomorrow to choose two new district trustees from a field of five candidates.

Seeking the board seats vacated by the resignations of trustees Robert A. Thompson and Nathaniel Johnson are: Betty Times of Marin City and Hugh G. Lawrence, Barbara Harris, Barbara Levy and Arlene Knudsen, all of Sausaltio.

At issue in the election is the future organization of the tiny school district, plagued by declining enrollment and rising costs for educating each student. Many residents believe the district is not worth saving and should seek to consolidate with another school district, while others are convinced Sausalito is on its way to providing a sound educational program which can attract back those students who have left the district.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. for the district's 4,421 registered voters.

Polling places are: Christ Episcopal Church, Star of the Sea Catholic Church, Central School, the Sausalito School District office and the Jess E. Dabner Jr. residence, 108 Third Street, all in Sausalito and St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church in Marin City.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

License Revoked

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The liquor license of Mory's, the storied men-only haunt for generations of Yale students, was revoked today for discriminating against women.

The tavern, popularized by the Yale Glee Club in the "Whiffenpoof Song" of 1909, lost its right to sell liquor in a 2 to 1 decision handed down by the Connecticut Liquor Control Commission.

The case is expected to run its appellate course, beginning in the Court of Common Pleas.

Peking Visit

HONG KONG (UPI) — President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan took his campaign for more foreign economic, military and diplomatic support to Peking today.

Chinese leaders gave him a warm welcome when he arrived in the Chinese capital and were expected to agree to some of his anticipated requests for stepped-up support and assistance.

Bhutto's arrival was broadcast by Peking Radio, which said Premiere Chou En-Lai led a large welcoming delegation at Peking airport.

Pacemaker Implant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission said today it has received its first application for permission to implant nuclear-powered heart pacemakers in humans.

Battery-powered pacemakers, which supply electrical stimulation to flagging hearts, have been in use for years. But their energy source has to be replaced from time to time, requiring periodic chest surgery. The nuclear pacemaker would function for years without replacement surgery.

The license application, now under review, came from the Veterans Administration hospital in Buffalo, N.Y. the hospital asked authorization to implant pacemakers in 10 to 20 patients "on an investigational basis."

Sword-Carrying Rustin Jailed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Civil rights activist Bayard Rustin, director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute, was arrested last night for carrying a cane sword and booked on a felony charge.

Rustin

Rustin, 59, an assistant to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was picked up on West 42nd Street carrying a two-foot-long bamboo walking stick that contained a concealed 17-inch sword, police said.

Possession of a cane sword is a misdeameanor unless the defendant has a prior criminal record, according to police. In that case the charge becomes a felony. Rustin has several convictions stemming from civil rights activities and served 28 months in a federal prison for refusing to accept military induction during World War II.

Nixon Blasted

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Sen. Adlai Stevenson III has described President Nixon's support of the Pakistan government during the East Pakistan war as a "despicable act." He raised the possibility of Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings into it.

Stevenson called Pakistani army repression in the nine months which preceded the establishment of Bangladesh as "an atrocity that may be unprecedented in the history of the world."

The Illinois Democrat said he knew of no conceivable rationale for U.S. support of former Pakistan President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan.

Free School Lunch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Nutrition Committee said today that the government should run a test to determine whether every school child in the country could receive a free lunch.

It said the Agriculture Department should set up a pilot project in several sample areas around the country to determine the feasibility of such a universal lunch program.

"Progress in reaching the hungry has generally been too little, too late. Assurance that all children receive at least one nutritional meal a day has not yet been attained," the committee said in its report.

It added that the concept of a universal school lunch will be at the center of debate on deficiencies in the present system.

Red China Charges

HONG KONG (UPI) — China today accused President Nixon of using "bare-faced threats" to plunder the developing nations Latin America, Asia and Africa.

The charge was China's official commentary on Nixon's statement on aid to developing countries made Jan. 19.

The official New China News Agency said "U.S. imperialism is the main exploiter and plunderer of the developing countries."

China analysts said Peking's intensified criticism of the United States was to reassure its nervous Vietnamese allies as the Nixon's Peking trip nears.

Pope's Address

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI told several thousand pilgrims and tourists yesterday that it is useless to hope nonCatholics would rejoin a Roman Catholic Church torn by discord.

"Among many difficulties, we confront a very grave one . . . the disunity mong members o the Catholic Church," the Pope said in remarks on Christian Unity Week. He addressed a crowd in St. Peter's Square.

He did not cite specific divisions within his church, but Vatican sources said he obviously was referring to increasingly visible radical church groups as well as archconservatives opposed to his reforms.

Guards' Revolt Ends

MONTREAL (UPI) — Guards at six Quebec prisons ended their revolt today and reopened the institutions after Justice Minister Jerome Choquette promised that contract negotiations would begin Wednesday.

The guards have been working without a contract since last July.

A spokesman for Bordeaux Provincial Prison guards, who originally vowed to seal off the prison until contract negotiations began, said Choquette personally promised about 450 guards that talks would begin Wednesday instead of March 1, as scheduled.

The spokesman said the guards then voted to end their takeovers and that officers at all other prisons would be instructed to return to normal schedules.

African Clash

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — South African police fought with 100 Ovambo tribesmen Sunday in the second clash in two days. Police said four in the tribesmen were killed in the incident on the northern border.

Police Commissioner Gen. Gideon Joubert said police were investigating an attack on a minor tribal dignitary, Sam Kaulinga, and his wife at their home near Obdobe in the border area. Mrs. Kaulinga was killed by attackers wielding pangas, a machete-like knife. Her husband was hospitalized with serious wounds.

Draft Calls Suspended Till April

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Denfese Secretary Melcin R. Laird says there will be no draft calls through March, marking the longest planned break in conscription since the end of the Korean War.

"We're moving in the direction of an all-volunteer force worldwide during this first quarter of the year," Laird said Sunday when he revealed that there would be no draft calls in either February or March. No men were drafted in January.

Laird cited three reasons for the decision to suspend the draft this quarter: substantial pay increases effective Jan. 1, the slowing of the Vietnam War and congressional requirements to trim the Army by 70,000 men.

Since the Korean War ended, there never has been a no-draft quarter except for last summer when Selective Service expired before Congress completed action on the bill to extend it.

Laird was interviewed on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Army personnel planners were expected to watch enlistment statistics for June, July and August very closely since the all-volunteer army focuses on recruiting high school graduates.

If enlistments are high this summer, draft calls are likely to be low for the remainder of the year, the Pentagon said recently.

There were 94,000 drafts last year.

YMCA Unit Kills Mock Bill To Legalize Pot

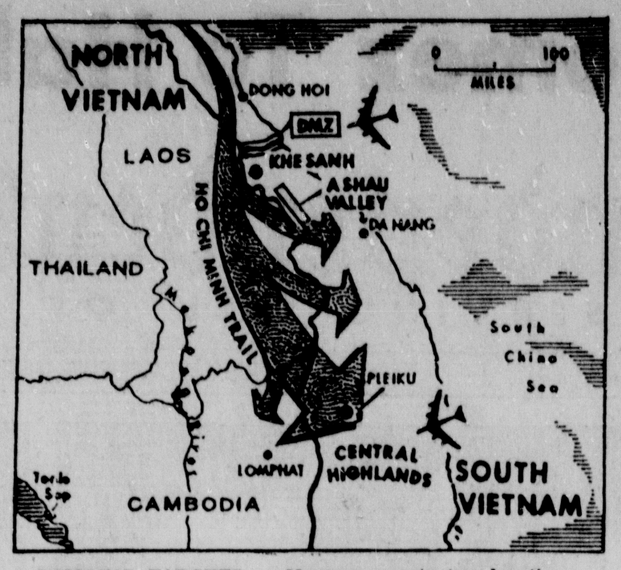
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —A mock bill legalizing the sale and use of marijuana by persons over 18 was killed Sunday by the 24th annual California YMCA Model Legislature.

The high school group had passed the measure earlier but failed to override a veto by Chris Ceballo, the youth governor.

The override effort failed in the Youth Senate by eight votes after clearing the Assembly 79-8.

Final action on the mock bill came two days after Gov. Ronald Reagan said in an address to the young delegates that the legalization of marijuana "would be the most ridiculous thing we ever did in the world."

As late as 1720 in England, mistletoe was believed able to cure epilepsy, says National Geographic.



BOMBING TARGETS — Newsmap spots two longtime Communist infiltration routes which were bombed by U.S. B52s in an effort to stop North Vietnamese troop buildups. Bombers struck the southern half of the demilitarized Zones near the former U.S. Marine base at Khe Sanh and part of the A Shau Valley.

Heavy B52 Bombings Inside South Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — American B52 bombers carried out their heaviest raids inside South Vietnam in four months today. The South Vietnamese command reported its aircraft destroyed three North Vietnamese tanks as the pace of the war increased from the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) to the Mekong Delta.

Six waves of the Thailand-based B52s hammered suspected North Vietnamese positions and dropped at least 540 tons of bombs in the attacks.

Waves of B52s hit infiltration routes near the former U. S. Marine base at Khe Sanh and in the A Shau Valley, a guerrilla stronghold for 20 years.

The heaviest aerial bombardment was against the so called Base Area 609 which takes in much of the triborder area where South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia come together in South Vietnam's Central Highlands. Base Area 609 is another important Communist sanctuary.

Four waves of B52s dropped at least 360 tons of bombs on the area, where the Communist tanks were sighted and attacked Sunday.

It was the most B52 raids since Sept. 29, 1971 when there was heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

The south Vietnamese command said four North Vietnamese tanks were spotted Sunday just inside South Vietnam. South Vietnamese Al Skyraider propeller-driven fighter-bombers reported destroying three of the tanks.

The new B52 strikes followed an unsuccessful attack against an American helicopter base Sunday by Viet Cong sappers who had explosives strapped to their nearly naked bodies.

Cambodia Tries Hanoi Contact Through Soviets

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodia has approached North Vietnam through the Soviet Embassy here for negotiations in hopes of bringing peace to the war torn country, diplomatic sources said today.

But any actual talks with Hanoi were reported delayed by uncertainty here and in Hanoi over President Nixon's latest Indochina peace proposals and fear in Cambodia that a ceasefire under the Nixon plan would leave this country occupied.

The Soviet Embassy flatly denied at first there had been any contact with the Cambodian government but admitted later there had been "unofficial" contacts.

Cambodian Information Minister Long Boret said there had been no direct contact with the North Vietnamese but that Cambodia is "always willing to open negotiations with the North Vietnamese in the hopes of a peaceful settlement."

King Of Nepal Is Dead At 51

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI)— King Mahendra Bir Vikram Shah Deva, who had worked to bring his Himalayan kingdom of Nepal into the 20th Century, died today of a heart attack. He was 51.

The body was flown to Katmandu from his official residence in the town of Bharatpur, 100 miles southwest of Katmandu, for immediate cremation in a Hindu ceremony.

The king, who had a record of heart trouble, was stricken Sunday with his second attack in five years and died this morning at his home. A team of doctors was flown to Bharatpur but he died with Queen Ratna by his side.

The government said cremation would follow a procession through the streets of Katmandu to the Pashupatinath Hindu temple on the banks of the sacred Bagmati River for the cremation cremonies.

Mahendra became king in 1955 and immediately launched a campaign to end the isolation of the backward nation nestled high in the Himalayas near the borders of Pakistan, China and Russia.

The monarch was the ninth king in the Shad Deva Dynasty which was founded in 1743. He was born on June 11, 1920 and succeeded his father, King Tribhuvan on March 14, 1956 in a coronation ceremony that was attended for the first time in the history of the Nepalese monarchy by dignitaries from all over the world.

At the time of Mahendra's accession to the throne, Nepal had diplomatic relations with only five nations, India, Britain, the United States, France and Ceylon. During his reign, the number rose to more than 50 and during his time as king, the Himalayan kingdom became a world tourist attraction.

Nepal was also admitted to the United Nations under the guidance of Mehandra, who followed a policy of strict nonalliance between the Communist and non-Communist worlds.

He was the first Nepalese king to travel to distant and formerly inaccessible parts of Nepal, which is the size of Wisconsin and has a population of 10.7 million.

Besides hiking, hunting and an interest in music, the king also was a poet of considerable stature. Many of his poems were turned into popular Nepalese songs.

KING MAHENDRA
Reformist monarch

Mahendra introduced several social reforms in this tradition-conscious kingdom, doing away with some forms of discrimination based on caste and sex.

He abolished the system of rent-free land holdings by landlords in initiating land reforms.

Mahendra married in 1945 and had three sons and three daughters. He was married again in 1953 to his first queen's sister following her death. He was the first king in his dynasty to have only one wife at his side during his coronation. He had no children from his second wife.

Two Skiers Die On Mount Rose

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Skier Felix Oroz smashed into a tree and hung on while snow thundered by him.

"We never thought we'd have any trouble," said Oroz, 14, who later helped searchers find the buried bodies of his two companions.

The avalanche survivor and two 16-year-old Reno youths ignored warning signs at Mt. Rose ski resort Saturday. They cut across a slope of loose snow onto a dangerous cornice and apparently triggered the snowslide, said resort manager John Pordon.

Richard Lyon and Steve Brown were killed when snow tumbled 600 feet down the slope. Two other youths were partially buried by the slide but were able to dig themselves out.

TREES MOVED TO BEAUTIFY SCHOOL

Mary English (left) and Jill Grundstrom dig a small tree from the area of DeLong and Reichert Avenues to transplant to Hill Junior High School in Novato. Students from the school on Saturday saved this and other trees and bushes that were in the path of the Highway 101 bypass in Novato. Student body president Anthony Mendonca wrote to the Division of Highways asking permission to remove the trees and shrubs from the right-of-way to the school campus. The Division of Highways sent a crew out Saturday to mark the trees and shrubs to be removed. The Novato City Hall Steeple can be seen in the background.

Singer's Antiwar Talk Rehearsed

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—The Canadian singer who lectured President Nixon on his Vietnam policy at a formal dinner—"If Jesus Christ was in this room tonight, you would not dare to drop another bomb"—accepted the White House invitation for that purpose and rehearsed her speech.

Carol Feraci, 30, expects the furor over her actions may hurt her career. But she thinks she encouraged other people to speak out, she said.

Miss Feraci, a 10-year U.S. resident originally from Toronto, was among the Ray Conniff Singers entertaining the President and 165 guests at a white tie dinner in the White House Friday night. Suddenly she unfurled a sign, which she had hidden in the bosom of her dress, which read "stop the killing," and coolly took the stage microphone and looked down at the presidential table.

"President Nixon, stop bombing human beings, animals and vegetation," she said. "You go to church on Sunday and pray to Jesus Christ. If Jesus Christ was in this room tonight, you would not dare to drop another bomb.

"Bless the Berrigans and Daniel Ellsberg."

Miss Feraci was welcomed home by six antiwar friends who gave her a hero's reception at the airport.

"There's a possibility that people won't want to hire me," she told newsmen. "They won't want to put themselves on the line and hire somebody who had the courage to speak up."

She added, however, that "I think a lot of people are going to have the courage to voice their opinion after this."

She said when Conniff offered her the White House job "I turned him down at first because I told him on the phone that it didn't make any sense to go and entertain people who were killing other people.

"But when I thought about it, I thought it would be a great opportunity to make the American people a little more aware of what is going on in Vietnam. So I called him back and said I would accept the job."

She planned her protest and carefully rehearsed her speech, she said.

"I went over it and over it and over it. I didn't know what was going to happen when I started talking and I wanted to make certain that I finished what I had to say."

Her speech brought a moment of stunned silence. President Nixon "froze" and continued smiling, the singer said.

Conniff quickly led the group into its first number, and then repudiated Miss Feraci, saying her speech was "as much of a surprise to me as it was to you," and asked her to leave.

Some guests booed, one man called "throw the bum out," others called for her to stay. Many guests were angered, including Bob Hope, June Haver, the Rev. Billy Graham and Martha Mitchell, wife of the attorney general, who said she thought the singer "ought to be torn limb from limb."

Lindsay Surprise In Arizona Voter Test

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Mayor John V. Lindsay, a rank outsider among pollsters and bookies to win the Democratic presidential nomination, ran a surprising second to Sen. Edmund S. Muskie in an Arizona test of voter preference.

Arizona Democrats elected 189 delegates committed to Muskie at the Democratic state convention, while the New York mayor won the second largest bloc, 118. Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., got 102.

"Arizona appeared to be a bit of a long shot and one would not have thought I would run strongly there." Lindsay said Sunday when he was reached campaigning for the Wisconsin primary.

He has received less than 5 per cent support in public opinion polls and the Las Vegas betting line is posting 500-to-1 odds against him winning the nomination.

In the latest Gallup public poll, Muskie came out almost even with President Nixon in a trial heat that also included Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama. In the poll, made early in January of 1,091 eligible voters, Nixon received 43 per cent support, Muskie 42 per cent and Wallace 12 per cent, with 3 per cent undecided.

Although running third in Saturday's voting by 36,300 Arizona democrats, McGovern said he would show significant strength in Lindsay's backyard.

With the weekend endorsement of the New York State New Democratic Coalition, McGovern said his campaign gained "new momentum." McGovern predicted he would win at least 200 of New York's 268 delegates to the national convention.

Arizona delegates elected Saturday will determine Feb. 12 the composition of the state's 25 delegates to the national convention.

Despite Muskie's strong run in Arizona, the Republican National Committee's weekly publication "Monday" claimed the Maine senator was in trouble in Florida.

"Muskie is blowing it in the Sunshine State because of a lot of things," the publication said. "First, there's his knee-jerk denunciation of President Nixon's $5.5 billion space shuttle program as 'pork barrel politics.' The space industry in Florida means jobs."

On other campaign fronts, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said in Georgia that Nixon has "made a mess" of the economy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., received a standing ovation at the Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Daytona Beach, Fla.

In Washington, 75 black leaders announced plans for a national black political convention in March to marshal Negro voting power in local, state and national elections this year. Rep. Charles C. Diggs, D-Mich., Mayor Richard G. Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and Imamu Baraka — formerly poet-playwright Leroi Jones—of Newark, N.J., were elected co-chairman of the Black Coalition.

Jersey A Refuge From High Taxes

LONDON (Toronto Telegram Syndicate) — For the millionaires who have flocked to it, Jersey is a haven, a refuge from England and heavy taxation.

It's an island where they can spend $200,000 on a house, keep 80 cents out of every dollar that they earn, and sink into peaceful obscurity.

For young people, it's a place to pick up a glamor job as a beach guard or pool attendant and spend the summer ensuring that the wealthy islanders and their 700,000 visitors don't drown in the 40-foot tides which sweep around the coast.

Jersey, largest of the Channel Islands, has a population of 70,000 and 30,000 motor vehicles in its 45 square miles.

The islanders are little more than 100 miles south of what they call "the mainland" (England), and only 14 miles from France. There are no death duties, no purchase tax, and income tax is pegged at a modest 20 per cent.

Thanks to what it likes to call "accidents of history," Jersey, a quaint mixture of French and English, is self governing, has its own legal system, issues its own passports, and banishes unwanted visitors.

It receives the protection of England, but owes allegience to the crown, not the British Government. And ancient royal charters have given its farmers, fishmen and businessmen free access to the British markets.

This independence has enabled it to establish a tax system which lures the wealthy, and drags in hordes of tourists every year. Cigarettes, beer, spirits, perfumes, cameras, electrical goods are all less than half the price they are in London.

Jersey, in yet another spectacular "accident of history" has led the Channel Islands to an extraordinary victory in the Common Market negotiations with the European community.

The E.E.C. has agreed to make special allowances for Jersey and the other islands, to respect their right to self government, and to accept them as market members as part of the British application.

Half of Jersey's income comes from tourism which nets more than $50 million a year, but the area is facing increasing competition in the tourist business.

It is now looking to extensive development of its attractions as a tax haven, and international finance centre. Light industry is also being pushed.

The tax savings, the political stability, and the nearness to the rich European markets are some of Jersey's big selling points to companies and international investors, and wealthy immigrants.

Wealthy immigrants are about the only kind Jersey wants. Rigid housing and immigration laws price most other people out. Only those earning more than $20,000 a year have much chance of being accepted.

The tax they pay is an important part of the island's income, and they are regarded as a "growth industry."

There is no welcome for hippies. The island's courts have power to banish the destitute, the unwanted, and ship them back to England. Hundreds have been given a one-way boat trip in recent years.

HIJACKER

"awake and coherent" today in Bellevue Hospital prison ward, according to United Press International. He underwent surgery in Queens General Hospital shortly after the shooting Saturday.

Conviction by a jury on the charges could lead to a death sentence on recommendation by the panel. But a history of mental illness and his bizarre actions aboard the jetliner flying from Los Angeles to New York could mitigate the possibility of capital punishment.

Trapnell, 34, a native of Waltham, Mass., residing in Miami, Fla., is a former mental patient. He is a suspect in six Canadian bank robberies and has a long record of brushes with the law in the United States.

His latest escapade began early Saturday morning when he boarded the TWA jetliner with 93 other passengers. He had a cast on his right arm in which he concealed the automatic pistol he eventually used to take command of the plane, the passengers and seven crewmembers.

In New York he permitted the passengers to leave but held the crew hostage while he presented demands which changed frequently.

He asked to talk personally with President Nixon; he demanded the release from prison of George A. Padilla, a griend of his held in Dallas for armed robbery; asked for $306,800 in cash and political asylum in some European country, which he said must be arranged by Nixon.

Trapnell also asked to talk to two Miami attorneys, one of whom—Nathaniel Barone—was flown to New York for that purpose. He also spoke by phone to his Dallas Psychiatrist, Dr. David G. Hubbard, who has made a study of hijackers.

Trapnell ordered the 707 into the air and it took off and circled New York several times before returning to Kennedy airport. There, a relief crew boarded the plane but two of its members were FBI agents in TWA uniform

One of the agents, whose name was not revealed, shot Trapnell when he "dropped his guard" for a moment.

Since the skyjacking, law enforcement agencies have compiled a considerable dossier on Trapnell described by one lawman as a "James Bond type."

One case involved a $30,000 bank robbery which resulted in Trapnell being placed in the Montreal prison for the criminally insane after being found incapable of testifying at his trial.

He escaped from the maximum security institution by taking two hostages at gunpoint.

whom apparently lost a leg and was reported in serious condition.

The bombers apparently hijacked a British Home Stores van, placed 100 pound bomb in it and parked it behind one of the chain's stores, the spokesman said. The other bomb was put in a suitcase outside a nearby milk bar.

Sniper fire also wounded a soldier in one of several shooting incidents in Belfast amid IRA calls for a general strike in Londonderry.

The Belfast bombs went off as emergency cabinet meetings were called into session in London and Dublin by Prime Minister Edward Heath and Premier Jack Lynch.

A similar emergency debate was called for in the British House of Commons.

The crisis was provoked when British paratroops fired on gunmen during a civil rights demonstration in Londonderry Sunday, killing 13 civilians and wounding 17 others.

An army spokesman said the troops only fired after gunmen and bombers in the crowd began shooting and throwing nail and acid bombs at them.

He said three paratroopers were injured, two by thrown acid bombs, and that four of the dead civilians were on HE army's wanted list of IRA gunmen. Another had four nail bombs in his possession and two of the wounded admitted being armed, he said.

Both wings of the IRA accused the paratroops of firing indiscriminately into the Roman Catholic crowd and vowed they would revenge the deaths by killing British soldiers.

British Col. Maurice Tugwell, who was at the scene, denied that, saying the soldiers only fired after they came under fire.

A Tip For Some Politics

TORONTO (Toronto Telegram Syndicate) — Here is a suggestion for Canada's opposition — the Progressive Conservative Party — if it seriously wants to win the next election.

Change your name.

It's difficult to see anything that calls itself "conservative" winning popular acclaim these days. Conservativism simply isn't fashionable, even among those who practice it.

It's not what you are, but what you say you are, and pretend to be, that's important in politics — domestic or international. Words are more important than deeds, because that's what people pay attention to.

Genuine "conservatives" seem the last to realize this fact. In Canada, Conservative Party faithful tend to have a misguided loyalty to their name and creed, which makes them easier to fight, ridicule, belittle and defeat.

William Davis, premiere of Canada's richest province, Ontario, seems to have realized this — if not by intellect, at least by instinct.

In the recent election, the Conservatives placed little emphasis on the "party?" Their candidates ran as individuals, or as team-members of "Just Plain Bill" Davis. Conservative Party links were played down across the board, and often in campaign literature you couldn't even find the party name, as if it were something to be shunned.

In other words, the label "Conservative" was a hinderance.

Look at the rest of the world.

The Greek dictatorship, for example, would be smarter if it called itself a "socialist" regime.

The "People's Democracy of Greece" would be stealing a page from the tactics book of left wing totalitarianism, and make countries like the Soviet Union gnash their teeth in frustration, since they'd have to refer to it officially by its title.

People tend to take at face value any nation that stresses its "democratic" traits, or announces it is for the "people" — regardless of how dictatorial they may really be, witness China, East Germany, North Korea and North Vietnam.

Similarily, any political party that stresses its "liberal" or "democratic" nature has an immediate advantage over rivals.

Prime Minister Trudeau is the most ideologically aware and politically tough PM Canada has ever experienced. He understands the effectiveness of saying one thing and practicing another — with the bulk of the people unaware of what he's doing.

Examples: Trudeau was elected largely on emotion generated through the slogans "Participatory Democracy" and "Just Society."

Once in power, controversial decisions were made outside the forum of Parliament, where the people's representatives gather. Things like the recognition of China, military cutback, desire to withdraw from NATO and "friendship" protocols with the USSR, were decided without debate or discussion. Not very participatory or democratic.

The government's decision to fight inflation by creating unemployment doesn't seem awfully "just" either. Nor does it seem proper that the government should urge 6 per cent wage increase guidelines for the country — then give MPs a 50 per cent retroactive pay boost from $12,000 to $18,000.

Yet Trudeau and party are favorites to win the next election.

It's 30 years since the word "progressive" was added to the Conservative Party to jazz up its image, to give it more appeal. Now the time has surely come to drop the "Conservative" label permanently.

That way "Conservatives" might win the next election — and even trap the odd, unsuspecting Maoist into voting for them.

Ex-Marinite Rescued In Boat Fire

I-J Special Report

HALF MOON BAY — A former Tiburon resident best known for his part in the 1966 conviction of three murderers was rescued from the bay last night after his boat caught fire and sank.

Wallace I. Charleston, 41, now of San Mateo, was forced to tread water for an hour in Half Moon Bay before a Coast Guard helicopter lifted him from the water at 6:30 p.m.

The Coast Guard said he leaped from the boat when he was unable to put out a fire in the cabin of his 47-foot yacht, "Little One."

He was taken to Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame where he was reported in good condition today after treatment for shock and exposure.

Charleston, an ex-convict who gave his occupation as a free-lance photographer and writer, played a key role in the conviction of Norman Call and two others for the murder of Dow Wilson a Painter's Union official. He was paid a reward of almost $25,000 for his part in the case.

secondary schooling by at least a year."

Meantime, the slower student, instead of repeating an entire nin-month school year, could quickly redo a nine-week section.

Beyond the three basic year-round programs, Montgomery's committees are looking into an alternate porposal — lengthening the school day on a 12-month basis.

From experience with staggered hours at Petaluma Senior High (starting at 7 a.m. and ending at 4 p.m.), Montgomery said, "We've found that . . . we can accommodate more students and offer more courses."

Applied on a full-year basis, he said, the program would enable enrollment increases without major school construction.

California development promised that democratically selected community representatives will share in the planning and development of the ridgeland of that development.

In return, the agencies will receive control of 60 acres of redevelopment land in Marin City from the development company.

Although the authority and agency board had agreed to sign mutual releases before last week's negotiations, community members insisted the ridgeland title should not be released unless an option to buy it back could be obtained.

Issues contained in the new agreement, including a deadline for development and the percentage of profits which will be paid to the community are to be decided at a meeting which will be held sometime before March 1.

Behr Rating On Ecology

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — State Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-Tiburon, today received a 64 per cent rating on the floor and 100 per cent in committee in voting on 27 key environmental measures by an ecology group.

Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-Santa Clara was the only state legislator to vote 100 per cent in favor of the environmental measures last year, according to the Birdwatchers. He voted with them both in the committees and on the floor of the assembly.

Senator Behr proposed a bill to preserve "wild rivers" on the north coast, the watchdogs noted.

Council To Meet In Sausalito

A proposed 90-day moratorium on all new subdivisions, lot splits and planned unit developments in Sausalito will be considered by the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

If the council approves the moratorium, recommended by the city planning commission on Jan. 5, it will mean that no new subdivision or development will be considered by the city during that period. Developments already approved by the city will not be affected.

According to planning director H. Eric Borgwardt, the moratorium is designed to give the city time to prepare new subdivision regulations for Sausalito and an open-space plan for the community required by recent state legislation.

New Hughes Twist: Book May Be Computer-Based

NEW YORK (UPI)—The purported Howard Hughes autobiography that McGraw-Hill Book Co. paid $650,000 for may be based on material from a computer printout produced by the bcllionaire's aides instead of on personal interviews, it was reported Sunday.

Both Time and Newsweek magazines and the CBS program "60 Minutes" said author Clifford Irving's book on Hughes may have been written from information contained in a computerized biographical printout ordered seyeral years ago by Hughes Tool Co. executive Bill Gay.

Life magazine, which had planned to serialize the book, said Saturday, "The manuscript might be genuine Howard Hughes, but the material might not have reached Irving in the way he claimed."

Another theory was advanced by Richard Hannah, a Hughes employee. He was quoted by the Washington Post that a source for the Hughes book might have been a looseleaf dossier on Hughes' life compiled by aides. "Somebody could've taken it and made a biography out of it," Hannah said of the dossier, which he described as several hundred pages long.

Irving claims to have compiled the autobiography from the transcripts of a series of interviews with Hughes. But Hughes, in a telephone interview from his Bahamas retreat and through several spokesmen, has denied that he ever collaborated with Irving on the book, and said he received none of the McGraw-Hill money.

Meanwhile, Irving is scheduled to appear before county and federal grand juries today. But he is expected to seek a delay in order to brief his new attorney, criminal lawyer Maurice N. Nessen.

Attorney Martin S. Ackerman, who had been representing Irving in the Hughes case withdrew Friday. But he still represents Irving in a $55 million libel suit stemming from an earlier book about an art forger.

The federal grand jury is believed to be investigating the possibility of mail fraud while the county grand jury is said to be looking into possible charges of obtaining money under false pretense and perjury.

The perjury charge would stem from an affidavit Irving submitted to the state Supreme Court detailing the times and places he gave two checks to Hughes and one to a Hughes representative.

CBS quoted Irving as saying that $450,000 of the $650,000 paid to "H. R. Hughes" for the book is still available in a Zurich bank. $50,000 has been spent and the other $150,000 is somewhere on the island of Ibizia off Spain's Mediterranean coast where Irving has a home.

Time reported that "it is said that Irving is now frantically trying to raise $200,000 in order to replace the money that has been spent, should he be required to refund it to McGraw-Hill."

Irving admitted Friday to the New York County district attorney's fraud bureau that the mysterious "Helga R. Hughes" who deposited the $650,000 publisher's advance in a Swiss bank and then withdrew it was his Swiss-born wife, Edith Sommer Irving.

Dick Hannah, a spokesman for the Hugtes Tool Co., confirmed Sunday in Los Angeles that a computerized biography on Hughes was compiled four years ago. He described it as a "chronological synopsis of news stories which had been written about Hughes or in which he figured." He estimated its length at "less than a couple of hundred pages."

Dr. John Pettit, a computer theorist, reportedly was hired by Gay to compile all published material on Hughes, plus private material supplied by the tool company. The resulting printout was, in effect, a cross reference biography of Hughes.

Robert Maheu, the dismissed head of Hughes' Nevada empire, said in Las Vegas Sunday that he had never seen the printout. Reportedly only a few printouts were made and distributed to top Hughes executives.

Maheu was in charge of all Hughes' Nevada properties, including the casinos, until Hughes dismissed him. Maheu has filed a $50 million suit against Hughes challenging the dismissal.

"I never saw a computer printout on Hughes and I never heard of anybody that saw one," Maheu said. But he said he knew Pettit was correlating information on Hughes.

"The likeliest scenario," time said, "is that Irving somehow obtained some or all of the material in the printout. It has been rumored, for example, that an angry former employe from the Hughes operation brought the material to Irving. If this happens to be true, Irving would probably not have needed many accomplices— except for an excellent forger and his wife, who opened the bank account."

Adjourned Plan Meeting Tuesday

The Larkspur Planning Commission will hold a second public hearing on proposed changes in regulations governing apartment development at an adjounred meeting tomorrow.

Meeting at 8 p.m., the commission is expected to pass the proposed change on to the city council for its approval. The ordinance would limit density by requiring open space, according to its author, planning consultant Sydney H. Williams.

Also to be considered are signs for the Bank of America at 800 Magnolia Avenue, review of the preliminary countywide general plan, and election of officers.

Airline Seminar

A panel of airline employees will take part in a seminar entitled Aviation — On the Ground and in the Air, exploring career opportunities in aviation, to be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Alumnae Hall at San Domenico school in Sleepy Hollow.

Branded Prison System In Arkansas Looking Up

By GEORGE BOOSEY

LITTLE ROCK (UPI)—The Arkansas prison system, judged two years ago as an "evil world" where confinement amounted to "cruel and unusual punishment," has made progress toward reform.

But not enough for Federal Judge J. Smith Henley to lift his February, 1970 order declaring the state's penitentiary system unconstitutional.

Following the completion of the latest round of hearings last month, Henley said, "We've come a long way, but not quite far enough."

Judge Henley, retaining jurisdiction in the case, said though, that "Extortion, brutality and sexual assaults are minimal to what we've had in the past." He is expected to call for more hearings later this year.

In declining to lift his unconstitutional ruling, Henley said the overcrowded conditions still must be relieved at Cummins Prison Farm and there still is "a mood of oppression" at Tucker Intermediate Reformatory, the two main confinement centers in the system.

Although testimony at the December hearings produced more stories of physical abuse to inmates, there was nothing to compare to the disclosures of the mid 1960s when prisoners were beaten with thick leather straps and given electrical shocks via a homemade device as a form of punishment.

The hearings were muddled at the outset by the death of a Little Rock teen-ager while serving a one-day sentence at Cummins. A coroner's ruling said he died of natural causes but even so the death stirred old nightmares and may have influenced Henley's ruling.

Gradual reform in the Arkansas prison system has been slow and often painful since it emerged as the most infamous correctional system in America in the mid 1960s.

The start toward a modern correctional system began with the election of Winthrop Rockefeller as governor in 1966.

Rockefeller inherited a system long run by political cronyism, woefully under financed and not far removed from the chain gang days. Shortly before he took office, Arkansas and the rest of the nation was shocked by the results of a state police investigation into the prisons.

It uncovered heavy use of the strap in prisoner discipline and the "Tucker telephone," the electrical contraption that sent shocks through an inmates body via wires attached to his big toe and penis.

Rockefeller, the first Republican governor since Reconstruction, began to clean house at once. He went outside the state to find qualified people to run the prisons and began to push for full scale prison reform.

However, both of Rockefeller's two prison superintendents, Tom Murton and C. Robert Sarver, ran afoul of the Democratic-controlled legislature and each eventually was fired but not before they had succeeded in turning the system around.

Even as the prison reform movement gained momentum, the court ruling in February, 1970 gave it added impetus. Henley ruled the whole system unconstitutional.

Sending a man to serve time in Arkansas prisons amounts, Henley said, "to a banishment from civilized society to a dark and evil world completely alien to the free world, a world that is administered by criminals under unwritten rules and customs completely foreign to free world culture."

Then Dale L. Bumpers, a Democrat, crushed Rockefeller's bid for a third term, sweeping into the governorship on a program that also included prison reform.

And although Bumpers did not have all the answers at once, he did recognize a major problem. "People," he said, "are always willing to spend money for guns and for the police but they are less willing to spend money to improve the prison system, where, unfortunately many criminals are made."

Sarver still was heading the prisons but had so angered the legislature with repeated and outspoken public criticism of that body that there was a serious and powerful movement in the legislature to cut off the prisons without a penny of state money unless Sarver was fired.

It was another painful milestone. Sarver, a good man with progressive ideas, had to go or an already shaky situation might dissolve into disaster. Bumpers went to Texas for his successor. Terrell Don Hutto, 35, a warden in the Texas prison system, was hired as Bumpers' personal choice.

Hutto, with a master's degree in criminology, had an easier gone, passed a record prison appropriation bill in the 1971 General Assembly plus a Bumpers' backed meritorious good time law aimed at raising prisoner's morale by giving them time off their sentences for good behavior.

Despite Bumpers' additional moves for reform, the December hearings, much to the governor's surprise, brought to light lingering buses. Some prisoners testified they had been stripped and placed in isolation cells for up to 28 days. Others said they had been forced to lean on their foreheads against a wall for hours at a time.

The week the hearings began, Willie Stewart, 17, died while serving a one-day sentence at Cummins. A coroner's report said he died of a variation of Sickel Cell Anemia, but that the condition might have been aggravated by the admitted harrassment guards sometimes deal the "one day wonders."

The one-day sentences are meted out to youthful offenders who have been convicted and could have received much stiffer sentences. Judges do so with the hope that the one-day look at prison life will be enough to deter a youth from future crimes. The program has been successful in that few one-day sentence servers have had further crime records.

But Stewart's death caused the whole program to be reexamined.

Bumpers ordered the physical punishments of inmates and an end to the "hazing" of youths serving one-day sentences.

Supervisors To Study Ross Demands On Creek

A demand by the Town of Ross that the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project also eliminate flooding problems in the Ross Commons and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard areas will be considered tomorrow by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Also on the agenda are a report on negotiations over development of Marin City, reorganization of the Health Service Department and consent to the Strawberry Park and Recreation District to condemn properties in Strawberry Cove.

Expansion of the flood control project to provide for other flooding problems in Ross has been resisted by the Army Corps of Engineers, but Marin County Public Works Director Ray W. Foreaker Jr. has suggested "further exploration" with the corps to fund the additional work. Its cost has been estimated at up to $200,000.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors also will consider:

Innocent Plea In Arson Case

John Christian Ballard, 35, of Fairfax, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of arson lodged because he allegedly threw a molotov cocktail at another Fairfax man's home on Jan. 13.

A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 22.

Ballard was arrested after Michael Van Sanden of 32 Hill Road reported a firebomb had been thrown at his home. The device hit the roof, ignited and fell to the porch, where it was stomped out, police said.

Prior to the incident, Ballard and Van Sanden had a fight, officers said.

'No Tax Hike'—If Spending Is Held

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally insisted today the administration sees no need for a tax increase either this year or next year.

Under questioning by the House Ways and Means Committee, Connally and George P. Shultz, President Nixon's budget manager, said a tax increase would not be necessary if federal spending is held to the $246.3 billion estimate by the President for fiscal 1973.

"We don't assume there will be a tax increase this year or next year to raise revenue," Connally said.

Three committee members, Reps. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., Phil Landrum, D-Ga., and Herman Schneebeli, R-Pa., were not convinced and told Connally and Shultz they felt higher taxes would be necessary in light of unsuccessful efforts in the past to hold down spending.

Mrs. Griffiths questioned whether any presidential candidate could run an honest campaign this year without saying that the voters "are due for a sharp rise in taxes."

Shultz replied that no tax increase was being presently considered and that this was a strong discipline for keeping government spending in check.

"I've been hearing that for 18 years and it never has worked," Mrs. Griffiths said. "We are going to have an increase in taxes in my opinion."

Shultz commented that talk about a tax increase "is just devastating" to efforts to hold the line on spending.

The prime purpose of the Connally-Shultz testimony was to urge approval of an increase of $50 billion in the legal national debt limit. Even with the requested boost to $480 billion, however, Connally said, an additional increase would have to be sought by February, 1973.

He said the $50 billion boost now was needed urgently so the government can "arrange an earlier March borrowing" to pay its bills. The actual debt is edging close to the present legal limit of $430 billion.

Responding to questions from the committee, Conally expressed "every real confidence" that unemployment would drop to a range of about 5 per cent by the end of 1972. The rate stood at 6.1 per cent in December.

He conceded that administration economic forecasts for 1971 were "overly optimistic" but said he did not believe this was true of 1972 predictions.

Rep. James A Burke, D-Mass., suggested that Congress lower the requested debt limit to $460 billion with an expiration date of Sept. 1, 1972 — two months before the presidential election. Connally said the administration did not have the election in mind in seeking the debt limit extension into fiscal 1973.

"I shall not belabor the consequences for the nation if the Treasury's borrowing capacity should be exhausted," Connally testified. "A failure to obtain an increase in the debt limit will in a very short time force us to move to costly and uneconomic expedients to meet our obligations and then to end abrupt cutting off of government expenditures.

"As secretary of the Treasurer, I do not wish to contemplate such a possibility."

He acknowledged unhappiness with the $25.5 billion deficit built into Nixon's fiscal 1973 budget but explained: "The pace of our economic growth while now substantial has not been fast enough to produce the desired reduction in unemployment.

"Our objective therefore is to stimulate economic growth — substantial economic growth — in order to reduce unemployment while at the same time continuing to break inflation."

Connally was accompanied to the hearing by President Nixon's chief budget adviser, George P. Shultz.

The administration bid for the $480 billion debt ceiling on debt had been made public previously but had not flatly stated that it would have to return again next year to seek a still higher limit.

Shultz asked Congress also to put a firm spending limit on government expenditures to hold outlays to Nixon's estimated spending total $246.3 billion for the 1973 fiscal year.

Shultz said the deficits are "strong medicine for the economy" and added they would have a vital role in providing stimulus necessary to expand production and reduce unemployment.

Prior to the appearance of Connally and Shultz on Capitaol Hill, House Democratic leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana said the President should face up to the fact that his wage-price controls are unrealistic as long as they are unenforced.

"What I'm saying," Boggs added, "is that this thing cannot be effective unless there is considerable bureaucracy to enforce the regulations. And if you don't enforce them it means that all of the honest people are penalized and those who are not honest are rewarded."

He said the Internal Revenue Service, handed the enforcement job by the administration, was not established for that purpose and "in times of controls one could make a great deal of money if one does not adhere to the rules and regulations."

Boggs made the comments in a UPI "Washington Window" interview.

In another economic development, the Cost of Living Council said that its weekend decision to exempt Americans making less than $1.90 per hour from wage controls will mean that an estimated 12 million persons now will be eligible for raises — if their employers decided to grant them — without regard to the 5.5 per cent annual guideline or other rules governing wage increases.

The council adopted the $1.90 figure even though the Pay Board, in advising the council earlier this month, had rejected the figure as too low. The federal minimum wage is $1.60 an hour. Labor members on the pay panel earlier had rejected a $2.20 figure as inadequate.

And Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N.Y., said the $1.90 decision should have been pegged at $3.35.

"The decision was totally inadequate and a flagrant violation of the congressional intent and the law," Ryan said.

N. Viets Give Own 9-Point Peace Plan

PARIS (UPI) —North Vietnam disclosed today details of its own secret nine-point Vietnam peace plan and accused President Nixon of "duplicity" in disclosing details last week of secret Hanoi-Washington negotiations.

However, Hanoi did not close the door to further secret negotiations. It said "the form of the talks does not matter but the United States must accept the two fundamental points of our peace plan, that it ceases all war activities against Vietnam and ceases support of the Thieu regime" in South Vietnam.

At a news conference, Nguyen Thanh Le, the press spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation to the Vietnam peace talks, handed out to newsmen the nine-point program the Communists presented to U.S. Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger in Paris last June 26. last year.

Nixon disclosed the meeting, one of 12 he said Kissinger had in Paris with Hanoi officials, in his nationwide speech on Vietnam last week.

A week later, President Nixon said, the Communists presented the Vietnam peace talks with another plan, this time of seven points, signed by the Viet Cong.

The North Vietnamese today also published what they said were the exchanges leading to the cancellation of a secret meeting scheduled for Nov.20 between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, a ranking member of the Hanoi Politburo.

They said Kissinger called off the meeting the day before as serving no purpose because Tho was ill. Hanoi said their delegation leader to the talks, Xuan Thuy, was prepared to meet Kissinger instead. (more)

"In deciding now to unilaterally make public the substance of the private meetings between North Vietnam and the United States, the Nixon administration has further laid bare its duplicity," Le said.

"This way of acting is aimed at deceiving world public opinion in the United States and the world, at serving Mr. Nixon's political objectives in this election and allowing him to pursue a Vietnamization of the war and not to serve the cause of peace as he claims."

The secret Hanoi plan called for the total withdrawal of all U.S. and allied forces from South Vietnam and other Indochinese countries before the end of 1971. It said release of military and civilian prisoners would be carried out in parallel and completed at the same time as the troop withdrawal.

These proposals were restated in the public Viet Cong plan a week later. The Hanoi program also repeated its call for the overthrow of Saigon President Nguyen Van Thieu and his then vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, and Premier Tran Van Kiem.

20 Demonstrators For Angela Arrested

SAN JOSE (UPI) —About 20 persons were arrested today for demonstrating in a prohibited area next to the courthouse where pretrial motions were being argued in the Angela Davis case.

Santa Clara County sheriff's officers said the demonstrators were picked up because they were parading around outside the courthouse but in what authorities had designated part of the "courtroom area" and put off limits to public gatherings.

The pretrial motions, which could be the last round of preliminaries before Miss Davis' long-delayed murder-kidnap trial begins, started an hour late today after a lengthy conference in the chambers of Judge Richard Arnason.

When the courtroom hearings finally began, attorneys took up a motion by the defense that it be furnished with secret FBI or CIA dossiers on anyone in the venire panel from which a jury will be selected.

"We know that government agencies exchange information and we know that in this county seven out of 10 jobs are connected with the aerospace industry, requiring security checks," chief Defense Attorney Howard Moore Jr. said.

"Suppose the FBI or the CIA has information that a juror is a member of the John Birch Scoiety and this is not brought out in the questioning," he said. "This is something we should know and we think the government should disclose such information or make a full disclaimer."

Prosecutor Cliff Thompson of the California attorney general's office, replied, "the prosecution is not required to undertake the defendant's investigation for her."

The 60-seat courtroom was heavily guarded today when Miss Davis was brought from her temporary jail cell at nearby Palo Alto for the pretrial hearings.

New crowd control fences and barriers were installed last week in preparation for the start of her trial, originally set for today, but postponed by the judge on a day-to-day basis until he hears and rules on arguments on several pending defense petitions.

The hearings were expected to last two weeks to a month.

Dock Negotiators Back At The Table

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Negotiators returned to the bargaining table in the West Coast dock strike Monday under the shadow of threatened congressional intervention to force a settlement of the crippling port tie-up.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and representatives of the Pacific Maritime Association held their first meeting since Jan. 17 when a round of marathon bargaining ended in a deadlock, and the strike resumed.

A quick settlement at the bargaining table was not expected. The employers have indicated they hope Congress will act to get the dockworkers back on the job. The union, for its part, has tightened the stranglehold on shipping by blocking cargo from the ports in Vancouver, Canada, and Ensenada, Mexico.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson testified before the House Labor Subcommittee as it began hearings Monday on Nixon's proposed legislation. He said the administration went to Congress to get the strike ended because there was "nowhere else to go."

The law would set up a three-man arbitration panel to dictate terms of a dock contract lasting at least 18 months. The PMA is attempting to arouse public support for the legislation, but labor organizations support the ILWU position against it.

Regardless of any congressional action ILWU President Harry Bridges said, the 15,000 dockworkers who voted to go out on strike last July will go back to work only through a similar vote.

A logshre union leader said the maneuvering in Washington would delay settlement because the PMA might be reluctant to bargain as long as the employers have hope for government action.

The flow of goods through the port of Ensenada, Mexico, to California was dried up entirely Monday. Seventy-five pickets were at the San Ysidro border crossing and no cargo trucks were moving into California.

In Vancouver, the Canadian branch of the ILWU was refusing to handle cargo diverted from the struck U.S. ports.

The unsettled issues in the dispute are how to finance a $5.2 million guaranteed-wage fund and whether pay increases will be retroactive.

Bike Theft Bill In The Hopper

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill aimed at eliminating bicycle thefts by creating the nation's first statewide licensing system for them was introduced today by Senate leader James R. Mills, D-San Mateo.

Mills, reporting that more than 400,000 bicycles were stolen last year in the state, said the State Department of Justice's computer would be utilized under his bill in recovering the stolen bicycles.

Tax Rebates

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government so far has paid back $557 million in automobile excise taxes collected on cars bought after Aug. 15, now that Congress has repealed the tax retroactive to that date.

Rohnert Park Gets Woman Candidate

Little action was reported today in filings for city council and other posts in 10 Marin and two Southern Sonoma cities. Filing for the April 11 elections closes at noon Thursday.

Rohnert Park got its first woman city council candidate as Rose M. Willingham filed papers, Belvedere city Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock joined Mayor Thomas S. Price and newcomer Stuart C. Cullec as official candidates, and Jerome C. Hauke filed in Mill Valley.

Mrs. Willingham of 7422 Belita Avenue moved to Rohnert Park from Mill Valley more than five years ago. She and her husband, William, have three children.

Mrs. Willingham, a 36-year-old housewife, said that the rising property tax rate will be a major part of her campaign platform as well as putting the city golf course on a paying basis.

Belvedere candidate Ruddock, 58, said he wanted to "continue to work on the major problems confronting Belvedere, including long-range planning, taxes and finance, drainage and the preservation of Belvedere's environmental assets."

Ruddock, who is completing his second council term, having been elected in 1964 and again in 1968, said, "the last two city councils have made substantial progress on these issues and I want to take part in continuing to work to bring them to a successful conclusion."

A general partner in Almar Exploration Ltd. in San Francisco, a firm involved in the exploration and development of natural resources, Ruddock lives at 131 Golden Gate Avenue with his wife, Margaret. The couple has lived in Belvedere since 1958.

In Mill Valley, Vice Mayor Jerome C. Hauke filed completed papers today to become only the second official candidate for three city council vacancies. Hauke previously had announced his candidacy.

Gerald. A. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, is the only other candidate to have filed. Five others still have papers out.

Price, in this third term as mayor, is general manager of Price Building Specialties and president of United Building Products, both in San Francisco.

He served on the Reed School District board from 1967 to 1971 and lives at 7 West Shore Road with his wife, Jeanne, and two children, Steven and Amanda.

Bird Deaths

MIAMI (UPI) — The Audubon Society has tentatively blamed insecticide for the deaths of an estimated 10,000 migratory birds — many of them robins — found near potato fields in south Cade County.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Hire The Handicapped

State law encourages hiring of persons with handicaps. If a handicapped employee is injured again on the job the employer is only liable for workmen's compensation based on that injury alone.

Suppose a workman with only one good eye is hired and in the course of his work injures the good eye, greatly decreasing his sight. The employer's compensation insurance liability for the injury is the same as if the worker had two good eyes. The workman may now be severely disabled because of his new injury and may be able to perform only very limited work. The State "Subsequent Injury Fund" will then compensate him.

Today workers change jobs frequently. Injuries or occupational diseases may pre-exist from past employment. The experienced worker is an asset to the employer. If the worker gets a new injury which "lights up" the pre-existing injury or disease, it is itself an industrial injury. A rule that the employer takes the worker "as he is" may make him liable for the entire disability.

To prevent inequities to the last employer who hires the experienced worker with accumulated minor injuries or pre-existing industrial diseases, a rule of apportionment is quite often applied.

Injuries from painter'u lead, aircraft noise, certain chemical dust, and many others accumulate over a period of years. When the occupational disease finally reaches a climax while working with one employer, the cost of compensating the worker is then apportioned among his past employers.

Workmen's compensation provides for both temporary and permanent disability awards. Temporary awards cover the payments for medical treatment and temporary weekly payments after injury. The employer who has the employee when the disabiling injury happens is usually liable for all the temporary payments, including medical treatments.

Permanent disability can be apportioned among past employers and the Subsequent Injury Fund. Apportionment is settied through the Workmen's Compensation Board with percentages assigned to past employers.

Two Marin motorcyclists were hurt and a third escaped injury yesterday in a pileup at Fourth and E streets in San Rafael, according to police.

Officers said the three were riding the cycles west on Fourth at 7:34 p.m. when an eastbound auto driven by Lee Inskeep, 47, of 17 Prospect Drive, San Rafael, turned left onto northbound E Street.

A cycle operated by Milton J. Hansen 21, of 309 Glen Park Avenue, San Rafael, collided with Mrs. Inskeep's car, and police said another cycle driven by Robert W. Andrews, 25, of 1939 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, also may have collided with the auto.

Hansen was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with two fractures of the left leg, while Andrews was treated at the hospital for a muscle tear in the right ankle.

Superb food, excellent drinks, and one lousy waiter.

A number of our friends in the restaurant business have made their reputations by providing the worst possible service. They allow you to wait for a table for an hour and a half, and then, if you're really lucky, you get a terribly rude waiter. Try as we might, we have been unable to accomplish this. We have only been able to come up with the owner's brother-in-law, who makes a pretty fair try at it. The rest, unfortunately, continue to do their jobs as best they can. Nevertheless, we've highlighted this one fellow in the hope that we may enjoy your patronage until we're able to improve our entire staff.

A STUDY OF ARROGANCE IN AMERICAN GOVERNMENT

The Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District

CHAPTER V

The Saga of Edward Tacsmore

Edward R. Tacsmore, Marinite, arose at 5:45 a.m. By 6:15 he had showered, shaved and dressed. At 6:45 and the sun peeking through the dark, he was ready to go to work in San Francisco.

At 7 p.m., after walking several blocks he caught the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District's bus to the parking lot and dock of the GGBHTD's ferry boat. Time of arrival 7:40. The ferry pushed out into the grey waters of the Bay at exactly 7:45 with Edward Tacsmore proudly pleased with himself for doing his bit to alleviate automobile congestion along the Golden Gate Corridor — although his hand shivered slightly, spilling coffee on his coat in the cold, wet morning on San Francisco Bay.

At 8:25 a.m. Tacsmore disembarked at the Ferry Building or near enough to call it that, and walked several blocks to catch a bus to his office. Time of arrival at his office — 8:55 a.m.

Total commute time from his home to his office — one hour and 55 minutes. Edward Tacsmore will leave his office at 5 p.m. and be home at approximately 6:55 p.m.

A TIRED COMMUTER REMEMBERS BETTER DAYS

Edward used to arise at 7 a.m., enjoy breakfast with his family and leave in his automobile for the office at 8:15 a.m. But, being a good citizen who thinks of his fellow man, takes wastepaper, metal cans and bottles to his local ecology center, Edward Tacsmore promised to leave his car home and do his bit to end the commuter crunch. After all, that was the American tradition.

He, of course, could have taken the GGBHTD's bus system directly to San Francisco in the promised time of 45 minutes and then a municipal bus to his office. Total time one hour or one hour and five minutes. Edward Tacsmore was a very precise man, or at least he considered himself that.

However, the GGBHTD directors had convinced him the ferry boat ride was a pleasant way to travel — and what are a few coffee drops on a sleeve? They had told Tacsmore he also would be alleviating the bus transit system, too. But, most important, they told Tacsmore that as long as he way paying for the ferries, he might as well use them. The district needed ferry passengers to prove that water transport is practical.

AN AROUSED TACSMORE FIGHTS BACK

It was not until Edward Tacsmore was slowly reduced to a sleep walking commuter and stranger to his own home that doubts began to creep in.

True, he was paying for a ferry service. Indeed, he was! His property taxes had been increased considerably to support the GGBHD's Ultra Modern Transit System Deficit or UMTSD. In fact, he had been UMTSDsy UMSTDed for several years running. But, as any good citizen knows, he must help support transit, Tacsmore would say.

"But, gol dang it, why should I pay for a $2 million more deficit just to ride a ferry," he asked. "I don't even like getting up that early and the water makes me seasick!" Indeed, Tacsmore, why should you?

"After all," he asked himself, as Tacsmore often did, "why not just a bus system . . . the two systems seem to be competing with each other and costing more money?"

Now, Edward Tacsmore was not one to quickly ire, but the fares on both the ferry boats and the buses went up and the bridge tolls also increased. In addition, the roads to the ferry dockings were crowded with people preferring to drive to the water's edge.

He just couldn't afford to live in Marin County any more and commute. Either he would have to move his family back into San Francisco or find work in Marin County.

He wrote a letter of protest to the District Directors. No answer. Finally, he took what he considered a very radical step.

Shyly, but starched with anger, Edward Tacsmore joined a citizens committee fighting the GGBHD's ferry . . . the directors . . . and even the District's right to exist at all and run a transportation system.

A VICTORY FOR TACSMORE

At last, in the year 1985, and some millions of dollars in debt, the ferry system was turned over and leased to private operators at their own profit or loss risk. The Golden Gate Bridge, Highway & Transportation District was dissolved by a shocked Legislature and the UMTD bus system and operation of the Bridge turned over to a State agency comprised of transportation experts. Immediately, bridge tolls went down; bus fares went down. And, the following day Edward Tacsmore retired, no longer having to worry about commuting but only about reducing his property taxes.

Edward Tacsmore spoke up, like any good American, although a little late. But, the Tacsmores of the world ultimately win.

AGAIN:
TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION!
Don't let it happen here.
Send in this protest.

Courts Create Delays Thwarting Justice

In San Francisco two weeks ago, California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger told the Commonwealth Club that the American system of justice "appears on the verge of collapse" because of what happens subsequent to the investigation of a crime and arrest of a suspect.

In New York on the same day, the chairman of that state's Joint Legislative Committee on Crime told Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that no program of prison reform, no matter how well conceived nor how expensive, could be effective without "restructuring of our chaotic court system."

The New York criticism was directed chiefly at pretrial and trial procedures. Attorney General Younger aimed his sharpest shafts at the appellate courts. But both found the system is mired in complexities of its own creation. And both were sharply critical of its delays.

"IT IS ONLY to the innocent that the Sixth Amendment's promise of a speedy trial means anything," Younger pointed out. "To the guilty, delay is the most effective ally."

The California attorney general voiced a truth that judges and attorneys usually prefer to avoid mentioning:

"A defendant at liberty pending trial can help his lawyer secure continuances by committing crimes, secure in the knowledge that if he's caught and charged with a subsequent offense, a continuance of the original trial date and a further postponement of the day of reckoning is assured."

Moreover, he noted: "A defense attorney can guarantee his client a trial delay of months, or even of years, if he can get an appellate court involved immediately after a charge is filed. A claim that a constitutional question is involved is almost irresistible."

State Sen. John H. Hughes, R-Syracuse, who heads the New York legislative committee, reported that of several thousand arrests of organized crime figures over the last decade in that state, only five per cent resulted in prison sentences.

Obviously, they know how to work the delays in New York as well as in California.

MANY OTHERS besides Attorney General Younger and New York State Senator Hughes have inveighed against the inordinate delays in court disposition of criminal cases. There have been and continue to be attempts at remedy by legislative action, by increasing the number of courts, and in various other ways.

For the most part, however, these delays do not result from flaws in the law. They result from the courts' own actions. They exist because judges want them to exist — or are afraid to do anything about it.

The huge number of appeals in recent years, cited by Younger, provides an obvious example. Every court above the county level now wants to get into the act on constitutional questions — which used to be reserved for state or federal supreme courts on direct appeal.

Perhaps one explanation for the delays that so often defeat justice lies in a simple human trait: The judges, who yesterday or a few years ago were themselves lawyers representing clients, dislike to offend their fellow members of the bar; so they permit delays to comply with attorneys' wishes, and consider frivolous appeals for the same reason.

HURRY-UP FIRING

Was Ouster Of Sullivan To Appease Water Interests?

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

There was an earlier day when an earlier day when Gov. Ronald Reagan displayed agonized reluctance to fire a top aide touched by scandal, but he was in an awful hurry surface in this affair. when he demanded the resignation of Kerry W. Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board.

Despite fancy denials from the governor's office, the big money politics of water seems to be beating somewhere close to the surface in this affair.

Spokesmen for the governor claimed that Mulligan's resignation was demanded because he "has served as a consultant for a private engineering firm which has sought contracts with public agencies outside California," thus was guilty of a conflict of interest. The spokesmen insisted that the governor's action was not because of an accusation by Hawaiian officials that Mulligan had offered a $20,000 to a Honolulu official.

THE GOVERNOR'S office has refused, however, to elaborate on the nature of the alleged conflict of interest, hiding instead behind "legal reasons," which it also refuses to explain. Some wonder if the governor in fact was not looking for "legal reasons" to act as he did against Mulligan.

Not mentioned by the governor's office was the fact that the Reagan administration has been split bitterly since July, when Mulligan's board issued its highly controversial water rights decision controlling flows into the California Water Project. The decision, which guaranteed high flows of fresh water into the delta, stepped hard on the toes of powerful water interests.

Rumors have been flying that Mulligan and his fellow board members were marked for political execution as their terms expired. Political independence is not admired within the Reagan administration.

The first work of Mulligan's problem in Hawaii came last Sunday night in a Honolulu television newscast. By 8:30 a.m. on Monday, he was on the carpet before the governor's staff, and the demand that he quit came within hours — without even a personal meeting with the governor.

The unexplained circumstances of his removal inevitably suggest the possibility that Mulligan was dumped to appease powerful water interests that have a multi-billion-dollar stake in squeezing the last drop from the water project. These interests — agricultural and land — are determined to have the water project run exclusively to their benefit. Mulligan may have been only the first to go. More will follow, we'd wager.

A SOMEWHAT LEADEN trial balloon has been floated our way by Richard Alan Raznikov, the 26-year-old law student who ran unsuccessfully last year for San Rafael mayor. He said he hopes to run this June for the Democratic nomination in the Seventh Assembly District — if he can raise $1,000 to start a campaign.

He figures that he could have a real chance for election, thanks to the new 18-year-old vote and plans for an intensive door-to-door campaign.

But, according to the county elections office, Raznikov is registered as having declined to state a political party preference, thus cannot run in the Democratic primary.

He could join Thomas T. Storer in court in a legal test of the Election Code restrictions. Storer wants to run for Congress as an independent, but still was registered as a Democrat too late to qualify legally as an independent.

Replace Office Holders With Computers?

Thank you for your consistent efforts to keep the number of county employees within bounds. I am referring especially to your editorials of Jan. 12 and 24. The Parkinson's Law rolls onward more powerfully than the heaviest bulldozer. Many politicians and political candidates who are for more and more government agencies come forward with great logical arguments. They are so logical they could be arrived at by a computer. At the going rate of the cost of a politician to the taxpayer, the computer might be cheaper.

'Wilderness' Movie Succession Of Killings

Saturday afternoon I took my children to see a movie entitled "American Wilderness." From the ads on television I understood it was a documentary about some of the beautiful animals in North America. In every ad it was specified that it was a movie the whole family could attend. My children and I enjoy animal films so we went.

The film did indeed have some lovely footage of rams, elk, bears, etc. The camera zoomed in on some of the stunning beasts, shots would ring out and the animals would fall wounded or dead. It turns out that the film is really a hunting expedition. In nearly every sequence an animal is shot to death and it is grotesque. In one section of the film a dead ram's head is tied to the hunter's knapsack because the "prize-size" horns of the ram look as if they might make the record book.

"American Wilderness" appears to be a fund-raising farce to reimburse the hunters for the cost of their trip and filming. It is not a movie for children — it is not a movie for many adults. It is an ego trip for the hunters. . .

I would encourage parents to avoid attending the movie with youngsters and perhaps if others would write letters to the producers of this dreadfully misrepresented movie.

Planned Parenthood Volunteer's Role

On last week's KTIM "Sounding Board" program (scheduled in response to a recent I-J editorial) statements were made which caused me much distress. I am much concerned with the dangers inherent in today's permissive attitudes toward sex; that is why I volunteer my time to lead rap sessions at Planned Parenthood.

I do not "prevent parents from helping their girls." In each session we consider parental attitudes and motivations and explore ways of improving communications within the family. Most teen-agers, unfortunately, express great fear of hostility and rejection from their parents should the kids try to be more honest.

I do not "seek to involve minor children in sex." The emotional pitfalls of sexual relationships are discussed as well as the potential problems of pregnancy and venereal disease. I stress the importance of personal integrity and self-respect as the prime determinant of all behavior - not just sexual.

I do not "contribute to increases in venereal disease, illegitimacy, and abortion." By giving teen-agers accurate information about v.d. we improve the prevention and speed both recognition and treatment of the diseases . . .

I would not be a part of "irresponsible dispensing of contraceptives." Physicians at the Marin clinic will examine only sexually active girls . . .

Businesses Gouged By Phone Company

Once again it seems that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph has scored a direct hit on a new method of extracting funds from the overburdened consumer to make up for the refund it may be required to pay in the near future.

On Dec. 13, all businesses in the Bay area received a letter stating as of Dec. 15, businesses instead of paying $15.65 a month for an unlivited number of local calls, would be paying $7.55 a month for 80 local calls at no charge and almost 5 cents extra for every local call after 80.

On the surface this doesn't seem too bad. But stop and think, any business that makes only 80 local calls in a month wouldn't be much of a business. If a medium size business makes 50 calls a day (not unusual), that makes the cost per month approximately $58, or to put it another way, an almost 400 per cent increase. How's that for your wage and price freeze scrapbook? And, unfortunately, as another expense of doing business, the business passes it on to the consumer.

Also interesting, the form letter that was sent out gave an address of 666 Folsom St. with no phone number to call (that seems an unusual practice for a phone company) and was signed only "Sincerely, Your Service Representative." After numerous phone calls, not to my amazement, no one seemed to know who my "service representative" was. I finally got a sympathetic operator in my local business office who "would have to check with her supervisor" on this matter.

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Jan. 31, the 31st day of 1972.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1942 the Soviet Union announced the virtual annihilation of 330,000 Nazi troops at Stallingrad. It was a turning point of World War II on the Eastern front.

In 1953 more than 2,000 persons were killed when North Sea storms flooded Holland.

In 1958 the U.S. launched its first satellite into orbit — Explorer I.

Party Tension In Red China Will Be Concealed From Nixon

THE CHINA NIXON WILL SEE: On the surface it will be calm; underneath it will be churning.

On the eve of Kissinger's first trip to Peking, China's number two, Defense Minister Lin Piao, designated by Mai Tse-tung himself as his successor, was purged, probably liquidated.

Two-thirds of the 21 leaders who were in the highest echelon of the party and the government have been dropped.

Mao has been prying loose the grip of the Chinese army. Lin Piao was known to be very reluctant, bordering on hostile, to inviting Nixon.

Tension within the leadership is considerable but Mao and Chou En-lai remain in effective control.

They want better relations with the United Staes because of their bad relations with the Soviet Union.

PEKING-MOSCOW GAP WIDENS. The most knowledgeable western expert on both China and Russia is Prof. Klaus Mehnert of West Germany. He has spent six years in each country and speaks both languages fluently. In his new book, "China After the Storm," written after a recent trip through China, he makes this arresting statement:

"China's divergencies (political, economic, cultural) from the Soviet Union have become greater than the differences between Russia and the West."

MUSKIE NOW MORE THAN FRONT-RUNNER. Political insiders are becoming convinced that Senator Muskie has the Democratic nomination as near to being locked up today as Nixon had the Republican nomination at this tiem in 1968. The evidence:

Muskie has the Democratic pros; he is getting the Democratic voters.

The latest polls show him lunging ahead, leading Kennedy among Democratic rank-and-file for the first time.

Hubert Humphrey is his only serious rival and Muskie is winning labor support which got Humphrey the nomination four years ago.

Thirteen senators have already come out for Muskie; one for Hubert.

Both the Gallup and Harris surveys show McCarthy, Lindsay, McGovern and Jackson so far down in the preferences as to be out of the running.

Muskie could stumble but he is not stumble-prone.

SHIRLEY CHISHOLM NO TOKEN CANDIDATE. She may only get token support at the Democratic convention but she is a serious candidate.

This attractive, black women member of Congress from Brooklyn is the most charismatic politician in the lists. She draws rallies as big, sometimes bigger, than Muskie or Humphrey.

Her support comes from white middle-class women who like seeing a woman run for President, from ethnic minority groups, from students, and from blacks. But Shirley finds that black male politicians are as prejudiced against women in politics as are white male politicians.

She'll get a small kitty of delegates which will add to the leverage of the Black Caucus at the convention.

WHY RHODESIAN BLACKS REVOLT. The reason is that the terms of settlement reached by the British and Rhodesian governments to bring about ultimate majority rule have a built-in long, long delay.

It would be 2035 before majority rule could be expected to come about. In Rhodesia today 249,000 Europenas rule 5,200,000 Africans and the blacks aren't going to wait 63 years to redress the balance.

Japanese In Guam Jungle And Prisoners Of Hanoi

WASHINGTON — Disqualify the clean-cut astronauts and bypass Mr. Nixon telling us sincerely about his secret search for peace. The world's champion square has come stumbling in, not from the moon or the Oval Office or anywhere else out there in TV land, but from the jungles of Guam.

This one has long hair. He, too, has expertise in matters of peace and war, but his is based not on high-level briefings and decoded diplomatic cables, but rather on firsthand experience followed by years of contemplation.

His name is Shoichi Yokoi. His return from the jungle reminds me of two other groups of men who have spent the best years of their lives out of touch with humanity.

Yokoi is the Japanese army sergeant who was believed killed when American troops recaptured Guam in the summer of 1944 — but in fact was alive in the jungle, keeping faith with his orders not to surrender, until two hunters blundered into him and brought him into the town of Agana last week.

HE HAD BEEN HIDING, 28 years, while the atomic bomb was dropped on his homeland, his war ended, his country and ours became allies, and swarms of our B-52s took off across his hiding place to shuttle bombs onto the mainland in another war he did not even know of. He needed a shave and a haircut and some diet supplements, but he had survived nicely on breadfruit, snails, rats, papaya and other jungle delicacies.

Lots of old jokes are about hermits, and Yokoi is rich material because he was out of touch eight years longer than Rip Van Winkle. Some of our and his countrymen will laugh at him for the very idea of what he did, because it is so square and old-fashioned. People are not supposed to take things like duty so seriously any more.

One of the things his story reminds me of happened when the last previous Japanese hideaways were flushed out of the Guam jungle, and were believed then to be the last ones remaining. I relate it accurately in spirit, if not in detail. When one enlisted man went back to Japan after his years of hardship, he was greeted as a hero. When he arrived at the pier, there waiting as part of the welcoming committee was his old battalion commander, the officer who had waved his sword on the eve of battle and made the inspirational speech about honoring the emperor and never surrendering. There he stood, fat, prosperous, smiling, extending his hand. The man just home from the jungle bloodied his nose.

Whether to laugh is your option.

THE OTHER GROUP Yokoi's story brings to mind is the American prisoners in Vietnam, who have become chips in the poker game Hanoi is winning with such contemptuous ease. There are only some 1,400 of them in all, which seems a ridiculous few compared to the thousands who have died there. But the people here waiting for them do not think of them as a group, as barely double the number of Americans killed in one week at the peak of the 1968 Tet campaign. They are individuals, for whose return many of their wives and children would readily swap anything Hanoi demands.

Hanoi knows this. It knows Mr. Nixon has tied himself so closely to the POW cause that he will keep upping the ante until they are released. It also knows statesmen like Sentor Fulbright, D-Ark, said the only thing wrong with the President's peace efforts was that enemy found them unacceptable. It knows, then, that time continues to be on its side. So it will be awhile longer before the prisoners come home.

Some of them have been prisoners since the start of the air offensive against North Vietnam, which was seven years ago next month. That is not so long compared to Sergeant Yoloi's stay in the jungle. But it is long enough for a great deal of history to have passed, including decisive turns in their war, bombing halts, elections, and now mass withdrawals of American forces from the theater.

THESE MEN have not been entirely out of contact with the world. They have been able to read books carefully chosen by their captors, and keep up with the broad outlines of current events, also in the version their captors prefer. They have not, as far as we know here, been in solitary confinement. They apparently have been able to talk to each other and to give a lot of thought, together and alone, to how they got where they are.

One of them, chosen by Hanoi to speak with a visiting newsman, said, "I know I've had the deepest discussions I've ever had in my life with my fellow-prisoners here. We've had to go to the very core of a number of things — loyalty, what it is, where does il lie; and morality, legality, things that in our affluent, rushed life I suppose that in our country we don't give much thought about. But here we definitely do . . ."

The Japanese soldier who was greeted as a hero at home obviously thought often about such questions in those years he spent in the jungle. And when he finally got back he bloodied his old commanding officer's nose. Which brings us to wonder which ringing statements our own captive countrymen will remember when at last they step off that jet onto the tarmac of home — and which diplomatic decisions and which senators and candidates, and what they will feel like doing about them.

Marin Electors Getting Told Their Votes Don't Mean Much

Good grief! What's happening to local government?

In three short months, we've witnessed two elected bodies in Marin tell their constituencies, in essence, "no matter what you say, we know what's best."

I refer, of course, to the Marin Community College District board's decision to go ahead with construction of the north campus and the Mill Valley City Council's vote to pay councilmen.

In both cases, the voters had recently and overwhelmingly said "no."

They didn't say "you make the decision, Mr. Councilman," or, "whatever's right, Mr. College Trustee." They said "no."

THE COLLEGE BOARD'S decision, while certainly costly to taxpayers, may be a little easier to live with than the money grab of the Mill Valley Council.

For years the college board has been mapping out plans for its Novato campus. It has made promises to Novato taxpayers that someday they would have a community campus. And in 1970, the first college bond measure just missed the needed two-thirds majority vote.

Defeat of the second bond measure was a pretty big pill to swallow, especially with the ever-increasing enrollment at College of Marin in Kentfield.

All that doesn't make right the college board's vote to go ahead anyway because state law permits, but it might explain the frustration behind their decision.

THE MILL VALLEY Council has less excuse.

In 1970, voters turned down a pay proposal by a two-to-one margin.

But that didn't seem to bother three of our councilmen who earlier this month voted themselves a $150-a-month salary "because you have to recognize people's efforts."

Indeed! The council ought first to recognize the efforts of the taxpayers to keep up with the burden of financing city government.

All three of the councilmen knew when they ran for election the positions they sought were nonpaying. The voters confirmed that.

One of the councilmen who voted in favor of the raise this time was a prime mover in the defeat of it at the polls two years ago.

It all makes one wonder why bother with elections when three people can wash it all away for a crummy $150 a month.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Trouble In Yugoslavia Fomented By Russia

By PAUL WOHL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Watch Yugoslavia when President Nixon is in Peking.

The two are thousands of miles apart. But usually well-informed business interests with long-established connections in Europe warn that Moscow may take advantage of Mr. Nixon's presence in China to spark an uprising in the Yugoslav republic of Croatia.

This, it is feared, could even serve as a pretext for Russian armed forces to restore their kind of Socialist order from the Danube to the Adriatic.

Croatia, the second most populous and rich republic of the Yugoslav Federation, is seething. And as Croatia goes, so goes Slovenia, which in wealth leads all six Yugoslav republics.

IN THE PAST few months, Croatia's government has changed four times. Yugoslav President Tito, himself a Croat, has taken strong measures and threatens to call out the army to defend the integrity of the Yugoslav state.

According to a Reuters dispatch from Zagreb, the capital of Croatia, dated Jan. 14, hundreds of Croats have been arrested or questioned recently. The new Croatian government has been told that in December there were 837 reports to magistrate courts in connection with "counter-revolutionary activity."

Scores of Croat judges have been relieved of their duties, presumably for being too lenient in handling "counter-revolutionary" cases. The republic's parliament and administration have been shaken up.

President Tito himself has warned of the danger of foreign intervention and of attempts to detach Croatia from the Yugoslav Federation.

On Dec. 13, Radio Zagreb quoted old-time pro-Tito Croat Leader Jakov Blazevic to the effect that events in Croatia resulted from an "international plot against socialism in Yugoslavia... had President Tito not taken measures, there would have been fighting in the streets... civil war has already started in Croatia in a milder form."

WHAT IS THIS "international plot" against which pro-Tito Yugoslavs have warned? What are these "counter-revolutionary" activities?

Croatian anti-Serb nationalism is known in the West mainly through the Ustashi movement, which reputedly has struck at Yugoslav representatives abroad. Last year's killing of the Yugoslav ambassador in Sweden was the latest spectacular Ustashi action.

The movement harks back to the setting up of an independent, Nazi-sponsored Croatia in 1941 under Ante Pavelic, who until his death last year was the undisputed leader of the Ustashis.

In recent years, Croatian nationalists have turned to the Russians for support. The pro-Soviet Croat separatist movement has long been in evidence inside Yugoslavia's Croat Republic.

TO REACH the Adriatic has been an aim of Russian empire policy since Peter the Great, and it may appeal to aggressive elements within the current Soviet leadership.

Officially Moscow remains aloof. Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, on the occasion of his visit to Belgrade last September, sought to appease President Tito's apprehensions. But the precedent of Czechoslovakia has not been forgotten.

A repetition of the Warsaw Pact's Czechoslovak scenario in Yugoslavia is out of the question. Yet a new angle might be found with the help of the pro-Soviet Croat emigrants and their supporters inside the country.

Marshal Tito and the generals of the Yugoslav armed forces undoubtedly are on guard. And the majority of the people, even in Croatia, probably support them.

But in recent years Yugoslavia has virtually been an open country. During this time arms caches could have been set up. And a nationalistic uprising in Croatia, fed from these caches, is not out of the question.

Should the situation get too tense, it is not impossible that the Russians might fly forces to Zagreb, to Ljubljana, the capital of Slovenia, and to Rijeka on the Adriatic to restore a Croat socialist order beholden to Moscow.

Mrs. Reagan To Be A Columnist

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The wife of Gov. Ronald Reagan, with a joking assurance that her husband wouldn't be editing her remarks, has agreed to take a try at being a newspaper columnist.

She will write a weekly question-and-answer column beginning Sunday in the Sacramento Union, which said Mrs. Reagan's remarks would be made available to other newspapers owned by Copley Press, Inc.

In announcing the column in a half page ad in last Sunday's editions, the Union said the state's first lady would answer questions concerning "her family, her role as the wife of California's governor and her personal view on current issues..."

British Officials Alarmed By Climbing Jobless Rate

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's jobless total has topped the million mark for the first time in a quarter century, and the government and economic experts are voicing concern that high unemployment may be here to stay.

Government officials still are hopeful it will not remain at the one million level, generally considered socially and politically unacceptable.

They predict further rises in February and March from the mid-January figure of 1,023,583, or 4.3 per cent of the nation's work force. Then, it is hoped, unemployment will drop by 250,000 in the summer.

But the nation is being prepared cautiously to accept the likelihood that the jobless total will even off and stay at much higher level than this nation has known since World War II.

The Financial Times of London predicted recently, "The level of unemployment, even at the top of the business cycle, may be a good deal higher than we have been used to since the war."

The Sunday Telegraph of London said "the level of unemployment, hitherto looked on as politically and morally acceptable, may be obsolete."

Prime Minister Edward Heath told parliament Jan. 24 that Britain today is experiencing a kind of unemployment it never went through before.

He said British industry is producing about as much as it did two years ago but is using 400,000 fewer workers to do it.

In fact, government figures show about two million fewer people are working in Britain than two years ago.

Economists says this means British industry has been carrying out and still is carrying out a "shakeout" of excess workers unknown in this country in modern times.

The London Observer described the process as creation of "technological unemployment or the substitution of machines for men." It said British industrilialists are reluctant to throw away the benefits of increased productivity they have gained from the more efficient use of labor.

Although Britain today has between 1.5 and two million WestIndian , Pakistani, Indian and Irish immigrant workers in its 25 million member work force, unemployment curiously has not yet become a serious problem among them.

Government officials say this probably is because, in any case, they are in the kinds of disagreeable and menial jobs shunned by British workers.

The industries of heaviest unemployment are those on which Britain built its prosperity in the 19th century and which now are shrinking— among them coal mining, railroads, shipbuilding and textiles.

The government is aware there is little hope of finding new jobs for workers laid off in these industries. Instead, it is concentrating on a massive program of retraining of workers for other industries with a better chance of survival.

Orr Hearing Again Tonight

A Fairfax Board of Review hearing into the firing of Police Chief James R. Orr will resume at 7:30 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

City Atty. Wallace S. Myers is expected to continue his questioning of Orr, who is Myers's 15th witness in the city's case against the fired chief.

Monday's session will be the 18th since the board of review hearing began last Nov. 16.

Newton: Panthers Will Work Within The System

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Huey P. Newton says the Black Panthers are going to work within the system for social and economic advances for blacks, and he blames fugitive Eldridge Cleaver for losing community support with a "pick-up-the-gun-now" philosophy.

In his first interview since charges in the 1967 slaying of a policeman were dropped, Newton said Sunday that his future efforts would be geared toward "organizing the community."

Newton, 29, lashed out at Cleaver, the expelled Panther minister of defense, during a two-hour interview in his $650-a-month apartment overlooking scenic Lake Merritt.

Cleaver fled the country in 1968, three days before he was ordered to surrender to authorities in Oakland as a parole violator. He was last reported in Algiers, where he resigned his post with the Panthers.

Newton was freed in December when the district attorney's office decided a fourth trial in the slaying of officer John Frey would be fruitless. The decision came four days after a jury deadlocked 6-6 in Newton's third trial on voluntary manslaughter charges.

An earlier trial last year also resulted in a deadlocked panel. The first in 1968 ended in a guilty verdict which was overturned by an appellate court on grounds of judicial error.

Newton, the party cofounder, served 22 months in prison before the appellate court's ruling.

Newton said that while he was in prison and the party was under Cleaver, "the community turned off on my whole program."

He said Cleaver offered a choice between "either picking up the gun now and winning the revolution, or you are an Uncle Tom."

"In order to win you must participate whether it's electoral politics or the contradictions going on in the church," Newton said in a relaxed interview.

Newton, sipping whiskey at a long table defended a recent agreement with a group of black businessmen that guaranteed contributions toward the party's activities.

The pact ended months of Panther picketing at a liquor store owned by black businessman Bill Boyette, who said the tactic drove him to the verge of bankruptcy.

"They will get more customers and a tax writeoff," Newton said.

Courts Create Delays Thwarting Justice

In San Francisco two weeks ago, California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger told the Commonwealth Club that the American system of justice "appears on the verge of collapse" because of what happens subsequent to the investigation of a crime and arrest of a suspect.

In New York on the same day, the chairman of that state's Joint Legislative Committee on Crime told Gov. Nelson Rockefeller that no program of prison reform, no matter how well conceived nor how expensive, could be effective without "restructuring of our chaotic court system."

The New York criticism was directed chiefly at pretrial and trial procedures. Attorney General Younger aimed his sharpest shafts at the appellate courts. But both found the system is mired in complexities of its own creation. And both were sharply critical of its delays.

"IT IS ONLY to the innocent that the Sixth Amendment's promise of a speedy trial means anything," Younger pointed out. "To the guilty, delay is the most effective ally."

The California attorney general voiced a truth that judges and attorneys usually prefer to avoid mentioning:

"A defendant at liberty pending trial can help his lawyer secure continuances by committing crimes, secure in the knowledge that if he's caught and charged with a subsequent offense, a continuance of the original trial date and a further postponement of the day of reckoning is assured."

Moreover, he noted: "A defense attorney can guarantee his client a trial delay of months, or even of years, if he can get an appellate court involved immediately after a charge is filed. A claim that a constitutional question is involved is almost irresistible."

State Sen. John H. Hughes, R-Syracuse, who heads the New York legislative committee, reported that of several thousand arrests of organized crime figures over the last decade in that state, only five per cent resulted in prison sentences.

Obviously, they know how to work the delays in New York as well as in California.

MANY OTHERS besides Attorney General Younger and New York State Senator Hughes have inveighed against the inordinate delays in court disposition of criminal cases. There have been and continue to be attempts at remedy by legislative action, by increasing the number of courts, and in various other ways.

For the most part, however, these delays do not result from flaws in the law. They result from the courts' own actions. They exist because judges want them to exist — or are afraid to do anything about it.

The huge number of appeals in recent years, cited by Younger, provides an obvious example. Every court above the county level now wants to get into the act on constitutional questions — which used to be reserved for state or federal supreme courts on direct appeal.

Perhaps one explanation for the delays that so often defeat justice lies in a simple human trait: The judges, who yesterday or a few years ago were themselves lawyers representing clients, dislike to offend their fellow members of the bar; so they permit delays to comply with attorneys' wishes, and consider frivolous appeals for the same reason.

Was Ouster Of Sullivan To Appease Water Interests?

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

There was an earlier day when an earlier day when Gov. Ronald Reagan displayed agonized reluctance to fire a top aide touched by scandal, but he was in an awful hurry surface in this affair. when he demanded the resignation of Kerry W. Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board.

Despite fancy denials from the governor's office, the big money politics of water seems to be beating somewhere close to the surface in this affair.

Spokesmen for the governor claimed that Mulligan's resignation was demanded because he "has served as a consultant for a private engineering firm which has sought contracts with public agencies outside California," thus was guilty of a conflict of interest. The spokesmen insisted that the governor's action was not because of an accusation by Hawaiian officials that Mulligan had offered a $20,000 to a Honolulu official.

THE GOVERNOR'S office has refused, however, to elaborate on the nature of the alleged conflict of interest, hiding instead behind "legal reasons," which it also refuses to explain. Some wonder if the governor in fact was not looking for "legal reasons" to act as he did against Mulligan.

Not mentioned by the governor's office was the fact that the Reagan administration has been split bitterly since July, when Mulligan's board issued its highly controversial water rights decision controlling flows into the California Water Project. The decision, which guaranteed high flows of fresh water into the delta, stepped hard on the toes of powerful water interests.

Rumors have been flying that Mulligan and his fellow board members were marked for political execution as their terms expired. Political independence is not admired within the Reagan administration.

The first work of Mulligan's problem in Hawaii came last Sunday night in a Honolulu television newscast. By 8:30 a.m. on Monday, he was on the carpet before the governor's staff, and the demand that he quit came within hours — without even a personal meeting with the governor.

The unexplained circumstances of his removal inevitably suggest the possibility that Mulligan was dumped to appease powerful water interests that have a multi-billion-dollar stake in squeezing the last drop from the water project. These interests — agricultural and land — are determined to have the water project run exclusively to their benefit. Mulligan may have been only the first to go. More will follow, we'd wager.

A SOMEWHAT LEADEN trial balloon has been floated our way by Richard Alan Raznikov, the 26-year-old law student who ran unsuccessfully last year for San Rafael mayor. He said he hopes to run this June for the Democratic nomination in the Seventh Assembly District — if he can raise $1,000 to start a campaign.

He figures that he could have a real chance for election, thanks to the new 18-year-old vote and plans for an intensive door-to-door campaign.

But, according to the county elections office, Raznikov is registered as having declined to state a political party preference, thus cannot run in the Democratic primary.

He could join Thomas T. Storer in court in a legal test of the Election Code restrictions. Storer wants to run for Congress as an independent, but still was registered as a Democrat too late to qualify legally as an independent.

Replace Office Holders With Computers?

Thank you for your consistent efforts to keep the number of county employees within bounds. I am referring especially to your editorials of Jan. 12 and 24. The Parkinson's Law rolls onward more powerfully than the heaviest bulldozer. Many politicians and political candidates who are for more and more government agencies come forward with great logical arguments. They are so logical they could be arrived at by a computer. At the going rate of the cost of a politician to the taxpayer, the computer might be cheaper.

'Wilderness' Movie Succession Of Killings

Saturday afternoon I took my children to see a movie entitled "American Wilderness." From the ads on television I understood it was a documentary about some of the beautiful animals in North America. In every ad it was specified that it was a movie the whole family could attend. My children and I enjoy animal films so we went.

The film did indeed have some lovely footage of rams, elk, bears, etc. The camera zoomed in on some of the stunning beasts, shots would ring out and the animals would fall wounded or dead. It turns out that the film is really a hunting expedition. In nearly every sequence an animal is shot to death and it is grotesque. In one section of the film a dead ram's head is tied to the hunter's knapsack because the "prize-size" horns of the ram look as if they might make the record book.

"American Wilderness" appears to be a fund-raising farce to reimburse the hunters for the cost of their trip and filming. It is not a movie for children — it is not a movie for many adults. It is an ego trip for the hunters. . .

I would encourage parents to avoid attending the movie with youngsters and perhaps if others would write letters to the producers of this dreadfully misrepresented movie.

Planned Parenthood Volunteer's Role

On last week's KTIM "Sounding Board" program (scheduled in response to a recent I-J editorial) statements were made which caused me much distress. I am much concerned with the dangers inherent in today's permissive attitudes toward sex; that is why I volunteer my time to lead rap sessions at Planned Parenthood.

I do not "prevent parents from helping their girls." In each session we consider parental attitudes and motivations and explore ways of improving communications within the family. Most teen-agers, unfortunately, express great fear of hostility and rejection from their parents should the kids try to be more honest.

I do not "seek to involve minor children in sex." The emotional pitfalls of sexual relationships are discussed as well as the potential problems of pregnancy and venereal disease. I stress the importance of personal integrity and self-respect as the prime determinant of all behavior - not just sexual.

I do not "contribute to increases in venereal disease, illegitimacy, and abortion." By giving teen-agers accurate information about v.d. we improve the prevention and speed both recognition and treatment of the diseases . . .

I would not be a part of "irresponsible dispensing of contraceptives." Physicians at the Marin clinic will examine only sexually active girls . . .

Businesses Gouged By Phone Company

Once again it seems that Pacific Telephone and Telegraph has scored a direct hit on a new method of extracting funds from the overburdened consumer to make up for the refund it may be required to pay in the near future.

On Dec. 13, all businesses in the Bay area received a letter stating as of Dec. 15, businesses instead of paying $15.65 a month for an unlivited number of local calls, would be paying $7.55 a month for 80 local calls at no charge and almost 5 cents extra for every local call after 80.

On the surface this doesn't seem too bad. But stop and think, any business that makes only 80 local calls in a month wouldn't be much of a business. If a medium size business makes 50 calls a day (not unusual), that makes the cost per month approximately $58, or to put it another way, an almost 400 per cent increase. How's that for your wage and price freeze scrapbook? And, unfortunately, as another expense of doing business, the business passes it on to the consumer.

Also interesting, the form letter that was sent out gave an address of 666 Folsom St. with no phone number to call (that seems an unusual practice for a phone company) and was signed only "Sincerely, Your Service Representative." After numerous phone calls, not to my amazement, no one seemed to know who my "service representative" was. I finally got a sympathetic operator in my local business office who "would have to check with her supervisor" on this matter.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1942 the Soviet Union announced the virtual annihilation of 330,000 Nazi troops at Stallingrad. It was a turning point of World War II on the Eastern front.

In 1953 more than 2,000 persons were killed when North Sea storms flooded Holland.

In 1958 the U.S. launched its first satellite into orbit — Explorer I.

Party Tension In Red China Will Be Concealed From Nixon

THE CHINA NIXON WILL SEE: On the surface it will be calm; underneath it will be churning.

On the eve of Kissinger's first trip to Peking, China's number two, Defense Minister Lin Piao, designated by Mai Tse-tung himself as his successor, was purged, probably liquidated.

Two-thirds of the 21 leaders who were in the highest echelon of the party and the government have been dropped.

Mao has been prying loose the grip of the Chinese army. Lin Piao was known to be very reluctant, bordering on hostile, to inviting Nixon.

Tension within the leadership is considerable but Mao and Chou En-lai remain in effective control.

They want better relations with the United Staes because of their bad relations with the Soviet Union.

PEKING-MOSCOW GAP WIDENS. The most knowledgeable western expert on both China and Russia is Prof. Klaus Mehnert of West Germany. He has spent six years in each country and speaks both languages fluently. In his new book, "China After the Storm," written after a recent trip through China, he makes this arresting statement:

"China's divergencies (political, economic, cultural) from the Soviet Union have become greater than the differences between Russia and the West."

MUSKIE NOW MORE THAN FRONT-RUNNER. Political insiders are becoming convinced that Senator Muskie has the Democratic nomination as near to being locked up today as Nixon had the Republican nomination at this tiem in 1968. The evidence:

Muskie has the Democratic pros; he is getting the Democratic voters.

The latest polls show him lunging ahead, leading Kennedy among Democratic rank-and-file for the first time.

Hubert Humphrey is his only serious rival and Muskie is winning labor support which got Humphrey the nomination four years ago.

Thirteen senators have already come out for Muskie; one for Hubert.

Both the Gallup and Harris surveys show McCarthy, Lindsay, McGovern and Jackson so far down in the preferences as to be out of the running.

Muskie could stumble but he is not stumble-prone.

SHIRLEY CHISHOLM NO TOKEN CANDIDATE. She may only get token support at the Democratic convention but she is a serious candidate.

This attractive, black women member of Congress from Brooklyn is the most charismatic politician in the lists. She draws rallies as big, sometimes bigger, than Muskie or Humphrey.

Her support comes from white middle-class women who like seeing a woman run for President, from ethnic minority groups, from students, and from blacks. But Shirley finds that black male politicians are as prejudiced against women in politics as are white male politicians.

She'll get a small kitty of delegates which will add to the leverage of the Black Caucus at the convention.

WHY RHODESIAN BLACKS REVOLT. The reason is that the terms of settlement reached by the British and Rhodesian governments to bring about ultimate majority rule have a built-in long, long delay.

It would be 2035 before majority rule could be expected to come about. In Rhodesia today 249,000 Europenas rule 5,200,000 Africans and the blacks aren't going to wait 63 years to redress the balance.

Japanese In Guam Jungle And Prisoners Of Hanoi

WASHINGTON — Disqualify the clean-cut astronauts and bypass Mr. Nixon telling us sincerely about his secret search for peace. The world's champion square has come stumbling in, not from the moon or the Oval Office or anywhere else out there in TV land, but from the jungles of Guam.

This one has long hair. He, too, has expertise in matters of peace and war, but his is based not on high-level briefings and decoded diplomatic cables, but rather on firsthand experience followed by years of contemplation.

His name is Shoichi Yokoi. His return from the jungle reminds me of two other groups of men who have spent the best years of their lives out of touch with humanity.

Yokoi is the Japanese army sergeant who was believed killed when American troops recaptured Guam in the summer of 1944 — but in fact was alive in the jungle, keeping faith with his orders not to surrender, until two hunters blundered into him and brought him into the town of Agana last week.

HE HAD BEEN HIDING, 28 years, while the atomic bomb was dropped on his homeland, his war ended, his country and ours became allies, and swarms of our B-52s took off across his hiding place to shuttle bombs onto the mainland in another war he did not even know of. He needed a shave and a haircut and some diet supplements, but he had survived nicely on breadfruit, snails, rats, papaya and other jungle delicacies.

Lots of old jokes are about hermits, and Yokoi is rich material because he was out of touch eight years longer than Rip Van Winkle. Some of our and his countrymen will laugh at him for the very idea of what he did, because it is so square and old-fashioned. People are not supposed to take things like duty so seriously any more.

One of the things his story reminds me of happened when the last previous Japanese hideaways were flushed out of the Guam jungle, and were believed then to be the last ones remaining. I relate it accurately in spirit, if not in detail. When one enlisted man went back to Japan after his years of hardship, he was greeted as a hero. When he arrived at the pier, there waiting as part of the welcoming committee was his old battalion commander, the officer who had waved his sword on the eve of battle and made the inspirational speech about honoring the emperor and never surrendering. There he stood, fat, prosperous, smiling, extending his hand. The man just home from the jungle bloodied his nose.

Whether to laugh is your option.

THE OTHER GROUP Yokoi's story brings to mind is the American prisoners in Vietnam, who have become chips in the poker game Hanoi is winning with such contemptuous ease. There are only some 1,400 of them in all, which seems a ridiculous few compared to the thousands who have died there. But the people here waiting for them do not think of them as a group, as barely double the number of Americans killed in one week at the peak of the 1968 Tet campaign. They are individuals, for whose return many of their wives and children would readily swap anything Hanoi demands.

Hanoi knows this. It knows Mr. Nixon has tied himself so closely to the POW cause that he will keep upping the ante until they are released. It also knows statesmen like Sentor Fulbright, D-Ark, said the only thing wrong with the President's peace efforts was that enemy found them unacceptable. It knows, then, that time continues to be on its side. So it will be awhile longer before the prisoners come home.

Some of them have been prisoners since the start of the air offensive against North Vietnam, which was seven years ago next month. That is not so long compared to Sergeant Yoloi's stay in the jungle. But it is long enough for a great deal of history to have passed, including decisive turns in their war, bombing halts, elections, and now mass withdrawals of American forces from the theater.

THESE MEN have not been entirely out of contact with the world. They have been able to read books carefully chosen by their captors, and keep up with the broad outlines of current events, also in the version their captors prefer. They have not, as far as we know here, been in solitary confinement. They apparently have been able to talk to each other and to give a lot of thought, together and alone, to how they got where they are.

One of them, chosen by Hanoi to speak with a visiting newsman, said, "I know I've had the deepest discussions I've ever had in my life with my fellow-prisoners here. We've had to go to the very core of a number of things — loyalty, what it is, where does il lie; and morality, legality, things that in our affluent, rushed life I suppose that in our country we don't give much thought about. But here we definitely do . . ."

The Japanese soldier who was greeted as a hero at home obviously thought often about such questions in those years he spent in the jungle. And when he finally got back he bloodied his old commanding officer's nose. Which brings us to wonder which ringing statements our own captive countrymen will remember when at last they step off that jet onto the tarmac of home — and which diplomatic decisions and which senators and candidates, and what they will feel like doing about them.

Marin Electors Getting Told Their Votes Don't Mean Much

Good grief! What's happening to local government?

In three short months, we've witnessed two elected bodies in Marin tell their constituencies, in essence, "no matter what you say, we know what's best."

I refer, of course, to the Marin Community College District board's decision to go ahead with construction of the north campus and the Mill Valley City Council's vote to pay councilmen.

In both cases, the voters had recently and overwhelmingly said "no."

They didn't say "you make the decision, Mr. Councilman," or, "whatever's right, Mr. College Trustee." They said "no."

THE COLLEGE BOARD'S decision, while certainly costly to taxpayers, may be a little easier to live with than the money grab of the Mill Valley Council.

For years the college board has been mapping out plans for its Novato campus. It has made promises to Novato taxpayers that someday they would have a community campus. And in 1970, the first college bond measure just missed the needed two-thirds majority vote.

Defeat of the second bond measure was a pretty big pill to swallow, especially with the ever-increasing enrollment at College of Marin in Kentfield.

All that doesn't make right the college board's vote to go ahead anyway because state law permits, but it might explain the frustration behind their decision.

THE MILL VALLEY Council has less excuse.

In 1970, voters turned down a pay proposal by a two-to-one margin.

But that didn't seem to bother three of our councilmen who earlier this month voted themselves a $150-a-month salary "because you have to recognize people's efforts."

Indeed! The council ought first to recognize the efforts of the taxpayers to keep up with the burden of financing city government.

All three of the councilmen knew when they ran for election the positions they sought were nonpaying. The voters confirmed that.

One of the councilmen who voted in favor of the raise this time was a prime mover in the defeat of it at the polls two years ago.

It all makes one wonder why bother with elections when three people can wash it all away for a crummy $150 a month.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Trouble In Yugoslavia Fomented By Russia

By PAUL WOHL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Watch Yugoslavia when President Nixon is in Peking.

The two are thousands of miles apart. But usually well-informed business interests with long-established connections in Europe warn that Moscow may take advantage of Mr. Nixon's presence in China to spark an uprising in the Yugoslav republic of Croatia.

This, it is feared, could even serve as a pretext for Russian armed forces to restore their kind of Socialist order from the Danube to the Adriatic.

Croatia, the second most populous and rich republic of the Yugoslav Federation, is seething. And as Croatia goes, so goes Slovenia, which in wealth leads all six Yugoslav republics.

IN THE PAST few months, Croatia's government has changed four times. Yugoslav President Tito, himself a Croat, has taken strong measures and threatens to call out the army to defend the integrity of the Yugoslav state.

According to a Reuters dispatch from Zagreb, the capital of Croatia, dated Jan. 14, hundreds of Croats have been arrested or questioned recently. The new Croatian government has been told that in December there were 837 reports to magistrate courts in connection with "counter-revolutionary activity."

Scores of Croat judges have been relieved of their duties, presumably for being too lenient in handling "counter-revolutionary" cases. The republic's parliament and administration have been shaken up.

President Tito himself has warned of the danger of foreign intervention and of attempts to detach Croatia from the Yugoslav Federation.

On Dec. 13, Radio Zagreb quoted old-time pro-Tito Croat Leader Jakov Blazevic to the effect that events in Croatia resulted from an "international plot against socialism in Yugoslavia... had President Tito not taken measures, there would have been fighting in the streets... civil war has already started in Croatia in a milder form."

WHAT IS THIS "international plot" against which pro-Tito Yugoslavs have warned? What are these "counter-revolutionary" activities?

Croatian anti-Serb nationalism is known in the West mainly through the Ustashi movement, which reputedly has struck at Yugoslav representatives abroad. Last year's killing of the Yugoslav ambassador in Sweden was the latest spectacular Ustashi action.

The movement harks back to the setting up of an independent, Nazi-sponsored Croatia in 1941 under Ante Pavelic, who until his death last year was the undisputed leader of the Ustashis.

In recent years, Croatian nationalists have turned to the Russians for support. The pro-Soviet Croat separatist movement has long been in evidence inside Yugoslavia's Croat Republic.

TO REACH the Adriatic has been an aim of Russian empire policy since Peter the Great, and it may appeal to aggressive elements within the current Soviet leadership.

Officially Moscow remains aloof. Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, on the occasion of his visit to Belgrade last September, sought to appease President Tito's apprehensions. But the precedent of Czechoslovakia has not been forgotten.

A repetition of the Warsaw Pact's Czechoslovak scenario in Yugoslavia is out of the question. Yet a new angle might be found with the help of the pro-Soviet Croat emigrants and their supporters inside the country.

Marshal Tito and the generals of the Yugoslav armed forces undoubtedly are on guard. And the majority of the people, even in Croatia, probably support them.

But in recent years Yugoslavia has virtually been an open country. During this time arms caches could have been set up. And a nationalistic uprising in Croatia, fed from these caches, is not out of the question.

Should the situation get too tense, it is not impossible that the Russians might fly forces to Zagreb, to Ljubljana, the capital of Slovenia, and to Rijeka on the Adriatic to restore a Croat socialist order beholden to Moscow.

Mrs. Reagan To Be A Columnist

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The wife of Gov. Ronald Reagan, with a joking assurance that her husband wouldn't be editing her remarks, has agreed to take a try at being a newspaper columnist.

She will write a weekly question-and-answer column beginning Sunday in the Sacramento Union, which said Mrs. Reagan's remarks would be made available to other newspapers owned by Copley Press, Inc.

In announcing the column in a half page ad in last Sunday's editions, the Union said the state's first lady would answer questions concerning "her family, her role as the wife of California's governor and her personal view on current issues..."

British Officials Alarmed By Climbing Jobless Rate

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's jobless total has topped the million mark for the first time in a quarter century, and the government and economic experts are voicing concern that high unemployment may be here to stay.

Government officials still are hopeful it will not remain at the one million level, generally considered socially and politically unacceptable.

They predict further rises in February and March from the mid-January figure of 1,023,583, or 4.3 per cent of the nation's work force. Then, it is hoped, unemployment will drop by 250,000 in the summer.

But the nation is being prepared cautiously to accept the likelihood that the jobless total will even off and stay at much higher level than this nation has known since World War II.

The Financial Times of London predicted recently, "The level of unemployment, even at the top of the business cycle, may be a good deal higher than we have been used to since the war."

The Sunday Telegraph of London said "the level of unemployment, hitherto looked on as politically and morally acceptable, may be obsolete."

Prime Minister Edward Heath told parliament Jan. 24 that Britain today is experiencing a kind of unemployment it never went through before.

He said British industry is producing about as much as it did two years ago but is using 400,000 fewer workers to do it.

In fact, government figures show about two million fewer people are working in Britain than two years ago.

Economists says this means British industry has been carrying out and still is carrying out a "shakeout" of excess workers unknown in this country in modern times.

The London Observer described the process as creation of "technological unemployment or the substitution of machines for men." It said British industrilialists are reluctant to throw away the benefits of increased productivity they have gained from the more efficient use of labor.

Although Britain today has between 1.5 and two million WestIndian , Pakistani, Indian and Irish immigrant workers in its 25 million member work force, unemployment curiously has not yet become a serious problem among them.

Government officials say this probably is because, in any case, they are in the kinds of disagreeable and menial jobs shunned by British workers.

The industries of heaviest unemployment are those on which Britain built its prosperity in the 19th century and which now are shrinking— among them coal mining, railroads, shipbuilding and textiles.

The government is aware there is little hope of finding new jobs for workers laid off in these industries. Instead, it is concentrating on a massive program of retraining of workers for other industries with a better chance of survival.

Orr Hearing Again Tonight

A Fairfax Board of Review hearing into the firing of Police Chief James R. Orr will resume at 7:30 p.m. today at the Fairfax Women's Club.

City Atty. Wallace S. Myers is expected to continue his questioning of Orr, who is Myers's 15th witness in the city's case against the fired chief.

Monday's session will be the 18th since the board of review hearing began last Nov. 16.

Newton: Panthers Will Work Within The System

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Huey P. Newton says the Black Panthers are going to work within the system for social and economic advances for blacks, and he blames fugitive Eldridge Cleaver for losing community support with a "pick-up-the-gun-now" philosophy.

In his first interview since charges in the 1967 slaying of a policeman were dropped, Newton said Sunday that his future efforts would be geared toward "organizing the community."

Newton, 29, lashed out at Cleaver, the expelled Panther minister of defense, during a two-hour interview in his $650-a-month apartment overlooking scenic Lake Merritt.

Cleaver fled the country in 1968, three days before he was ordered to surrender to authorities in Oakland as a parole violator. He was last reported in Algiers, where he resigned his post with the Panthers.

Newton was freed in December when the district attorney's office decided a fourth trial in the slaying of officer John Frey would be fruitless. The decision came four days after a jury deadlocked 6-6 in Newton's third trial on voluntary manslaughter charges.

An earlier trial last year also resulted in a deadlocked panel. The first in 1968 ended in a guilty verdict which was overturned by an appellate court on grounds of judicial error.

Newton, the party cofounder, served 22 months in prison before the appellate court's ruling.

Newton said that while he was in prison and the party was under Cleaver, "the community turned off on my whole program."

He said Cleaver offered a choice between "either picking up the gun now and winning the revolution, or you are an Uncle Tom."

"In order to win you must participate whether it's electoral politics or the contradictions going on in the church," Newton said in a relaxed interview.

Newton, sipping whiskey at a long table defended a recent agreement with a group of black businessmen that guaranteed contributions toward the party's activities.

The pact ended months of Panther picketing at a liquor store owned by black businessman Bill Boyette, who said the tactic drove him to the verge of bankruptcy.

"They will get more customers and a tax writeoff," Newton said.

PAINFUL — One of more than 40 persons arrested near the El Monte headquarters of the American Nazi Party screams in pain as he tells officers the handcuffs are too tight. A Jewish Defense League demonstration ended yesterday in a rock and bottle throwing fight between Nazis and bystanders.

Fists Fly, 40 Jailed In Nazi, JDL Row

EL MONTE, Calif. (UPI)— The Jewish Defense League demonstrated outside the headquarters of the American Nazi party Sunday. Fists, rocks, bottles, an egg and a cherry bomb flew, a policeman's nose was bloodied, windows smashed and 40 persons arrested.

Most of those arrested were not Nazis or JDL members, police said, but onlookers who became violent or refused to disperse. The onlookers were apparently JDL Sympathizers, witnesses said.

Those arrested included eight women and 15 juveniles. They were booked on charges of disturbing the peace, failure to disperse and two juveniles were charged with felony assault on a policeman.

A policeman's nose was cut by a flying bottle.

About 600 JDL members marched before the two story headquarters of the Nazi group, now renamed "Storm troop 5 of the National Socialist White People's Party."

Seventeen members of the nazi group gathered in the front yard, protected by a chain link fence and carrying pistols, rifles and shotguns. They unfurled a "White Power" banner.

Joe Tommasi, leader of the Los Angeles and Orange County chapters of the party, said his storm troopers planned if trouble came to make their first stand at the fence, and then retreat into their swastika emblazoned building and shoot anyone trying to break in.

The demonstrators marched past the building three times in a protest that lasted about 10 minutes, and withdrew to a nearby park. The antinazi crowd had grown to about 1,000, police said, and there were heated exchanges of insults between the crowd and the nazis.

Rocks and bottles were thrown, a cherry bomb hurled from the mob exploded and a nazi threw an egg, witnesses said. A group of about 40 city police and deputy sheriffs were caught in a crossfire of rocks from both sides, ordered the crowd to disperse and then made a sweep of the area arresting those who refused to leave or resisted.

The militant Jewish group had planned to demonstrate at the headquarters to protest the Nazi presence in El Monte. The city council voted earlier this month to force the group out through an "unsightly property" law. The JDL then held the demonstration, the group said, to show that it supported th council's move.

New Device For Measuring The Heartbeat

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Hebrew University scientists have developed a portable device to monitor a person's heartbeat 24 hours a day as an early warning system against heart attacks.

A university spokesman announced Sunday that until now, doctors had relied on a two or three-minute electrocardiograph test as the basis for detecting heart ailments.

Now the portable device allows a 24-hour survey of heart activity under normal every day conditions of work, relaxation, sleep and what the spokesman described as average tensions.

JUST-FORMING FISH volunteer group offers emergency aid and referral service to Tiburon callers. Mrs. Paul Ogden (seated) and Mrs. Robert Bagnall respond with offers of housing, cooking, babysitting, transportation and visiting by volunteers listed in their contract-card file.

ORGANIZATION FISH

Neighbor Approach To Help

By PAT BALMES

"Need emergency help? Need immediate information? Need someone to talk to?" These questions appeared on leaflets inviting Tiburon residents to call the new Fish volunteer group. Leaflets were distributed to every house on Tiburon Peninsula in January by young volunteers for Fish.

A loosely-organized national volunteer movement, Fish is a group of neighbors willing to help others. Members respond to appeals such as temporary baby sitting in a broken home, doing chores for the suddenly ill, driving a person to a hospital emergency room or bringing meals to a family in which there is illness or death.

Their symbol is a fish, the sign by which early Christians identified one another. By the sale of Fish pins the group defrays expenses.

IN DONATED office space at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere volunteers staff Fish's hot line. The information operator has the new number of Fish in Tiburon.

Working in three shifts daily, volunteers answer the red telephone in the converted storage closet office from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 1 until 5 p.m. Night calls are answered by an exchange which bridges calls to a volunteer's home. Seventy-five volunteers rotate phone duty, half are St. Stephen's parishioners.

Calls come from people who need help in a hurry and don't know where to turn, or from their friends and neighbors. Some calls require a visit or errand. Others are referred to professional volunteer or public organizations. Many calls just need a friendly conversation to comfort an upset person.

The volunteer listens to the problem and, if possible, refers the caller to an appropriate county welfare agency listed in her resource book.

Only when emergency help is indicated does the volunteer consult Fish's box file of contract cards signed by people willing to contribute different kinds of services. The half-empty box needs many more cards from the community; blank cards have been left with many Tiburon organizations.

ONE CARD category, "I Will Baby Sit," includes contracts from both adults and teenagers.

Emergency-housing cards were tapped recently when a family lost their home by fire.

Cards listing men and women volunteer drivers are checked when requests come for necessary errands.

Cooking contracts, especially suitable for older volunteers, stipulate preference for making either casseroles and salads or desserts. Another anonymous volunteer delivers the meal before dinner time and conveys the surprised recipient's thanks to the cook.

One sick woman told the volunteer who delivered her meal that "when I am better I want to volunteer with Fish, too," she reported.

When a request is made of a contract-card volunteer, the date is recorded and he is not called again until all other volunteers offering the same service have been called.

THE BENEFIT to the volunteers, who remain anonymous, is "it makes you feel good," they report.

At the Fish office last week two founding volunteers, Mrs. Robert Bagnall and Mrs. Paul Ogden, explained Tiburon's need for emergency help.

"Some people wonder if Belvedere and Tiburon residents, who are educated to know which agencies to turn to, really need Fish. The answer is emphatically yes. It is a false premise that, with money, you should be able to take care of all your needs. Consider the lonely people and single women," said Nancy Bagnall.

Sandy Ogden imagined the kind of emergency situation that a Tiburon resident might find herself in.

She said, "Suppose a woman, whose husband was traveling, suddenly had to have emergency surgery. Whom does she turn to? She might hesitate to ask friends and neighbors to take on her responsibilities over an extended length of time, especially if there is a baby involved."

Many persons called St. Stephen's pastor, the Rev. John Thornton, about practical problems of that sort that he could not handle. He was "sick and tired of feeling guilty," he said. But he did not want to ask the same people to help all the time. Tiburon's new Fish group grew out of his frustration, experienced when he could not help people who called. An organized volunteer program involving the entire Tiburon community was needed.

This Fish group will work on Tiburon peninsula because it can be most effective in a small area.

"But we wouldn't refuse anyone," the women said, if they had enough volunteers.

They hope this Fish group will be an example to other communities to form their own. The only other Fish group in Marin at present is in Sausalito.

MRS. BAGNALL, who shouldered much of the responsibility for launching the fledgling group, has lived in Belvedere for 18 years.

She recalled, "I remember

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Reader Wonders If Christmas Will Ever Be The Same Again

DEAR HELEN:

Christmas is hardly over, yet I'm wondering if it is the last one I will see as I remember it.

It all began with the discontinuation of prayers in the schools. Next it was the nativity scene which was eliminated from public places — schools, buildings, etc. Now, the last straw, Christmas trees were banned in our schools last year.

Why a non-Christian minority should force the majority to give up these very real symbols of Christmas — the birth of Christ and the Christmas tree — when we respect their holidays, I cannot comprehend. Can you? — ???

DEAR???:

Have Christmas trees and nativity scenes been banned because of non-Christian sentiment or for other reasons? Lack of space or time, fire danger, budget cutbacks might be the culprits here, right?

No matter what, it's a pity. We sometimes forget that Christmas is "Christ's Mass" and should be celebrated as such. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Last year a group of us decided to "put Christ back in Christmas," and we began an investigation which soon astounded us.

It didn't take us long to discover that Christ couldn't be put back into Christmas because He was never there. All the encyclopaedias and magazines we read clearly showed that everything about Christmas was pagan and had its origins long before Christ. The date of Dec. 25 was the birthday of a sun god. The tree has nothing to do with religion, and many other Christmas customs — feasting, merrymaking, decorations, gift exchanges, etc. — go back to the Roman Festival of Saturn held in late December.

The whole idea of teaching children that a mythical Santa Claus brings them gifts is a lie that breeds selfishness and ingratitude. Even so-called good Christians use the holiday season as an excuse for overeating, overdrinking, and loose conduct. And department stores are the center of attraction, not the churches.

Also, nowhere in the New Testament is there mention of the need to celebrate the birth of Jesus.

Our decision therefore was to rid our family of the entire pagan mess that only causes frustration, greed, financial burden and has robbed us of joy. We have decided to give gifts through the year when they are more appreciated (because they're unexpected), have get-togethers at quieter times, and thank God each day for the birth of Christ. — INGRID

DEAR INGRID:

My encyclopaedia explains:

"Many popular Christmas customs originated long before the time of Christianity. The festival of Sol, the unconquerable sun, was celebrated by the Romans late in December. This was adopted by the church, as the greatest feast of the year, in honor of the birth of Christ, the Light of the World. There may have been a connection, too, with the Roman Saturnalia."

We all know that the exact date of Jesus's birth has not been established But in the fourth century the date of Dec. 25 was generally adopted.

I like our Christmas customs — from caroling to Santa to making cookies for neighbors — and it needn't be overly commercialized unless we make it so.

... And somehow I feel a little sorry for your children, Ingrid. — H.

Looser Look

Pants for spring move to a looser, wider look. Some call them bags, says Mildred Sullivan, director of the New York Couture Business Council. Many are pleated in front with Fred Astaire flare and cuffed. The pants come patterned or printed with a solid jacket, piped like men's pajamas or spic and span in white flannel or gabardine.

Problem: Make A Building Fire-Safe

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Recent hotel fires are reminders of the failure of human ingenuity to solve one of the seemingly easiest problems: making buildings safe for people in case of fire.

The Christmas tragedy in Seoul, Korea, took the lives of more than 155 people when fire broke out in a $6.8-million, two-year-old structure supposedly immune from such a disaster. More recently, a hotel fire in Pennsylvania also took innocent lives

Altogether, fire killed approximately 12,200 people in this country last year, according to figures compiled by the National Fire Protection Association. The total was the same as in the previous year.

Approximately half of the human toll occurred in private dwellings, few of which can be termed fireproof or fire resistant to any significant degree. The difficulties of eliminating all fire hazards in human abodes are well known.

ON THE other hand, there is a widespread assumption that public buildings labeled "fireproof" are just that when they are far from it. The fact that the skeletal structure consists of flameproof steel or concrete says nothing about the interior materials or furnishings.

Nor does it say much about the building's relative safety for people if a fire breaks out. The human factor seems to have lagged in the efforts to lessen the fire hazard of modern buildings.

That is also the conclusion of one of the nation's leading fire protection experts, Robert M. Patton, president of Patton Fire Protection and Research Inc. of Freehold, N.J.

Patton says "fireproof" high-rise structures are "not without merit." But he feels that their design and the codes governing them are often set up more for saving property than lives.

AT THE ultimate extreme, he says, the modern high-rise building is "nothing more than an excellent furnace, a perfect incinerator for people."

Most such structures, he adds, have a shell that is indeed fireproof while the rest of the building is combustible to varying degrees. He blames fire protection requirements which are aimed at the basic structure.

Yet, he says, the basic structure represents only 10 per cent of the normal fire problem. So 90 per cent of the attention is focused on only 10 per cent of the hazard, he says. The contents fire is virtually ignored by these requirements, according to Patton, who sells sprinkler systems.

Even sprinkler systems, he says, have improved very little since being developed in the 19th Century. They are aimed more at property than people. Regulations governing sprinkler systems have lagged behind the public need for protection, in Patton's opinion.

The Commerce Department recently called attention to another problem of high-rise buildings. A study disclosed that self-service elevators sometimes will go automatically to the burning floor where smoke causes the electric eye to prevent the doors from closing.

TEN YEARS ago, when Patton began actively challenging sprinkler regulations for their rigidity, he says, he was treated as an outcast by the fire protection community. Since then, he claims that his standing has risen as he has been able to demonstrate the need for drastic change.

The continuing toll of tragic fires further prove that need.

She attended St. Stephen's Church when services were held in an old house on Acacia Avenue in Belvedere. Mrs. Bagnall has been president of St. Stephen's Guild and vice president of Reed Union School District Parent-Teacher Club.

Now two of her children are married and one is in college. She shares a carpentry hobby with her insurance-broker husband. They remodeled their first Belvedere home and helped build their present home. On their 25th anniversary Nancy Bagnall's husband presented her with a professional carpenter's leather apron.

Another founding member, Mrs. Ogden of Tiburon, is the mother of two grade-school boys and wife of a physician. She also serves Tiburon City Council as a member of Tiburon Housing Element Committee, an adjunct to its planning commission.

The women noted that because of people's busy lives they tend to overlook their neighbors problems. Fish's goal is to help people become more aware of their neighbor's needs because "we may become that neighbor with a problem," said Nancy Bagnall.

Audience Loved Jose Feliciano

By IRA KAMIN

Jose Feliciano gave a pair of concerts Saturday night at 7 and 10 o'clock at the Veterans Memorial Building and his blend of Spanish-rock music drew as diversified a crowd as the many musical changes he passed through.

The 1,200 or so persons that almost filled the building for the earlier concert consisted of as many teen-agers as parents, a good portion of Spanish-speaking people and carefully dressed suburbanites seated next to more casually attired long-hairs.

Feliciano played his guitar with such dazzling facility, one could easily forget that the 30-year-old native of Puerto Rico has been blind from birth.

He sat perched center-stage on a stool, accompanied by bass and drums, playing and singing Spanish folk songs and rock and roll standards. And everything came out with Feliciano's rich, syncopated brand, like a Baptist minister making an ordinary sermon come to life.

It's been a long haul for Feliciano. As he said in an improvised verse of George Harrison's "My Sweet Lord," "I was born in a poor section of town, ragged and poor/I believe that the lord included me in his plan/ when he put a guitar in my hand."

Feliciano struggled through the early 1960s, playing the coffee-house circuit, known only to a folk elite as a virtuouso boy-wonder guitar player. Then, in 1969, he made a hit adaptation of the Doors' "Light My Fire," and since has enjoyed the success of his own Spanish-speaking television show and more gold records.

What he did to "Light My Fire," distorting the original version and coming up with a more personal experssion, he did to everything he played and sang Saturday. And the audience loved it. He magnetized everyone with his smooth singing and ability on guitar, then gave each a little something extra with his variety of selections.

He played two of the Carpenters' songs as instrumentals — "We've Only Just Begun" and "Rainy Days and Monday." These placid ballads were counteracted when Feliciano played electric guitar on "Get Down" and "Only You Know and I Know."

When he puts down the acoustic guitar, Feliciano is also taking off some control and precision. The more abandoned electric stuff struck a note with the younger people in the audience.

But perhaps the most noticeable communication between Feliciano and the audience came on the Spanish numbers. When he sings in Spanish, a soulful yelp comes to his voice and as he dedicated the songs to the Spanish women in the audience, the cheering response was loud and immediate.

Feliciano was ably backed-up by Paulinho Magalhaes on drums and Ted Arnold on bass. With Feliciano playing full guitar chords and utilizing the entire neck of the instrument for runs, nothing more than bass and rums is needed.

Shanti, an Indian-rock group, opened the evening performances. Shanti features Ashish Khan on Sarod. (He is the son of the Sarod master Ali Akbar Khan.) The audience was entertained by the group's interplay of western and eastern music.

Miss Gampel, 12, Is A Show-Stopper

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Twelve-year-old Lilit Gampel, playing a three-quarter-size Amati violin, stole the show at yesterday afternoon's concert of the Israel Chamber Orchestra at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

She fully deserved the standing ovation of the audience of some 600 music lovers, not because she was a prodigy, but because she was qualified to be the featured artist with this group of about 30 first-rate young musicians from Isreal which is making its second tour of this country. Miss Gampel is from Los Angeles, where she was discovered last year after winning the Young Musicians Foundation competition.

The program consisted of two 18th century works — the classical Haydn Symphony No. 83 in G minor and the Mozart Violin Concerto No. 4 in D major — and two contemporary works: "Ricercar" by Seter and Hindemith's "The Demon" — 28. They were directed by Gary Bertini, founder and artistic director of the orchestra, whose versatile, dynamic style made his handling of the very different periods equally effective.

In the Haydn symphony especially, and in the Mozart concerto featuring Miss Gampel, Bertini's manner and the music evoked to perfection an elegant little 18th century court orchestra.

Wearing a mini-dress, knee socks and Mary Janes, Miss Gampel looked even younger than her years and conjured a picture of the child prodigy Mozart, who was discovered to have learned to play the violin before he had lessons. Lilit's playing was far from childlike after only six years of lessons. It had fantastic accuracy of intonation, robust and assured lovely tone and flawless technique.

Had her playing not been so exquisitely expressive, she might have seemed stolid, so devoid was it of mannerisms and all but essential movement. The excitement was all in the music. A major virtuoso is in the making if she fulfills her promise.

The first of the contemporary works, using only violins, violas and cellos, was "ricercar" in the form that was a predecessor to the fugue — and indeed, it included a triple fugue. The three themes were beautifully performed by the three solo instrumentalists — Alexander Tal, violin; Gad Lewertoff, viola, and Samuel Magen, cello. The viola tone was one of the most pleasing this writer has heard. Imitative handling of the themes by the ensemble and timing of the dialogue among the various string choirs were adroit.

Hindemith's "The Demon," using the full orchestra again with piano added (played by Ruth Menze), made a very brilliant finale. Originally a ballet, it was full of strong rhythms and jagged, dissonant harmonies reminiscent of Stravinsky's ballets. Yet the demon, representing the evil in manking, also was a charmer in some seductively lyrical passages.

Bertini and the orchestra made it an exhilarating musical experience.

Israel Gets Ready For Suez Talks

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel sent its ambassador back to Washington today for more clarifications before it accepts a U.S. proposal for indirect talks with Egypt on reopening the Suez Canal.

Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin was scheduled to meet in Washington later in the day with assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco in the latest in a series of sessions aimed at hammering out an agreement on the format of the negotiations.

Officials termed as "logical" a report that Israel was asking the United States to seek its prior approval for any proposals it would make as mediator should the talks become deadlocked.

"Israel prefers prior agreement between her and the U.S. before any proposal is put to Egypt, and does not want to content herself with prior consultations as the Americans prefer, for that means in fact an American decision," the newspaper Davar said.

The National Radio had said Israel was expected to agree to the U.S. proposals Sunday, but the communique following the meeting said only that Foreign Minister Abba Eban reviewed the political situation.

Government sources said Eban told the cabinet it could assume that discussions with the United States on the format of the negotiations would be completed shortly.

The newspaper Davar predicted the two governments would reach an agreement this week and that Israel would announce its approval of the talks after next Sunday's cabinet session.

The U.S. proposal is that both Egypt and Israel would send delegations to someplace where there would be "close proximity," and then the U.S. mediator would shuttle back and forth between them.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan will be in the United States early next month for meetings with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Doctor: Skyjackers Aided By Press, Law

DALLAS (UPI)—A psychiatrist who has studied airplane hijackers says the press and certain law officers actually have helped skyjackers by accommodating their wishes for publicity and self destruction.

"The media have betrayed this nation's skyjacking deterrence systems," said Dr. David G. Hubbard, who has created a special center to treat air pirates and has written a book on the subject.

He said newspaper coverage of hijackings in progress has "stimulated their sick need for notoriety and have communicated skyjacker techniques like Typhoid Mary in a nursery."

His comments came after a hijacking attempt Saturday in which Hubbard spoke through a three-way telephone hookup with the air pirate and TWA officials in New York.

The skyjacker, Garrett B. Trapnell , who demanded ransom and a flight to Dallas and Europe in that order, was shot, wounded and captured. Hubbard declined to reveal his role in the attempt, saying it would violate his recommendations for news media coverage.

Hubbard also criticized policemen who think the solution is to shoot skyjackers or make sure the ones caught get the death penalty.

"It's a great deal like telling a child, 'If you'll be bad, I'll give you candy,'" he said, indicating most hijackers carry a wish for their own deaths.

Hubbard recommended five changes the press should take to alleviate the problem:

— Eliminate simultaneous coverage of a hijacking.

Eliminate monitored conversations between the skyjacker and officials—some of which Hubbard said were broadcast live over a New York City radio station Saturday.

—Bury newspaper reports of hijackings on page 4 or deeper, instead of giving the story front-page treatment.

—Withhold specifics of the skyjackers' methods, and — Withhold details of how the hijacker was apprehended or stopped.

Hubbard said Basically, the press must use more restraint.

"They do this in riots. This is exactly the same. It is not censorship," he said.

"The system of monitoring airline communication channels during hijackings was started in Dallas, practiced in Chicago and perfected in New York," he said. "It recently nearly cost the lives of the crew involved."

Coln Paintings: Nothing Very New Or Different

By ADA GARFINKEL

There is nothing very new, different, or original about the impasto oil paintings of Olav Coln at Shorebirds Gallery in Belvedere through Feb. 12.

Nevertheless, with few exceptions, the paintings are well done. There is a dynamic boldness in some, and a misty, poetical airiness in others.

Coln — a professional structural engineer — deals largely in his paintings with masses — such as mountains and hills created by nature, or buildings and ships created by man. But it is the painting of abstract, airborne, fragmented froms with a capacity for tension that is his most knowledgeable expression.

This is particularly exemplified in "Shadow-play" in which an overall yellow-oxide color becomes a total void in which fragmentation of a solid takes place, creating its own diverse shadows and substance through subtle tonality and minute use of cool Phthalo blue.

Coln is adept at executing the palette-knife strokings which he employs, both in the thin, sharp jabs of complementary accents of color which lead the eye into vistas of space, as in "Oranges," and in the broad sweep of large areas as in the rich, ultramarine blue which creates a foreground for the blocky shapes in "Hot Pursuit."

A favorite device of palette-knife painters is the "nervous," black, diagonal structural line. Coln uses this device extensively, and most effectively in "Tug of War" — a symphony of reds — in which a great deal of vitality is created in the interplay of thrusts and elevations of blacks and reds — bold, muted, solid planes and gassy, vaporous pockets where interlocking colors have been allowed to "marry."

Hours at the Gallery, which is located on the Boardwalk in Belvedere, are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Fraud Money Draws Big Bank Interest For Inmate

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— Andrew Stone, a St. Louis businessman who defrauded the government of more than $6 million, has put the money in a St. Louis bank and apparently is collecting $350,000 annual interest on it while serving a 15-year prison term, the St. Louis Post Dispatch reported Sunday.

The paper quoted one government source as saying Stone had been giving away the interest earned on the money to friends and relatives.

Shortly after his commitment to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., the Post Dispatch said, the government and Stone made an agreement to let the St. Louis Institution hold the stolen money pendcg outcome of legal proceedings by the government to recover it.

Stone, his secretary, Mrs. Evelyn R. Price and a Washington Lawyer, Francis N. Rosenbaum, pleaded guilty in February, 1970 of conspiracy to defraud the government through kickbacks, phony invoices and secret arms shipments.

The Department of Justice acknowledged the existence of an escrow agreement with the former president of Chromcrafts of St. Louis. However, the Post dispatch said, it refused to give details.

"The government is not getting any financial benefit from the money — other than knowing where it is and that it is not being dissipated," said L. Stanley Paige, chief of the frauds section of the justice Department.

The paper said Stone, 55, never reported the funds as income, and the Internal Revenue Service has taken no action to attach or otherwise encumber the money or the interest.

Two Escapees Are Recaptured

NEWPORT, Ky. (UPI)—FBI agents today said they captured two inmates who escaped from Ohio Penitentiary by scaling a 30-foot wall and later fled with a hostage to Cincinnati.

Federal agents said Donald F. Ferdinand, 34, and Donald G. Manis, 28, were arrested early today in this area south of the Ohio border and were taken to Kenton County Jail.

Ferdinand, serving a term for armed robbery, and Manis, a convicted murderer sentenced to life in prison, escaped from Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus last Wednesday night. They were the first men to escape by scaling the wall of the 137-year-old state prison.

A third man who scaled the wall with them was captured.

Oil Leaks

MARTINEZ (UPI)—Nearly 21 gallons of oil leaked into San Francisco Bay , while bunker fuel was being loaded into a Norwegian tanker, Shell Oil Co. reported Sunday.

Electric Blanket Blamed In Fire

A short circuit in an electric blanket was blamed for a fire that did $15,000 damage to living units at the Tarrant Apartments at 3550 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, Saturday night.

The fire, reorted at 6:13 p.m., started in Apartment 16, occupied by Carl Westfall — who was out of town at the time, Marin County Fire Department officials said. The fire did $8,000 damage to the apartment house and $5,000 damage to the contents of Westfall's apartment.

There was also $2,000 water damage to the contents of Apartment 7 directly below, firemen reported. That apartment was occupied by Gerald Woehrle.

Three trucks and five men from Marin County Fire Department, assisted by one truck and four men from San Rafael Fire Department, brought the blaze under control within 14 minutes, county firemen reported.

Stripped Sports Car Is Found

A stolen 1964 pink Jaguar coupe was found Friday on the beach near China Camp, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The sports car, owned by Victoria Brunswig of Pinole, had been reported stolen earlier in San Anselmo. It had been stripped and burned out before it was run off the 100-foot embankment.

The Highway Patrol recovered the car at 3 p.m. on San Pedro Road about 1,000 feet south of China Camp.

Schwabacher Will Appear Tomorrow

An item in the 'Round Marin section of Saturday's Marin Magazine incorrectly said tenor James Schwabacher would give a concert tonight at the Fine Arts Building of the College of Marin.

Actually, Schwabacher will give his lecture-recital at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the college.

China Says Russia 'Infiltrates' Africa

ADDIS ABABA (UPI)—China today injected its conflict with the Soviet Union into the U.N. Security Council's special African session, accusing Russia of "actively infiltrating" Africa to establish a sphere of influence for itself.

In making the charge, Chinese Ambassador Huang Hua lumped Russia and Western "colonialism and neocolonialism" in one category.

Huang did not mention the Soviet Union by name anywhere in his 2,000-word speech before the council's fourth meeting since the session began Friday. But his reference to Russia was unmistakable.

"Imperialism, colonialism and neocolonialism are not reconciled to their defeat in Africa and are trying to stage a comeback, and social-imperialism is actively infiltrating into Africa in an attempt to contend with colonialism and neocolonialism for spheres of influence," he said.

"Social-imperialism" is generally acknowledged as one of the derogatory terms used by China in referring to Russia.

The meeting at which Huang spoke followed a closed session of the council working group at which Britain objected to some provisions of an African-proposed draft resolution on Rhodesia and Africans suggested amendments that would water it down to make it palatable to Britain.

Huang expressed full support of the African stand on Rhodesia, as on all other African questions. He denounced the Anglo-Rhodesian settlement terms negotiated last November as "an out-and-out fraud."

Speaking of both Western and Soviet postures in Africa, Huang said: "While engaging in political deception, they are either buying over traitors to carry out subversive activities and undermine indepedence of African countries, or organizing mercenary troops to commit flagrant armed invasion, or employing these different tactics at the same time..... This is an urgent problem Africa is now faced with."

Another urgent problem, he said, was continued political, economic and military aid to the "colonial and white racist" governments of Portugal, South Africa and Rhodesia from the West "particularly the United States and Britain."

ITS A COURTROOM — Earl Bussell faces three youthful judges of the Rohnert Park Bicycle Court. The judges are Shelley Holmes (left) Doug Von Feldt and Laree Holmes. They and three other police explorer scouts run the court twice a month.

BIKE BENCH

Youthful Court Judges Peers

By MARC NURRE

The miscreant put his elbows on the bench, rested his chin in his hands and looked at the judge.

"Did you get a license yet?" asked Judge Doug Von Feldt, age 15.

The youthful offender, brought before the Rohnert Park Bicycle Traffic Court because he had been caught riding his bike without having it licensed, grinned and shook his head no.

"Thirty days!" yelled a friend of his from the first row of seats. One of Judge Von Feldt's co-judges supressed a smirk, the other one looked grave, but Von Feldt remained unflapped.

"Well, you've got 10 days to get it licensed," he said, and that was it. Case closed.

Bailiff Ken Halliday called the next case. Up from the back of the room strode a confident boy, smaller than the rest, with cowboy boots nearly up to his knees, a shock of hair over his eyes, and his fly unzipped.

His case was handled the way all the other cases in the courtroom are disposed of during the bi-monthly sessions of the court — almost sotto voce at the bench.

He had run a stop sign, and the judges wanted to make sure he understood why he shouldn't do that again. When they were convinced he did, they "sentenced" him to write a 25 word composition on the subject of why he shouldn't ride through stop signs. It was to be turned in to the police department in a week.

At the start of the court session, at 10 a.m. in the city council chambers in Rohnert Park on the second and fourth Saturdays, the courtroom filled up as regular courts usually do — from the back forward.

Some youngsters were cowed by the majesty of the court — the tribunal of judges appeared in blue uniforms with Rohnert Park Police patches on their shoulders and wore badges — but others were just as indignant over their summons to the court as their parents would have been over a regular traffic citation.

Court sessions for the quieter youths took on all the solemnity of the confessional, while the more confident offenders, older youths mostly, laughed at times, leaned over the bench to draw finger diagrams in front of the judges and smiled to friends as they came away.

Judge Von Feldt came closest to losing his judicial composure when a teen-age girl said she didn't know why she shouldn't run a stop sign on her bike.

"Because there might be cars coming," he told her. "There weren't any cars coming — I could see," she insisted. Von Feldt looked at his co-judges, then looked back at the girl, and sentenced her to the usual why-I-should-run-a-stop-sign composition.

The court began sessions Dec. 4 in an effort to cut down on the number of bicycle thefts in the town and to stop unsafe riding habits which police felt were becoming more prevalent.

"Last summer, we averaged two stolen bikes a day," said Von Feldt after court had adjourned.

Licensing within the city consists of stencilling a number on the bikes so that if an officer checks the number against the cyclist and the two don't match, action can be taken. The number also aids in the recovery of stolen bikes.

The young jurists were sworn in by Superior Court Judge John H. Moskowitz in early December and told to be serious about the matters before the court and to be fair.

The judges were picked from members of the Rohnert Park Police Explorer Scout Post 69. There are six, and they man alternate shifts on every other Saturday.

But the court is tempered with good humor at times, because Judge Laree Holmes thinks it should be.

"I don't like to sit up here and be like a really mean girl," she said. "I like to smile and give a good atmosphere."

Bailiff Halliday, who calls the cases before the court ("You have to come before this court on a serious matter. Do you promise to answer all questions truthfully?"), admitted he had troubles with his job.

"Gol, I couldn't pronounce half them names," he said. But he managed well during Saturday's court session.

Sometimes, said Von Feldt, the court has trouble with either an offender or his parents — usually his parents.

"We get a few smart alecks in here," he said. Usually if a parent comes in to the court and defends his child, the child will be more apt to talk back than if he were alone, said Von Feldt.

Problems which develop in the court are referred to the Santa Rosa Juvenile Court.

Minister Forgery Suspect

Rev. Joseph Leon Hughes, pastor of the Church of All Faiths in Corte Madera, has been arrested on suspicion of forgery and making false statements about his financial condition.

The 52-year-old minister credited with reviving the failing Baptist church in 1968 was arrested at the parsonage, 5461 Paradise Drive, about 7 p.m., Friday, according to Corte Madera police.

Police said his wife, Ardith, told them earlier that day that her husband had signed her name to make two large bank loans last year.

In an effort to make his way out of the financial tangle, he allegedly forged, earlier this month, a document allowing him to use part of his wife's inheritance as collateral to refinance the previous two loans, according to police.

The first two loans were $1,500 and $1,000 from the Corte Madera branch of the Bank of America; the third applied for Jan. 7 and later granted was for $2,694 from the American Baptist Norcal Credit Union in Oakland, police said.

Police said the forged document to use his wife's inheritance for collateral was the basis for the final loan. Although unsure of the amount of the inheritance, police said it provides about $500 a month income.

Police said Mrs. Hughes became suspicious Thursday when she discovered their joint checking account at the Bank of America was closed by the bank five months ago. The bank then told her about the loans, police said.

Bank loans require the signature of both husband and wife, police said.

Reverend Hughes went to Corte Madera in June 1968 to take over the almost defunct First Baptist Church of Corte Madera. Under Hughes, the name was changed, the congregation became affiliated with the progressive American Baptist Convention, membership soared and an ambitious building program was undertaken.

Prior to taking over the Marin church, he was an executive director of the United Service Organizations Council in Japan.

He was booked into Marin County Jail, then released on $7,500 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

Stall In Larkspur Growth Sought By Resident Group

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A group of concerned Larkspur residents have urged city leaders to make their community a place to enjoy living and not just "a place."

Meeting Saturday at Henry C. Hall School for the second day of a two-day conference on city planning, about 75 residents said they want the city's planning consultant to chart a course away from intense development and toward salvaging what's left of the quiet atmosphere of years gone by.

The meeting, similar in format to the Larkspur Town Meeting forums, was sponsored by consultant Sydney H. Williams of San Francisco who is updating the city's six-year-old master plan.

The assemblage, which had been divided into groups on housing, open space, commercial development and city ordinances, appeared by meeting's end to be in support of stalling new growth in any way possible until the new plan is finished.

While much of the meeting was a rehash of past town meeting topics several newer proposals surfaced in the discussion of open space.

One called for study and development of a "skyline zoning ordinance" to prohibit development of hilltops and8ridgelines. Another was the possible annexation of the San Quentin Peninsula — including the prison — with special emphasis on protecting bay views and ridges.

A proposal that undeveloped areas be placed under a special "study zone" was enthusiastically supported by the group as a means of legally stalling development until the city decides what areas it wants preserved as open space.

The so-called "study zone," which the city has used in the past, prohibits any development on the property so zoned pending study of what other zoning classification should be placed on the land.

Currently, the Hutchinson Quarry property east of Highway 101 and the vacant area between the highway and the Bon Air shopping center are designated as "study zones."

While it was never openly stated by the group, it was obvious the proposal was intended to skirt the city council's repeated refusal to enact a building moratorium on undeveloped property.

Such a moratorium — spearheaded by the Larkspur Town Meeting group — would give the city "a breather" from apartment house development, proponents say.

The city council has argued, however, that they represent all interests in the community and such a moratorium might be an infringement of land owners rights.

Of concern to residents is the proposed grading of the top of Little King Mountain, south of Magnolia Avenue.

The mountain, from which the owner, Alice B. Vincilione, would like to remove 360,000 cubic yards of earth for fill on her property adjacent to Magnolia Avenue, was specifically mentioned as a candidate for the "study zone." The group also recommended the grading application be denied.

The two-day session, which was attended at one point or another by every city councilman and two council candidates, Robert H. Lee and Joan Sestak, ended with a series of recommendations to be passed on to the planning consultant for use in developing his plan.

Major recommendations to the consultant included that:

Any housing development west of Highway 101 be of low density; preferably single-family homes.

Multiple-family housing be considered for the area around the proposed ferry terminal site at the mouth of Corte Madera Creek.

The "downtown" business district be restored to a 1910 atmosphere with no parking on Magnolia Avenue.

The hills above Larkspur remain undeveloped and eventually become a part of the proposed North Ridge Park.

Abandoned railroad rights-of-way be considered for bicycle paths and walkways along with the proposed use as rapid transit corridors.

Development along Corte Madera Creek be contingent upon the environmental impact of such development and public access to the creek.

The city use park and recreation funds for purchase of open space as opposed to developing formal parks now.

The city's grading ordinance be revised so all grading applications come before the planning commission. Currently there is no referral if less than 5,000 cubic yards are removed.

Sausalito's Hicks Out Of Election

Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks said today he will not seek reelection to the council in April.

The 50-year-old Hicks, who was appointed to the council in June of 1969, said he was making the announcement before Thursday's filing deadline to encourage "vigorous new resident-oriented candidates" to file for the seat.

Hicks decided not to run again because "although I feel that it's a very rewarding task to keep Sausalito a beautiful residential community by holding back the mushrooming tourist industry, I also find it a very tiring job."

During his two and a half years on the council Hicks worked to eliminate parking in the downtown area and establish a parking facility in Marinship, with a shuttle service to downtown.

He also favored a plan to convert the heart of the city into a series of open space parks and pedestrian malls and walkways.

In addition Hicks led the fight against the Golden Gate Bridge District's plan to provide a major ferry terminal downtown, with only a repair facility and whistle stop in Marinship. Hicks has long contended that any major terminal should be located in northern Sausalito.

Last year Hicks, chairman of the council's finance committee, proposed the city cut its $1.8 million annual budget by one third. At that time he said he was convinced the city "could operate very well on a whole lot less money" without firing any employees but simply by not replacing employees who left. "For a city of 6,000 persons, we have too many employees, too many vehicles, too much of everything," he said.

The 50-year-old councilman is a professor of management at Sonoma State College and a retired business executive. He and his wife have lived in Sausalito for 25 years. They have two grown children.

While on the council, Hicks has served as vice chairman of the board of directors of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District and the city's representative to the Marin city-county planning council.

Four Youths Arrested In Burglary

San Rafael police, responding to a silent alarm at Bahia Vista School, 125 Bahia Way, arrested four young men on suspicion of burglary yesterday.

Booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $2,000 bail each to appear today in Marin Municipal Court were: Robert Wesley Rosson, 18, of 136 Auburn Street, San Rafael; Ronald Rogers, 19, of 1313 Leatwood Drive, Novato; Christopher Jay Wooten, 18, of 40 Sienna Way, San Rafael, and John Lauren Mott, 20, of 31 Lisbon Drive, San Rafael.

Police said an officer arrived at the front entrance of the school at 3:55 p.m. in response to an alarm and saw four persons walking away from the school. They turned and fled when they saw the officer, who drew his gun and gave chase.

Two of the men, later identified as Wooten and Mott, stopped when the officer ordered them to halt, police said, but the other two continued running. They were caught moments later by other officers.

Police said the four apparently entered the school by prying open a double door with a tire iron which officers found nearby. Nothing appeared to be missing from the school, according to police.

Junk Sale Set Saturday

The Marin Ecology Center will present an antique and recycled junk sale from 10 a.m. all day on Saturday in the meeting room of the Corte Madera Co-Op.

Paintings and other works of art by Andrea Rexroth, Ben Shahn and other artists will be auctioned off at the sale to raise funds for the ecology center.

The sale will also feature furniture, antiques, appliances, clothes and junk.

Housing Authority Cancels Session

The regualr meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority, scheduled for tomorrow, will not be held, according to executive director Wallace K. Shepherd.

Instead, he said the authority and the Marin County redevelopment agency boards will hold a joint meeting Feb. 8.

WINNING BRIDGE

The Spade Finesse Will Pay Off In Seven No-Trump Action

In 1941 most bridge players belonged to the human race, so that when today's hand was dealt in the 1941 national master pair championship there was a tug of war between North and South. North usually bid up to seven spades, but South usually won the struggle by bidding seven no-trump. Whoever played the hand usually went down, and this led to some very interesting conversations.

GUESSING GAME

At either seven spades or seven no-trump the contract depended on guessing the correct way of playing the spades. Declarer would usually take the first spade with the ace and then would win a trick in the South hand in order to lead another spade. When West followed with the nine of spades, declarer would have to guess whether to play the king or the jack.

The textbook rule in such situations is to finesse with only eight cards in the suit but to refuse the finesse with nine cards. The rule is a good one when you have nothing better to go by.

In one case, New York expert Richard L. Frey was selfless enough to let his partner play the hand at hearts (as shown in the diagram). The partner, Sonny Moyse, then proceeded to play the spades correctly without the slightest guesswork.

GETS COUNT

Moyse won the first trick with the ace of clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, cashed the ace of spades and then took the top diamonds and ruffed a diamond in dummy. Declarer proceeded with four rounds of trumps and the king of clubs.

After these plays, South had a spade and a diamond in his own hand, with the K-J of spades in the dummy. South had no doubt about the right play in spades.

BLACK CARDS

West had shown up with only two hearts and two diamonds and therefore surely had started with nine black cards. Since East had followed to three rounds of clubs, West could have held only six clubs. West's remaining three black cards had to be spades.

Moyse therefore took the spade finesse with absolute assurance of making his slam.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - A K J 7 4 3 2
♥ - Q 7 4
♦ - 7 4
♣ - 9.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Most experts would open the bidding with one spade. Conservative players would pass.

Lot Plan Approved

The Cotati Planning Commission Thursday night approved plans for a four-lot subdivision on West School Street for fellow commissioner Roland C. Braden. The property totals nearly three acres.

Nixon On Civil Rights Progress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon told a dinner honoring one of his top black assistants Sunday night that his first three years in office had not seen all the progress he wished for in civil rights.

"But with your help, black and white, we can move ahead," Nixon told the crowd, about 60 per cent of which was black. He won a cordial reception during his brief, surprise appearance at the dinner show which was being held in a hotel several blocks from the White House.

The dinner was a tribute to White House special assistant Robert Brown to raise funds for the battle against sickle cell anemia—a disease primarily afflicting blacks—and to support other programs.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Here Are Some Exercises That Will Help Keep Joints Flexible

A.G. writes: "Every morning when I get up, my neck and back are stiff and creaky. After I'm up and about, I limber up and feel better. The same distress occurs when I watch TV. If this is happening at 60, what will it be like at 70? Are there exercises that will keep my joints more flexible?"

This has all the earmarks of osteoarthritis, a degenerative condition of the joints due to years of wear and tear. There are many flexibility exercises for both young and old. Doing them regularly may provide some insurance against pain and stiffness of the back, neck and shoulders. The ordinary waist bend is the easiest of these exercises. Stand with the feet apart and the hands on the hips. Bend forward as far as possible, but keep the head up.

STAND WITH feet apart, and the hands over the head. Bend forward and touch the left foot with the right hand and return to an erect position. Bend again and touch the right foot with the left hand. Alternate toe touching not only improves flexibility, but stretches the muscles of the back, shoulders, and legs.

The following is a toughie. Lie face down with the arms extended forward. Now — rock back and forth by first raising the arms, shoulders, and head. As they are lowered, raise the lower extremities The legs should be straight and slightly apart. As an alternate, lie on the back and raise the feet straight in the air while supporting the hips with the hands. Return the feet slowly to the floor.

SOME PEOPLE bob up and down when standing with the feet apart and the body bent at the waist. Dangle the arms, and with each bob, try to touch the ground with the fingers. Keep the knees stiff.

Take it easy at first, and in time make these exercises a morning routine. It is important to do a few every day rather than a lot two or three times a week.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

NASAL CONGESTION

K.P. writes: My nose is stopped up most of the time. Nosedrops relieve the stuffiness for a half hour only. Can this miserable condition by cured?

REPLY

Yes. Stop using nosedrops and sniff or insert a saline solution (¼ teaspoon of salt to ½ glass of water) four times a day. If this does not clear the nose in a week, consult a nose specialist for a thorough nasal examination. Some persons try this maneuver on one nostril at a time. One side s kept open with the usual drops while the other is getting over the effects of overtreatment.

GASTRIC POLYPS

N.T. writes: What is done about polyps in the stomach?

REPLY

Surgical removal is recommended even though the majority are not malignant. This is done because stomach polyps are notorious for becoming cancerous at a later date.

BRUCELLOSIS

R.M. writes: Is there any medicine that will cure undulant fever in less than a year?

REPLY

Yes, One of the tetracyclines and streptomycin usually will be effective. Is the diagnosis correct?

Blacks Watch Klan Marchers

MONROE, N. C. (UPI)—Years ago blacks hid behind their locked doors when the Ku Klux Klan marched through the streets of southern towns.

Saturday, several hundred blacks turned out to watch a rare Klan parade, and it was such an oddity one black youth brought along his camera.

What they saw was Virgil Lee Griffin, 28, a thin-faced Gaston County textile worker with long sideburns, walk along the sidewalk in a green satin robe with purple and red trim.

Young blacks shouted "superman," at Griffin, and at one intersection, a group chanted," "is that all there is?"

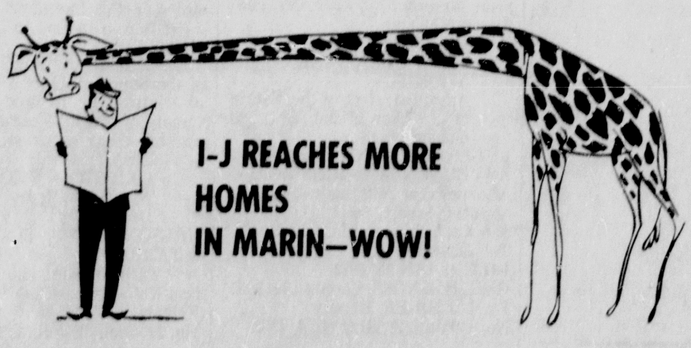
More Marin Want-Ads than in all other newspapers in the w-o-r-l-d!!!

No question that the I-J holds the 'world's record' for Marin County Want-Ads. Reason is, I-J Want-Ads hold the secret ingredient of success for buyer and seller — READERSHIP. Every evening, I-J reader families comb the classified columns looking for bargains. Phones start ringing from Novato to Sausalito . . . buyers and sellers meet.



I-J REACHES MORE HOMES IN MARIN—WOW!

The Sausalito Planning Commission has set a public hearing for 8 p.m. Feb. 16 to consider a request that a samll road designated in the Marinship general plan be abandoned by the city, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt reported.

At its adjourned meeting Thursday night, the commission heard representatives of Heath Ceramics, Gate 5 Road, ask that the road, which currently exists only on paper, be closed to allow the firm to expand its building over the site of the planned street.

Tars Win In Overtime By 1

Loss Drops Vikings To Third

By LEW CODDINGTON

Roosevelt Green dug the grave and Ed Herrnberger and Joe Casteel shoved stubborn West Valley College of Campbell into it Saturday night as the College of Marin Tars grabbed a 72-71 overtime victory in Kentfield.

The basketball triumph gave Marin a 5-1 record in the Camino Norte Conference, good for second place behind Contra Costa College, now 6-0 after a narrow 96-95 victory over Solano College. West Valley is 4-2.

Green's shot-blocking and inspired defensive play were the highlight for Marin. "Rosie did a super job," said coach John Panagakis.

It was almost too super. A short way into the overtime, what would have been his eighth blocked shot was called goal-tending, a decision few of the crowd of 300 agreed with. It gave West Valley a 67-65 lead.

Casteel, who had missed the last five minutes of the first half with an ankle injury but had returned to form, hit a driving shot to tie the game. Then Herrnberger made the first free throw of a one-and-one, and when he missed the second, Casteel tipped it in for a 70-67 Marin lead.

Two more free throws by Herrnberger put the Tars ahead, 72-67, and the invaders from Campbell could not catch up.

Herrnberger, going to the basket well, led Marin with 16 points. Joe Smith scored 14, although his patented jump shot was not falling. Green got 12, Joe DeMaestri 10 and Casteel

Veterans Committee Picks Lefty Gomez For Hall Of Fame

Vernon "Lefty" Gomez of Fairfax was 30,000 feet in the air when he received the news that he had been named to the Baseball Hall of Fame yesterday.

Gomez, 62, star pitcher for the New York Yankees from 1930 to 1942, was aboard an airlines halfway to Hawaii when informed of the news. He is in Honolulu with his wife, June, to attend the Hawaii Pro Sports Banquet, an annual event to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

CALLS

"We've been getting quite a few telephone calls at the house," said his daughter, Mrs. Steven D. Carstensen (Sharon) this morning. She and her husband, of San Diego, are staying at the Gomez home in Fairfax during the Gomez' Hawaii trip, keeping care of the family dog, a Chihuahua named Mr. Magoo. Lefty and his wife are expected back in Marin County Thursday evening.

"We're all so thrilled about it," said Mrs. Carstensen. "Dad called us from Honolulu last night and was really thrilled. All yesterday and last night people were calling here. The phone was really ringing."

DAUGHTER

Lefty's daughter learned about it when a newsman from a San Francisco television station called the Gomez family home yesterday. She then called the airlines office in San Francisco which relayed the news to the pilot aboard the flight to Honolulu.

According to a report from United Press International, Lefty said, "The captain announced we were at 30-thousand feet and a few minutes later the stewardess told me I had made the Hall of Fame. It was a total surprise. I couldn't believe it."

Gomez, now a public relations representative for Wilson Sporting Goods, was voted into the Cooperstown Hall along with ex-American League President Will Harridge and Ross Youngs, an outfielder with the New York Giants from 1917 through 1926.

VERNON "LEFTY" GOMEZ
Hall inductee

The three were voted into the shrine by a special Old Timers Committee which is empowered by the Baseball Writers Association of America to consider the merits of players and executives who retired more than 20 years ago.

INDUCTED

The trio will be formally inducted into the Hall on Aug. 7 along with Sandy Koufax, Yogi Berra and Early Wynn, who were recently elected in balloting by 10-year members of the BBWAA. A total of 110 players has been elected to the shrine, including 49 by the BBWAA and 61 by the Old Timers group.

Gomez, a lean left-hander, was a fourtime 20-game winner who compiled a 189-102 record for the Yankees and Washington Senators from 1931 through 1943. He led the American League in strikeouts three times and in earned run average twice and still holds the World Series record of six victories without a loss. In 1934, he achieved a rare pitchers' triple crown by leading the league in victories (26-5 record), percentage (.839) and earned run average (2.33).

QUICK QUIP

One of the sharpest men ever to throw a quip, Gomez was as famous for his humor as for his pitching skills and at 61 is still a popular after-dinner speaker in his role as an executive with Babe Ruth League Baseball.

Asked once to evaluate a rookie who was going great guns, Gomez replied, "he's hitting with one foot in the American Association." On another occasion he held up a game to stand on the mound and watch an airplane fly over Yankee Stadium. And on still another occasion, he was asked to explain why he slumped from 26 victories in one season to 13 in the next.

ADD WEIGHT

"They told me to add 15 pounds to my weight and I'd make 'em forget Lefty Grove," he replied. "I added the 15 pounds and almost made 'em forget Lefty Gomez."

Toward the end of his career Gomez was able to pitch only six or seven effective innings and was often "saved" by Johnny Murphy, famous Yankee relief pitcher of the 1930s who later became general manager of the New York Mets.

MANAGER

Gomez managed the Yankees' Binghamton farm club in the Eastern League in 1946 and 1947 and once threw a "victory party" for his slumping players when a game was rained out. He often complained, "my players can't remember three simple signs but they can remember the telephone numbers of every pretty girl in the Eastern League's cities."

Gomez, a native of Rodeo, Contra Costa County, played sandlot baseball in the Bay Area, including Marin County, before going to the major leagues.

"I remember when I'd come over here to play baseball," Lefty said in an interview a few months ago. "We used to play in Tomales, San Rafael, or maybe Two Rock (in Petaluma). It sure took a long time to get from place to place on those old roads."

Meloche, Seals Wax Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C. (UPI)—Who is the hottest goalie in the National Hockey League?

If you said Gilles Meloche, the 21-year-old rookie of the California Golden Seals, you're not too far off the mark. He shut out the Vancouver Canucks 2-0 before a packed house of 15,570 Sunday afternoon with a dazzling display of third-period thievery.

It was the second straight whitewash for the Montreal youngster who came to the Seals just before the start of the season in a trade with the Chicago Black Hawks.

Meloche turned back 29 Vancouver shots, including 16 in the final period when the Canucks were throwing everything except the ice-making machine at the California rookie.

That gave Meloche four shutouts so far this season, including a 3-0 win over Toronto Friday night. A week ago Sunday Meloche beat the Philadelphia Flyers 3-1, so he has allowed one goal in his last three starts.

Stan Gilbertson and Walt McKechnie of the Seals each notched their 11th goals of the campaign for the California scores. Gilbertson's 25-foot slap

Harney Garners Golf Win

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—In these days when all the old institutions are under question if not under fire, along comes Paul Harney, gray-beard, family man and parttime pro to show 'em how it should be done.

Nine years ago when Harney, one of the busiest men on the PGA tour, quot to take amore relaxed job as a teaching pro, many people wondered why.

"I just couldn't stand all that traveling, being away from my family and the endless pressure," Harney said Sunday shortly after he beat off the pack, including young Hale Irwin, to win the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

The Harney clan numbers six children, so you can understand his concern and desire for steady employment over the chancy life of a touring pro.

Harney, now 42, first settled the family down at Sunset Oaks, a cozy little club outside of Sacramento, Calif. Two years later, when he was offered a better job by Pleasant Valley in Sutton, Mass., Paul picked up the family and headed East. He's been there ever since.

"And I'm going to stay there, too," he emphasized when the question was posed had he given any though to going back on tour.

"Everytime I win a good check, someone always asks me that question," Harney explained. "Just a few minutes ago someone asked me if I planned to go to Honolulu for the Hawaiian Open. The answer to that question is like the first. ni'm going home to spend some time with the family and I'll play next in the Phoenix Open."

Harney is taking a check for $30,000 back with him to Massachusetts, and even in these days that will buy a lot for the family.

"I'm sure my wife would prefer I stay out here (on the tour)", Harney kidded, "but there is no way. I have my schedule all made out and while it might be nice to go to Hawaii I'm heading the other way."

Harney won only $23,000 all of last year but that isn't bad. In his case, playing on the tour in the early months of the year fills the void until things start picking up in late spring at Pleasant Valley, so whatever he wins on the tour is strictly extra income.

Harney started Sunday's final round a stroke behind Irwin, the former University of Colorado football star who went on tour for the first time five years ago. While he didn't play spectacularly in the final round, Harney made the shots that had to be made while Irwin foundered.

Harney had four birds and one bogey on his closing round of two-under 70 while Irwin had three birds and three bogies and finished at even-par 72. Irwin was in command after making the turn in three-under 33 while Harney slipped four strokes off the pace.

Then, Irwin ran into trouble, He bogied 10, 12 and 15. Harney, playing a couple of holes ahead, birdied 18 and now it was Irwin who needed to make up ground.

Coming onto 18, with Harney watching from the sidelines, Irwin had a chance to deadlock the match and forced the fourth playoff of the year. He was short of the green on his second shot on 18, a par-five 501-yarder when he made what he said was a poor three-wood shot. He chipped to within 12 feet of the pin and had a chance for a bird but he was short.

"That was an awful putt", Irwin said, "and I have no excuses. It was my putting that kept me in the tournament but this time I couldn't hit the side of a barn."

Gene Littler, the first round leader, finished at 282, Crosby champ Jack Nicklaus was at 285, Bill Casper at 284 and Lee Trevino at 292.

Nicklaus, Casper, Trevino and Arnold Palmer all will play in the Hawaiian Open this week where they will be offering the winner a check for $40,000. But they will have to do it all without Harney, who'd rather brave the snow and chill in Massachusetts because that's where home is.

Cowboys' Thomas Tackled For Loss By Texas Police

GREENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Duane Thomas, the moody running back who seven months ago said the Dallas Cowboys could not win the Super Bowl without him, was stopped by police on a North Texas highway Sunday and taken to jail on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Five hours after his arrest, Thomas and his brother Burtrand, also charged with drug possession, were out of jail on $5,000 bond each.

But as is his custom, Thomas had nothing to say about the incident to the press, and Cowboy officials were just as silent.

The incident occurred 12 miles west of Greenville, a town of less than 30,000 persons 50 miles northeast of Dallas.

Thomas 24, and his brother, 21, were in a 1972 Pontiac heading toward Dallas on Interstate 30 shortly after noon Sunday when they were stopped by Hunt County Deputy Sheriff Norman Gray and Highway Patrolman W.E. Jeter.

The officers later said Thomas' car fit the description of an auto stolen Jan. 11 from a car lot in Dallas. The car Thomas was driving, however, was loaned to him by a Dallas dealer as part of a publicity campaign.

Gray said he asked Thomas for some identification, not knowing at the time whom he was speaking to. While Thomas was reaching for his driver's license, Gray said, he smelled the odor of burning marijuana.

DUANE THOMAS

Gray told County Judge Gale Carden he found one marijuana cigarette in the car, along with enough marijuana to fill two matchboxes.

Thomas was in jail by shortly after 1 p.m., and five hours later bond was posted by Larry Green, a Greenville attorney.

It was not known whether Cowboy officials provided the bond.

In Dallas club officials quickly conferred by telephone, and General Manager Tex Schramm summed up the conference with a brief "no comment."

Thomas, wearing a pair of slacks, a striped shirt, a windbreaker and the same yellow stocking cap he wore on Cowboy road trips during the 1971 season, declined to talk to the few newsmen who were present when bond was set.

In Austin, Department of Public Safety spokesman Jim Robinson disclosed a small residue was found in the ashtray of the Pontiac, which was impounded by police for investigation.

"That residue will be tested to determine if it was marijuana," Robinson said.

A grand jury will hear evidence in the Thomas case Feb. 8.

The past seven months have seen a whirlwind of publicity for Thomas.

After a sensational rookie year in 1970, Thomas demanded a salary increaese and when the Cowboys refused to renegotiate his three-year contract he declined to report to training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif.

He held a news conference in Dallas last July to protest his treatment by the Cowboys. He said Tom Landry was so unemotional he was a "plastic man." Thomas said "the Cowboys can't make it to the Super Bowl without me."

DeMont Sets Swim Record

Another Rick DeMont record fell Saturday, but the Marin Aquatic Club swimmer was not the least bit unhappy, since he broke it himself.

DeMont swam the 500-yard freestyle in 4:41.0, knocking eight-tenths of a second off his old Pacific Association (Amateur Athletic Union) standard, as the Northern California team defeated Southern California, 263-253, in an age-group all-star meet at San Francisco State University.

DeMont, in the 15-17 age bracket, also recorded his best personal time of 1:45.9 while finishing second in the 200 free, as Marin County swimmers chalked up a number of top performances.

Maura Campion of Marin Aquatic Club swam a personal best of 56.4 in the girls 13-14 100 free. Just to prove it was no fluke, she did it twice — once boosting her 400 free relay team to first place, the other time helping the 400 medley team to second.

Two other Marin A.C. swimmers turned in personal bests. Denise Hamm was second in the girls 15-17 200-yard butterfly in 2:11.9, and Jo Hislop did 54.4 in her 100-yard section of the girls 15-17 400 free relay as her team was second.

Greg Buchanan captured third in the 100 fly and swam on the second-place 400 free relay team in the 11-12 age bracket.

Humboldt Wallops Sonoma

By PAUL DWORIN

Sonoma State College is the type of basketball team that can be great one game, such as when it beat St. Mary's in overtime, Jan. 22, and completely flat the next. Saturday night the Cossacks were the latter as they fell easily to the Humboldt State Lumberjacks, 84-69.

University of California at San Diego is next on the Sonoma State schedule, the game tonight at 8 o'clock in the Sonoma State gym.

The Lumberjacks, who Saturday didn't seem too inspired either, held 10 to 15-point leads until 1:50 of the final period when Larry Austin hit three baskets in a row to bring the Cossacks within seven at 74-67. Austin, a 6-foot-4 Junior forward and one of the leading rebounders in the Far Western Conference, scored 20 points to lead the Cossacks.

Except for Austin Sonoma State didn't have much to speak of other than Al Martinson, a slender 6-4 freshman forward who came off the bench to score 12 of his 14 points in the second half.

Aside from their frigid 36 per cent shooting in the first half, the two factors that beat the Cossacks were turnovers and lack of rebounding.

Faced with Humboldt's full-court press, Sonoma State committed 26 turnovers, many of them coming at crucial moments late in the game when it finally generated an offense.

The Cossacks were totally dominated on the boards, 52-34. Doing much of the damage for the Lumberjacks was Jim Schwerm, last year's Schwerm grabbed 13 for the game.

For the Cossacks, Austin, who averages 12 rebounds per game, only picked off six, and Garfield George led with eight rebounds. Basil Swaby the newest Cossack Cager, came off the bench in the second half to muscle seven rebounds.

The Cossacks seemed reluctant to shoot in that terrible first half in which they only scored 26 points. For the most part, they stood around passing the ball back and forth until someone eventually would take a forced 25-footer, which explains their poor shooting percentage.

San Diego Chargers Obtain Rams' Jones

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coach Tommy Prothro's youth movement caught up with David "Deacon" Jones and swept him from the Los Angeles Rams into the arms of the San Diego Chargers.

Jones, 33, perhaps the most famed of the "Fearsome Foursome" defensive forward wall of the Rams, was traded Saturday night to the American Football Conference team.

"I'm in a state of shock," was the first reaction by Jones when informed of the trade. "I don't know what to make of it."

Prothro said the Rams made the deal reluctantly but outlined the Los Angeles club's benefits from the deal which brought them star linebacker Jeff Staggs and three draft choices.

In addition to Jones, the Rams sent San Diego defensive tackle Greg Wojcik and running back Lee White. Los Angeles obtained San Diego's No. 2 choice in Tuesday's college draft and the second and third selections next year.

"I hated to part with the players we did," said Prothro. "In Jeff Staggs, we feel we have a fine linebacker. If we are as fortunate in drafting as last year, this trade not only helps us immediately but assures us of outstanding help in the future."

In his rookie season as a National Football League coach, Prothro last year traded away many of the Rams veterans and replaced them with such outstanding rookies as Isiah Robertson, David Elmendorf, Phil Olsen and Jack Youngblood.

But the Rams were forced to give up their first and third draft choices to the New England Patriots for Phil Olsen and would have been hampered in the current draft for replacements and the young blood Prothro felt the club needed to become a champion.

Jones was an All-Pro seven times during his 11-year career with the Rams and showed his future greatness by being selected the club's Rookie of the Year in 1961. From 1962 through 1966 he was the Rams' outstanding defensive lineman and in 1968 he was its most valuable player.

The 6-foot-5 Jones was one of the most feared tacklers and sacker of quarterbacks in the league as a member of the "Fearsome Foursome" with Merlin Olsen, Rosie Grier and Lamar Lundy. Only Merlin Olsen is left from the original quartet.

Last season, however, Jones was sidelined for several games with a leg injury to snap a streak of 143 consecutive games in which he had appeared with the Rams.

Staggs, 27, is a five-year veteran from San Diego State and a third draft choice of the Chargers. Last season he broke his arm in the seventh game.

Jones came to Los Angeles as the Rams 14th draft choice out of South Carolina State.

Charger coach Harland Svare, who had coached Jones for three years while with the Rams, was elated over acquiring the defensive end.

"With the Deacon we have made a tremendous gain not only because of his playing but because of his presence," Svare said. "He will be a leader for us and an inspiration to our younger players."

Svare's chief aim since taking over late in the 1971 season as the Chargers coach has been to strengthen the team's defenses.

"We are trying to get a defensive team together that can compete," he said. "It takes people."

Staggs had wanted to be traded and was playing out his option with San Diego. He becomes a free agent unless the Rams sign him by May 1.

Marin Cagers In Loop Respite

Five Marin County Athletic League basketball teams will go into hibernation the first part of this week, either licking their wounds or savoring their triumphs, but the other three will emerge long enough for non-league action.

Tomorrow, Marin Catholic High School travels to Napa to play Justin at 4 p.m., and San Rafael visits Fairfield at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Drake plays the College of Marin in Kentfield, 6 p.m. The second half of the league season will begin Friday.

Marin Catholic's injury-plagued season reached its low point last Friday when the Wildcats fell into a tie for last place by losing to San Marin in a protested overtime game, 68-63. However, guard Jim Sullivan scored notice that he is fully recovered from the flu by scoring 24 points.

San Rafael will be seeking to regain the winning formula that carried it to five consecutive victories and a tie for the MCAL lead. The magic escaped last week and the Bulldogs lost a pair to fall into a tie for second with Redwood, two games back of Tamalpais.

Drake will continue a season of small expectations and great rewards. The Pirates have harrassed the contenders and beaten everybody else for a 4-3 league record. College of Marin's freshmen already hold one victory over an MCAL team, defeating Marin Catholic in December, 62-53.

10 despite his absence, as all five Tar starters hit double figures.

With Green hauling down 13, the Tars had a decisive 51-25 rebounding advantage. But what they gained on the backboards they lost on the floor, as the small, quick invaders forced 22 turnovers with their full-court press while making only 11 mistakes themselves.

The first half was about as dramatic as Chinese water torture. Marin jumped out to a 9-2 lead and systematically repelled the Vikings' brief rallies on the way to a 35-27 halftime lead. The only anxious moments came when Casteel was injured, and two minutes later, when Herrnberger went down.

"Casteel just got a shock sprain," said Panagakis. "He's all right now. All Herrnberger did was land on his fanny. Pat Purcell (who replaced Casteel) and Neil Traub (who substituted for Herrnberger) didn't hurt us a bit. Ron Small (a guard) did a nice job off the bench for us, too."

The visiting Vikings rarely used their press in the first half, but employed it often after intermission, and quickly grabbed a 43-40 lead.

Marin finally climbed back on top by seven, but the outside jump-shooting of West Valley's Marty Smith closed the gap again. Smith scored five of the Vikings' final seven points and Rick Hile added the final two free throws as they made up a 61-56 deficit to tie the game at 63-63 at the end of regulation.

BY COMMITTEE

Olympic Ski Star Ousted

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI)— The Austrian Olympic Committee today said it would appeal the International Olympic Committee's (IOC) decision to disqualify veteran alpine skier Karl Schranz.

If the IOC, which earlier said its decision could not be changed, turns down the Austrian appeal, Austria may pull out of the IX Winter Games beginning here Feb. 3, Austrian officials hinted.

"We haven't decided what to do but if the appeals are rejected all possibilities are open to us," Dr. Heinz Pruckner, president of the Austrian Olympic Committee, told a news conference.

Dr. Pruckner and the president of the Austrian Ski Association, Dr. Karl-Heinz Klee, said as a "preliminary measure" the Austrian Alpine ski team would not appear on the Olympic slopes for training Tuesday.

The two Austrian officials said the IOC decision was based "only on newspaper clippings, rumors and unfounded accusations," and said Schranz himself had not had a chance to defend himself.

"No concrete proof has been produced by the IOC Eligibility Committee, the IOC Executive or the IOC Plenary session," the two officials told the crowded news conference.

They recounted every development in the story from the first reports, later denied, of the existence of a "blacklist" containing names of skiers to be disqualified, up to today's IOC decision to kick Schranz out.

They said they had been called to discuss the case with the IOC executive prior to the IOC Plenary session, but little had come out of these discussions.

"Our discussion with Mr. Brundage was mostly taken up by accusations levelled by (IOC President Avery) Brundage against Alpine skiing in general and against the national selection of Alpine skiers for the Olympics. The Schranz case took up only a small part of the meeting," they said.

"When I left that meeting, I was convinced that Mr. Brundage's aversion against Alpine skiing nd Karl Schranz in particular was insurmountable," Klee said.

"But I also felt it would be impossible for the IOC to disqualify Schranz. This would also have been my opinion as a lawyer," he said.

They said Schranz himself would not meet the press until "the IOC and we have made our final decisions."

The two officials said they had no agreements with our countries concerning joint action on behalf of Schranz.

"We have talked to the other teams and we have particularly close relations with the French. But we have no commitments," they said.

Maurice Martel, president of the French Ski Association, said France would not join a possible Austrian pullout from the games.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance.

Warriors To Face Bucks

OAKLAND (UPI) — Coming off their finest month in club history, the surging Golden State Warriors face toughies Milwaukee, Los Angeles, Phoenix and Atlanta this week in the National Basketball Association.

First it's Milwaukee at San Diego tomorrow night. The Warriors have already beaten the Bucks two out of three this season. The game will be televised back to the Bay Area.

Golden State reached a singificant milestone Saturday night by beating the Phoenix Suns 111-100 at the Coliseum Arena. That was the first time the Warriors have beaten the Suns in three tries this season and gave the club a 13-1 record in January—best month in Warriors history.

It also lengthened the Warriors' cushion over third-place Seattle in the NBA's Pacific Division to 2 1-2 games.

Guard Jeff Mullins canned 35 points to pace the Warrior win over the Suns. Center Nate Thurmond played another solid game with 28 points, 18 rebounds and six blocked shots.

Thurmond and Joe Ellis triggered a fourth-quarter rally that boosted Golden State to its 15th victory in 16 games.

The game was tied 90-90 with 7:43 to go when a 17-6 Warrior spurt in the next five minutes made it a runaway. Ellis scored six of his 12 points in that span and Thurmond added four.

Golden State trailed by 10 points midway in the third period but utlized a 14-3 binge featuring eight points by Thurmond to go ahead 75-74.

Atlanta comes to the Coliseum-Arena Thursday night and Los Angeles Saturday night. On Friday night, the Warriors play the Suns at Phoenix.

McCovey, 5 Others Sign Pacts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Slugger Willie McCovey is in the San Francisco Giants fold for the next two seasons with a raise in pay.

The big first baseman reportedly signed on for 1972 and 1973 for slightly more than the $110,000 he received last season.

Also signed to 1972 contracts over the weekend were outfielder-infielder Dave Kingman, infielder Chris Arnold, catcher Russ Gibson, veteran Jim Ray Hart and outfielder Bernie Williams.

McCovey flew in from Honolulu where he has been working out to strengthen the knee on which he had surgery in the off season. "I feel I can have a big year," said Willie. "I haven't had any pain since the operation."

ABA ALL-STARS

Jim McDaniels Stars As East Dumps West

By BOB WESTON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—The bidding war for top basketball talent will break out anew soon between the pro leagues, but it's doubtful any player in this year's senior crop can match the three pro rookies who put on a dazzling show here Saturday night.

The three first-year men —7-foot Jim McDaniels of the Carolina Cougars, 7-2 Artis Gilmore of the Kentucky Colonels and 6-6 Julius Erving of the Virginia Squires —played major roles Saturday in the East's 142-115 romp over the West in the fifth annual American Basketball Association All-Star game.

McDaniels led all scorers with 24 points and got 18 of them in the last period when the East left the West far behind with a 45-point onslaught. Big Mac, who also grabbed 11 rebounds, delighted the crowd of 15,738 by slamming home three stuff shots during the East's fourth-quarter barrage.

Gilmore, somewhat inhibited by getting into foul trouble, still had 14 points, 10 rebounds and two blocked shots. Erving, who specializes in making crowd-pleasing moves toward the basket, wound up with 20 pocnts, six rebounds and three assists.

Despite the brilliant performance of the rookies, the most valuable player award went to sophomore Dan Issel of the Colonels who had 21 points, nine rebounds and five assists for the East. He edged McDaniels by one vote in balloting among sports writers and broadcasters.

Mel Daniels and Freddie Lewis, both of the Indiana Pacers, led the West with 21 and 18 points, respectively.

Most ABA coaches and general managers, here for the All-Star game and accompanying league meetings, agreed this is a relatively lean year for draftable player talent.

"Just looking at the seniors available, you'd have to say the pickings are slim," said Virginia coach Al Bianchi.

However, it was a loosely kept secret at the ABA trustees' closed-door meeting here Saturday that they had taken a step to make all college underclassmen eligible for the ABA draft —doing away with the controversial "hardship" requirement.

The league also scheduled its player draft for Feb. 21, with the order of selections to be based on where the teams stand in season competition as of Feb. 20.

In recognition of the fact the era of the super big men —like Gilmore and McDaniels —had arrived in the ABA, league coaches recommended at their meeting that the foul lanes be widened from 12 feet to 16 feet. The greater width, which prevails in the National Basketball Association, would be designed to keep the giants further away from the offensive basket under the three-second limit for time permitted in the foul lane.

The coaches also urged that zone press defenses be allowed under league rules, but stopped short of recommending legalization of the zone defense.

Their recommendations were submitted to the ABA trustees for consideration at their June meeting.

FOOTBALL

Pro Draft To Begin Tomorrow

MIAMI (UPI)—If there's one thing most National Football League players want, it appears to be an end to the option clause that controls their professional destinies.

With that in mind, the National Football League Players Association (NFLPA) told its attorneys Sunday to explore the possibility of taking antitrust action in the courts against the option clause.

OPTION CLAUSE

"The option clause has to be the dominant issue confronting the association at this point, along with injury grievances and player safety," NFLPA executive director Ed Garvey said as the association wound up its annual meeting.

Garvey said no action would be taken, however, until the attorneys report back on their study of the clause, which binds a player to his team for one year after his contract expires.

SURVEY

A player survey which received a response from 70 per cent of the NFL players showed "of those responding, 93 per cent wanted some change in the option clause," Garvey said. He said this was a strong factor leading to hours spent discussing the clause during the meeting.

Baltimore Colt tight end John Mackey was re-elected president of the players association, Baltimore Colt center Bill Curry was elected first vice president and Los Angeles defensive back Kermit Alexander second vice president.

Elected to the executive council were Tom Keating of Oakland, Sam Grecino of San Diego, Alan Page of Minnesota and Ken Bowman of Green Bay.

NHL ROUNDUP

Boston Wins, 5-2

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The St. Louis Blues found out Sunday night that having an advantage has its disadvantages.

The Blues held a 5-4 skating advantage against Boston Sunday night when Bruins' defenseman Dallas Smith was penalized, but it was Bostoc which erupted for two short-handed goals only 35 seconds apart by Bobby Orr and Derek Sanderson to highlight a 5-2 victory.

Orr's 21st goal and Sanderson's 21st capped a four-goal onslaught in the period that wiped out a 1-0 St. Louis lead and enabled the Bruins to run their unbeaten string to 10 games. The victory moved Boston six points ahead of New York, tied by Minnesota 1-1, in the race for first in the National Hockey League East.

Rookie Larry Hornung's fiST NHL goal gave St. Louis the lead in the second period but Fred Stanfield and Johnny Bucyk wiped that out and Orr and Sanderson broke the game open with their short handed goals. Don Marcotte added Boston's fifth goal in the final period.

Minnesota, sparked by the brilliant goaltending of Cesare Maniago, rallied on Murray Oliver's third period goal to tie the Rangers and stretch their unbeaten string to seven. Maniago turned back 40 shots, many of them with acrobatic saves, and allowed only Bobby's Rousseau's long slap shot in the second period to elude him.

In other NHL action, California blanked Vancouver 2-0, Philadelphia shut out Pittsburgh 4-0, and Los Angeles tied Buffalo 2-0 and Chicago downed Detroit 4-2.

Dick Sarrazin and Bobby Clarke scored first-period goals and Bruce Gamble repelled 33 Pittsburgh shots as the Flyers beat the Penguins. Ross Lonsberry and Barry Ashbee also scored for Philadelphia.

Third period goals by newly acquired Bill Lesuk and Juha Widing enabled the Kings to tie Buffalo. The Sabres led 2-0 on goals by Don Luce and Gerry Meehan before Lesuk scored at 7:09 of the final period and Widing tied the game little more than two minutes later.

Stan Mikita snapped a tie with a second period goal and Bobby Hull insured the victory with his 36th goal in the third period as Chicago beat the Red Wings for its fifth straight victory. Mikita scored in the final minute of the second period and Hull hit his 590th career goal in the opening minute of the last period.

Does the fact that we're guaranteed twice as long, mean we're twice as good?

We can't prove it, but one thing's sure: We're twice as confident.

When you buy a new car from Volkswagen, you get a new car warranty for 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first.*

When you buy a new car from any other known company in the world (unless you're interested in a Rolls-Royce), you receive a warranty for only 12 months or 12,000 miles.

You see, we're the only ones who've stuck with one car model for 24 years. (A gutsy decision when you think we only sold 2 in 1949.)

But thanks to that one decision, we've had a chance to make over 2,200 improvements. (29 improvements on our 1972 model alone.)

And once a VW leaves the factory, we still don't stop caring.

For only an authorized VW dealer offers VW Diagnosis. A series of 4 free checkups with special diagnostic equipment so advanced, it can tell you'll have a car problem before it becomes a big problem.

And if the problem is found (and covered) during the warranty period, we'll solve it for you free of charge.

Even when it comes time to sell, we still won't let you down.

For over the years, two cars have consistently retained more of their original value than others: An old Volkswagen. And an old Cadillac.

Finally, consider price:

We're not the lowest-priced economy car you can buy. But once you thoroughly check into what you get for what you pay, you'll find very few car companies who, in reality, end up with their prices lower.

And none who start out with their standards higher.

*If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first, will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. And this will be done free of charge.

Pro Grid Legal Row Foreseen

NEW YORK (UPI) —National Football League clubs give their scouting reports one last good look today prior to the annual college player draft, which begins Tuesday at 10 a.m. EST at the Marriott Essex House.

The two-day session will consist of 17 rounds, with a total of 442 collegians, all of whom have completed their college eligibility being taken. A 15-minute time limit per choice is in effect for the first two rounds and five minutes through each of the remaining 15 rounds.

Teams choose in inverse order of the final NFL standings, with the Buffalo Bills, whose 1-13 record was the worst in the league, taking first pick. The only exceptions are the Super Bowl teams, who select last regardless of record.

Following Buffalo in the first round order are Cincinnati, Chicago (from New York Giants), St. Louis, Denver, Houston, Green Bay, New Orleans, New York Jets, Minnesota (from New England), Green Bay (from San Diego), Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Detroit, New England (from Los Angeles), Cleveland, San Francisco, Oakland, New York Jets (from Washington), Baltimore, Kansas City, New York Giants (from Minnesota), Miami and world champion Dallas.

New Orleans will have the most number of picks (23) while Washington, with 10, has the least.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Pacific Thrashes Long Beach State

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

A Vietnam war veteran who never played high school basketball and two backyard products have orbited the University of Pacific into the galaxy of basketball stars on the West Coast.

In a rare Sunday afternoon appearance on regional television, the UOP Tigers played their finest game of the season in upsetting the fourth-ranked Long Beach State 49ers with ease, 104-86, to extend their win streak at the Stockton Civic Auditorium to 34 games.

The game was never in doubt as all five Tiger starters hit in double figures en route to an early 20-2 lead, 50-32 halftime bulge and an 86-53 spread with eight minutes remaining.

Santa Clara also proved to be another giant-killer as the Broncos surprised seventh-ranked Southern California 83-73 with a balanced attack and some deadeye foul shooting Saturday night. That was the third straight defeat in one week for the Trojans who face the unpleasant task of visiting cross-city rival UCLA Friday.

UCLA, meanwhile, rolled to its 16th straight victory at South Bend, Ind., Saturday by humbling Notre Dame 57-32 in a deliberately played contest. Trailing 31-19 at the half, Notre Dame decided to stall against the top-ranked Bruins but Henry Bibby (15 points) and Bill Walton (12 points) proved too much for the Irish.

Pacific shot a sizzling 59 per cent in the first half and finished with a .490 shooting percentage while improving its record in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association to 4-1. Long Beach, which hit on 46 per cent of its shots, dropped to 16-2 and 5-1 in the PCAA for its first ever conference loss after 25 consecutive victories.

Big heroes for UOP were sophomore guard John Errecart and 6-10 senior center John Gianelli, both from Stockton, and 6-6 senior forward Bernard Dulaney of Oakland who never played basketball in high school. Dulaney, 25, did play at Laney Junior College after an Army stint during the Vietnam war.

Errecart hit 11 of 15 shots, including 7-for-7 in the first half, and contributed 10 assists. He and Dulaney tied for UOP scoring honors with 26 points apiece.

Gianelli scored only 17 points but pulled down 27 of his team's 80 rebounds and was outstanding on defense.

"It was his finest performance," said UOP coach Dick Edwards of Gianelli. "He's as fine a center as you'll find anywhere in the country.

"Our plan was to give (Ed) Ratleff his points and try to shut off everyone else."

Ratleff scored a career-high 43 points which was exactly half his team's total. The loss broke a 13-game win streak of the 49ers.

In a West Coast Athletic Conference game Sunday, Bill Averitt scored 27 of his 38 points in the second half to lead Pepperdine past Loyola of Los Angeles 86-82.

In non-conference games involving Pacific-8 teams, Washington improved its record to 13-3 by thumping Seattle for the second time this season, 9179; Stanford's Claude Terry beame the school's third highest scorer as the Indians trouned the Air Force 92-66 and Washington State handed Nevada-Reno its 16th loss of the season 106-65.

San Jose State, currently one of the hottest teams on the West Coast, edged San Diego State 65-63 on Don Orndorff's layin with 54 seconds remaining in overtime. It was the first PCAA win for the Spartans in three years and their third upset victory in the last four games.

St. Mary's turned back the University of Portland 94-90 Saturday night to snap a four-game losing streak.

In the Far Western Conference, San Francisco State remained in first place with a 4-0 record by defeating Hayward State 77-62. In other FWC games, Humboldt State upended Sonoma State 84-69, Sacramento State beat Stanislaus State 97-80 and UC Davis tumbled UC San Diego 70-66.

Santa Clara center Mike Stewart tallied 18 points and plucked 16 rebounds to lead five players in double figures. USC outscored the Broncos by one basket but Santa Clara hit on 29 of 38 from the free-throw line compared to 17 of 20 for the Trojans.

Snead Wins Senior Golf Tournament

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — It's been nine years since Sam Snead played in his first PGA seniors tournament after turning 50.

The 59-year-old from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., won the seniors trophy for the fifth time Sunday by posting a two-under par 286 for the 33rd annual event on the tough east course at the PGA National Club. He got an assist of sorts from Julius Boros, 51, the defending champion, and Tommy Bolt, 53, who both bogeyed the final hole.

Boros of Miami and Bolt of Sarasota, Fla., 297, 70 in a second-place tie after holding a three-stroke edge over Snead when the final round began.

"I would have to say that I'm very fortunate," said Snead, who pocketed $4,000 for the win. "Julius just plain gave it to me."

Snead was far from satisfied with his putting, which produced two bogeys and a double bogey on the first three holes of the back side in the final round.

"It was a combination of nerves, bad strokes and I'm blind," Snead grinned.

The double bogey came on the 12th hole.

Reds Sign Sinatro

CINCINNATI (UPI) —The Cincinnati Reds announced today catcher Grey Sinatro of West Hartford, Conn., their No. 1 draft choice in the regular phase of the winter draft this month, has signed a 1972 contract.

Rebounding Record Falls In Laker Win

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain added another footnote to the Los Angeles Lakers' fabulous season Sunday night as he set his seventh National Basketball Association record.

Chamberlain, who helped the Lakers to a pro-record 33 consecutive victories and the best record in the NBA this season, shattered Bill Russell's career rebounding record as he pulled down 27 in a 153-131 rout of the Portland Trail Blazers.

Chamberlain, who scored 27 points, stretched his 12-year rebound total to 21,734 to surpass the 21,721 mark set by Russell, the former Boston star. The 7-feet-2 Laker captain broke the record on his 12th rebound of the game and was presented with the game ball and a wooden backboard with his name engraved on it.

Four Laker players combined for more than 100 points as Los Angeles came withing one-point of a club scoring record. Jerry West had 29 Gail Goodrich 28, Chamberlain 27 andJim McMillian 22. Stan McKenzie had 22 and Larry Steele added a career-high 21 for Portland.

In other NBA Action, Milwaukee downed Baltimore 116-112, Chicago beat Detroit 109-99, Boston trounced Philadelphia 130-114, Buffalo edged Cleveland 99-98 and Phoenix shaded Atlanta 105-103.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 39 points and Jon McGlocklin hit a breakaway layup with seven seconds left to lead Milwaukee over the Bullets. McGlocklin took a rebound in the Baltimore end and drove the length of the court for the layup that put the game out of reach.

The victory was Milwaukee's 10th straight and snapped Baltimore four-game winning streak. Archie Clark led the Bullets with 24 points.

Chet Walker scored 29 points as Chicago beat the Pistons for its seventh victory in the last eight games. Bob Love added 20 points for the Bulls while Bob Lanier was high man for Detroit with 24.

John Havlicek's 33 points helped overcome a 41-point effort by Billy Cunningham and led the Celtics over Philadelphia. Dave Cowens hit seven consecutive shots in the third period and finished with 27 points and Havlicek hit 11 of his points in the same period to break open the game.

Walt Hazzard scored Buffalo's last eight points, including the winning basket with five seconds left, as the Braves edged Cleveland. Hazzard put in 20 of his 26 points in the second half and hit the winning jump shot after Butch Beard's steal had given Cleveland a 9796 lead. Charlie Davis' 25-foot jumper for Cleveland hit the rim at the final buzzer.

Phoeniz blew a 21-point lead in the final quarter but managed to hold off Atlanta. Connie Hawkins, Clem Haskins and Neal Walk each scored 21 points for Phoenix while Walt Bellamy and Lou Hudson combined for 50 for the Hawks.

Bantams Gain 0-0 Tie With League Leaders

John Rotor provided shutout goaltending as the Marin Amateur Hockey Club bantams tied undefeated, league-leading San Francisco over the weekend, 0-0. The league-leading pee wees defeated Eastridge, 9-5, and the squirts whipped San Francisco, 5-2. The mites lost to Eastridge, 12-0.

A's Sign Davis

OAKLAND (UPI) —Tommy Davis, who led the team in hitting with a .324 average last season, outfielder George Hendrick, catcher Larry Haney and rookie first baseman Gonzalo Marquez have signed 1972 contracts with the Oakland Athletics.

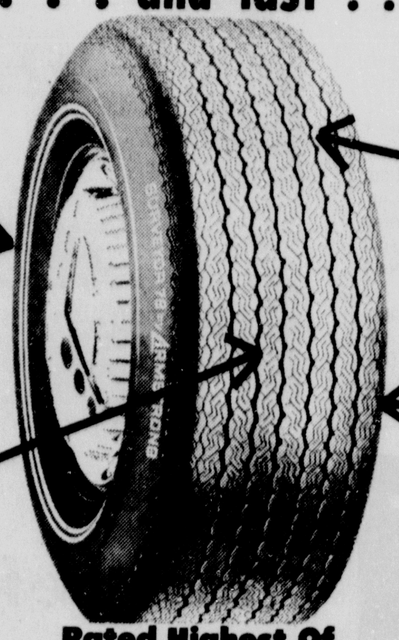
On a cost-per-mile basis, Surveyor 78 would rate favorably with any tire made in the United States. Surveyor 78 is a superbly engineered tire using the highest quality rubber compounds.

GREAT MILEAGE
Surveyor 78 can double the mileage ordinary tires deliver. In extensive testing this tire has not been surpassed in mileage it delivers by any domestic tire and compares favorably with imported tires using steel re-inforcing belts.



GREAT TRACTION
Double belts of fiberglass under tread function as a semi-rigid platform to keep all grooves open and the pre-stressed buttress forces the shoulder rib to stay open. Thus eliminating high speed distortion.

GREAT HANDLING & RIDING
Surveyor 78 has superb cornering, tracking and braking. Double fiberglass belts combined with non-stretchable super polyester cord eliminates flat spotting or "Morning thump." It will give you a velvet-smooth ride — very quiet and humless.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Why Aren't His Dividends Larger?

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold 20 shares of Sears, Roebuck (NYSE) which pay me $7 quarterly in dividends. How, at that rate can anyone derive enough to live on from common stocks? Why aren't my dividends larger?—E.E.

A. Your investment returns a modest 1.5 per cent, $31 annually in dividends, including the year-end extra, on $2,000 in capital. Savings certificates of deposit would pay $120 in annual interest and utility bonds about $150. However, neither of these investments could offer capital appreciation commensurate with that demonstrated by Sears over the years.

Although you neglect to say how long you have held your shares, if they were bought 10 years ago, your investment has appreciated 173 per cent; if five years ago, 168 per cent. In just the past 12 months, Sears stock has appreciated 26 per cent. In other words, you must compare the entire investment picture, not just one aspect of it. Rather than distribute a large share of earnings to shareholders in the form of dividends, Sears plows earnings back into the company in order to further the growth trend.

Common stock portfolios are highly flexible. If your goal is income, yields of 6.5 per cent are attainable with minimal risk from utility and other selected issues. Thus, since income is your primary concern, Sears, a growth issue, is not your best choice.

Q. I hold 3,000 shares of Idaho Silver (OTC) based in Wallace, Idaho. I have not had a shareholders report for four years. Letters to the company have been unanswered. Is there any way to compel them to reveal to stockholders the company's financial and operating condition?—J.S.

A. If shares were registered with the SEC when issued you could, through that agency, exert pressure on the company. If not, and I suspect this is the case, write to the secretary of the state of incorporation. An annual report should be filed with his office. Pink sheet quotes on your shares are around 15 cents bid.

Redwood Bank Set A Stock Dividend

Redwood Bank, San Rafael, has declared a 5-per-cent stock dividend payable Feb. 18 to holders of common stock of record on Jan. 28.

Redwood increased its net income 99.1 per cent to $349,610 in 1971 from $175,587 in 1970. Reflecting the increased number of shares outstanding from the 5-per cent stock dividend in 1971 and the recent three-for-two stock split, earnings per share increased to $1.28 in 1971 from 65 cents in 1970.

Norris Industries Sets Income Mark

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Norris Industries has reported record net income for the 12 months ended Dec. 31 of $15,714,000, or $3.63 per common share, representing a 34 per cent increase over the $11,765,000, or $2.68 per share for 1970.

Sales were $272,430,000 for 1971 compared to $251,270,000 for 1970.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Preference Income Taxed At 10 Per Cent If Over $30,000

Tax Preference income is taxed at 10 per cent. However, this does not apply to you unless you have a total of tax preference income in excess of $30,000 and the income tax for the year.

The 10 per cent minimum tax applies for 1971 and thereafter (except excess investment interest only to 1972).

Chances are that only the first six of the tax preference items would apply to the individual taxpayer.

1. Excess investment interest. The Interest you pay for your investments in excess of the income, less the other expenses of the investment.

2. Capital Gains. The untaxed half of your long-term capital gain income is a preference income item.

3. Accelerated depreciation on real property. The excess of accelerated depreciation on buildings and other depreciable real property over straight line is a tax preference item.

4. Personal property subject to a net lease. The excess of accelerated depreciation over straight line is a tax preference item.

5. Bargain element in stock options. The difference between the stock option price and the fair market value at the time of purchase is, in come cases, a tax preference item.

6. Percentage depletion. The allowable depletion less your adjusted basis of the property at the end of the prior year is preference income.

7. Excess amortization of pollution control facilities and railroad rolling stock.

8. Excess bad debt deductions of financial institutions.

In addition, there are special rules for:

1. Estates and trusts and common trust fund participants

2. Tax-option corporations.

3. Regulated investment companies and real estate investment trusts

If you will have any of these tax preference items and the total amounts to $30,000, be sure to study these new rules.

A good source of information for the average taxpayer is the Internal Revenue Service book "Your Federal Income Tax 1972 Edition." This book is well indexed and written in understandable English. It is the biggest bargain in taxation today and is sold by the Internal Revenue Service for 75 cents and the cost is deductible.

If this book does not answer your question, then you should consult your attorney or accountant immediately. His fee is deductible.

Gainers Outnumber Declines

NEW YORK (UPI) — More issues advanced than declined on the New York Stock Exchange today. But popular market averages didn't fare as well, as profit taking appeared after two days of sharp advances.

The news background provided little incentive for investors, although there still was an over-all feeling of optimism among investors regarding economic prospects for this year.

Shortly before the final bell, the Dow Jones industrial average was off 4.21 at 902.17. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.14 at 104.01. Of the 1,733 issues on the tape, however, 786 advanced and 625 retreated.

Turnover of around 18,000,000 shares fell sharply from 25,000,000 shares traded Friday.

Oil stocks traded on both sides of previous closings. Electronics showed scattered strength, while steels, motors, and chemicals generally traded in fractions.

Prices were firm in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Space Aide Aims For Money-Saving Reusable Shuttle

By ROBERT C. COWEN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — To America's top space official, this is the decade to make orbital know-how pay off on earth. This is the decade to prepare for the long-term space future.

When he was sworn in as administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) last April 27, Dr. James C. Fletcher took over an agency that had passed its peak of popularity and funding. Undaunted by that prospect, he feels challenged to help America work out a continuing, fruitful program in space.

Discussing this in an interview here, he said:

NASA will focus more on "useful" satellites and less on glamour missions in the 1970s.

Developing a reusable shuttle to carry men and satellites into orbit relatively cheaply will enable America to get the most for its space dollar in the 1980s and 1990s.

Not to develop the shuttle would risk losing hard-won space-flight capability.

The outlook for joint space flights with the Russians seems promising.

Dr. Fletcher outlined his views as follows:

Q. What do you have in mind when you talk about using space technology to help solve problems on earth?

A. For the next few years, we may have fewer of the more spectacular explorational missions, especially the manned missions, which are the most expensive. We will focus more on things like communications satellites, weather satellites, earth resources survey satellites.

NASA is not an operating agency. We carry out basic research and demonstrate feasibility. But we don't put a technology into commercial operation. So in communications satellites we are talking about only a demonstration of direct broadcasting of television, direct from the satellite to a community or even a home antenna. The next ATS (applications technology satellite) will be oriented that way. It will broadcast experimentally to the region of the Rockies and Alaska.

To do this, we have to go to a relatively big satellite with large power and a big antenna. With it, we could beam programs directly to individual homes. But since this will be a demonstration, we will work through the educational television network and with a few groups who are not isolated, such as on certain Indian reservations.

Q. Does this move in the direction of government-operated broadcasting? Does this raise a basic policy issue?

A. Yes, it does. But it's not a new issue. It has been raised already. For example, the Ford Foundation raised it some years ago with proposals for public broadcasting. The direct TV satellites only renew that question.

Q. Are other countries interested?

A. This is not quite so exciting an aspect of space technology in this country as elsewhere, say in India or Canada, where TV landlines are not so widely established. Worldwide, there has been more interest in this than in almost any other aspect of our program.

The interest is on a par with that of the ERT satellite (earth resources technology). In general, different countries have different degrees of interest in these things. Countries with vigorous mineral exploitation and agricultural development are interested in ERT satellites (which help map their resources or alert them to crop disease). Countries with underdeveloped communications and education, such as India, are keenly interested in the broadcasting satellites.

Q. And weather satellites?

A. New, sophisticated instruments will open a new era in weather observing. They give hope that we can get a really world weather observing network going.

Q. Any other earth-oriented prospects?

A. There's one I'm hesitant to talk too much about. We really don't know what will come of it. That's processing materials or carrying out other industrial operations in zero "G" (weightlessness). It sounds far-fetched at first. But it may well be that many things could be done better in zero "G," such as preparing really pure materials. We will try this in the Skylab manned space station program. If it works with men doing it, there are cheaper ways we could do it without men.

Q. Should we have a second Skylab? Plans for this were dropped in favor of developing a shuttle?

A. I think a second Skylab would be a very good thing for the country. But I'm not sure the budget needed for both a Skylab and the shuttle would be salable. The shuttle is more important in the long run. Not to do more of the Skylab sort of thing will be bad for prestige. The Russians will be doing much more than we will. I'm sure there will be criticism from Congress and the public.

Q. If we dropped the shuttle, we could do many things, including more Skylab missions, within your present budget ($3.298 billion for fiscal 1973). But we could end up in, say 1980, with no shuttle and no real route to the space flight future. Is that what you're saying?

A. Without the shuttle, the budget level we're talking about is dead-ended. With the shuttle, it opens many possibilities. We can do all the things we would like to do with big boosters but can't do because they are too expensive.

Opponents say there are no presently defined requirements for the shuttle. The fact is, the shuttle is the only way to ensure America's space flight future.

Opponents say that having the shuttle will bring pressure to spend extra money in the 1980s. Having the shuttle does not require us to spend extra money. It only gives us the option of doing many things. We could have the same budget level in the 1980s which we have now and we could do many more things with it than we will be able to do if we don't develop the shuttle.

With the shuttle, and with the present budget level, which is about half of NASA's peak budget level in the past, we could do virtually all those things we have talked about doing in this century.

We could go back to the moon and establish crude bases. These would be storage igloos that would help explorers live and work up there for some time, making their own oxygen and so forth. We could establish a permanent space station. We just might be able to send men to Mars and get them safely home. However, that just squeaks into this century at best.

Q. Are we in danger of losing our space flight capability?

A. The Apollo production line is shut down. We have Apollo hardware left. But the production line is down and we can't really start it up again. Why? Because hundreds of thousands of people, let's say 200,000, are dispersing into other jobs, other organizations. We have the Apollo plans. But a good bit of our success has been in the know-how, in the procedures we developed. We could assemble a nucleus of people who know these things within NASA. But that's about all.

So we have destroyed our industrial base as far as Apollo is concerned.

Q. Is all our space know-how at risk?

A. I differentiate between Apollo and the rest of the space program, which is about half of NASA's effort. That is on an even keel. Our hope is that our Apollo capability will shift into the shuttle. But all of the scientific satellite teams are intact, all of our ground tracking is intact, and so forth. These things are not threatened.

Q. Could we do more if we shared costs with other countries? What progress is there toward international cooperation?

A. The European cooperation negotiations are going well. On participating in the shuttle, we have to decide what the shuttle is to be like.

Q. How are negotiations for joint flights with the Russians going?

A. It looks as though we can do it technically. With existing hardware, we could do a docking in something like 1974 to 1975.

Q. Many American scientists would like missions to send instrumented probes to Jupiter and beyond, the so-called grand tour of the outer planets. What are the prospects?

A. It's an excellent program. It has all the features of a major unmanned exploration that you could want. It didn't get a good reception in Congress, although Congress gave us some more money for it this year. The scientific community is still debating whether it would prefer an intensive Jupiter and Saturn explorational program or some fort of grand tour to other planets as well.

To me, it would be a very exciting program.
